SENATE JOINS HOUSE, PASSING BILL ON FARMS

Gives Roosevelt Big Grant of Power.

Roosevelt and aids begin drafting bill for establishment of controlled capitalism in industry. Measure may be introduced in congress before end of week. Details on page 7.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—[Special.]—Unprecedented power over the farms and finances of the United States will be President Roosevelt's by tomorrow night.

Final congressional action on the omnibus farm relief-farm mortgage-inflation bill was taken today. The senate agreed to the report on the measure by the conference committee of the two houses.

Signed by Vice President Garner and Speaker Rainey, the bill is expected to be ready for the President's signature late tomorrow.

Senate Agrees, 48 to 33.

A brief but energetic debate on the senate floor ended by yielding to yesterday's action by the house. By a 48 to 33 vote the senate agreed to comply with the house's insistence on the amendment authorizing the secretary of agriculture to fix farm prices at cost of production.

The senate also yielded to the house by agreeing to broaden the power of the secretary of agriculture to initiate and approve agreements for marketing farm products, without regard to the anti-trust laws, and to license the handlers of agricultural commodities. Under the bill as finally passed the secretary may include under these provisions not only the seven basic commodities embraced by the benefit and production control portions of the bill but all agricultural products processed and marketed in this country.

Follows Administration Lead.

In both instances concurrence in the house's action meant obedience to the administration. For Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has insisted on elimination of the cost of production plan. Removal of the limitation on the marketing agreement and licensing features was in keeping with the reputed intention of President Roosevelt to assist the refiners of Cuban sugar.

There was plenty of complaint over that latter amendment from the defenders of the domestic sugar industry and from those fearful of relaxing the anti-trust laws. There were cries of "treason to the farmer" over the failure to guarantee the farmer cost of production.

The bill—almost as thick in printed form as a tariff act—is divided into three main titles, and these into numerous subsections.

Farm Relief Features.

It is declared to be the policy of congress to restore to agricultural products the purchasing power they enjoyed between August, 1909, and July, 1914 (except tobacco, in which the period is made from August, 1919, to July, 1929).

Wheat, cotton, field corn, hogs, rice, tobacco, and milk and its products are declared basic commodities. In order to raise their prices the secretary of agriculture is authorized to enter into agreements with farmers to reduce acreage and production, the farmer being rewarded by rental fees paid for land taken out of production and by benefit payments for that portion of his crop required for domestic consumption.

To Supply 100 Millions.

The treasury is to provide an initial 100 million dollars with which to begin rental and benefit payments. Within 90 days taxes are to be commenced on the processing of commodities for which payments are being made. The full processing tax on any commodity is to amount to the difference between the current farm price and a price sufficient to restore pre-war purchasing power, but the secretary is to begin the levy gradually and with due regard to the effect on retail price and consumption. Processors may receive assistance from the R. F. C.

Competing commodities may also be taxed, and imports as well. Floor stocks except in retailers' hands come under the levy, but processing for home use is exempted. Refunds are provided for exports, and a method is established for lightening the tax in cases where use of a taxed commodity is being abandoned because of heightened cost.

In addition to the powers affecting only the basic commodities, the secre

GET READY TO DUCK

COAL DEALERS WIN IN FIRST RACKET FIGHT

3,000 Drivers Back on Jobs Today.

The power of the Trucking and Transportation agency, racketeering rulers of the city's coal industry, has been broken. The strike declared by the Chicago Coal Teamsters' union, which was T-N-T controlled, has been called off.

The 3,000 teamsters and hikers, who walked out Monday on the Chicago Coal Merchants' association, and since have kept 187 association yards shut down, have been ordered back to work this morning. Leaders of the striking union have renounced their T-N-T affiliation and called off their pickets.

Agree to Lower Wage.

The union leaders, moreover, have agreed to grant the Chicago Coal Merchants' association the same reduced wage scale they have heretofore allowed independent dealers who "went along" with the T-N-T. Leaders of three outlying teamster unions, affiliated with both the American Federation of Labor and the T-N-T, also have renounced the Humphries agency and allowed the reduced wage.

News of the victory of the merchants became known at the union's camp, 537 South Ashland avenue, as the business agents telephoned their men of the settlement. No word from the T-N-T, its reputed boss, Murray Humphries, being reported as "not registered" at his headquarters in a south side hotel.

State's Attorney Courtney, to whom Attorney Joseph B. Fleming of the merchants' association appealed to settle the strike, was one of the first officials to receive the news. A reporter chanced to meet him in the loop as he entered his car to be driven to his home.

Congratulates Unions.

"Yes, it's true; the strike has been called off," he said. "Both the Chicago Coal Merchants' association and the leaders of the union are to be congratulated for shaking off the racketeers. I have always stood for labor's right for collective bargaining. I believe this right has been restored to the teamsters' union now that the T-N-T has been shaken off.

"The end of this strike does not mean the end of our campaign against racketeers. Much remains to be done in other lines of trade and the T-N-T influence has not been wholly eradicated."

End of Long Fight.

Union repudiation of the T-N-T marks the achievement of a goal for which the merchants' association has been striving since last winter. The association set forth its position in a 2,000 word statement, published by authority of its president, Norman R. Elmstrom.

For twenty-five years up to December, 1931, Mr. Elmstrom stated, the association had dealt directly with the various unions in its field on wage contracts. The unions to which he alluded, and which now pledge renunciation of the T-N-T, are the Chicago Coal Teamsters, local No. 704, and Coal Hikers, local 701, headed by John Sheridan Jr., Daniel Cain and Milton Booth Jr.; local 782, headed by James G. Farmer, and locals 721, 742 and 801, headed by Fred Groth.

The Sheridan-Cain-Booth union covers the loop, north and south sides and is not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. The Farmer union covers the western and north shore suburbs and is affiliated with Sheridan's union, but not the federation. The Groth unions cover the southern suburbs and have A. F. of L. affiliations.

Find Racket Holds Reins.

At the expiration of the 1931 wage contract, President Elmstrom went on, the merchants' association was astonished to learn that the unions had delegated full power of conducting their wage negotiations to the T-N-T, a nebulous organization with unknown officers and backers. The T-N-T proclaimed an $8 scale, levied a $10 registration fee and a $1 monthly assessement on each truck, and the association, with the season mid-winter, accepted, perforce, Mr. Elmstrom said.

The contract was carried out for a year until December, 1932, Mr. Elmstrom explained, when the T-N-T announced it would grant a reduction to

A dramatic story of a love triangle was revealed last night as the prelude to a death leap by Miss Rebecca Claire Roche, attractive Northwestern university graduate, from the twenty-third floor of the Lake-Michigan building, 180 North Michigan avenue. She was 23 years old.

Less than an hour before her death plunge yesterday morning the girl had faced a dentist with whom she was enamored and his wife. At this meeting the wife had bravely offered to give up her husband to Miss Roche, but he spurned the girl.

Police Holding Dentist.

Last night police were holding the dentist, Dr. Maurice M. Restell, 37 years old, for the inquest, which is to be held this morning. It is expected that he and his wife, Hortense, will repeat their stories of the strange triangle and dramatic showdown which preceded the fatal plunge. At the inquest also will be Dr. A. C. Roche of Calumet, Mich., father of the girl, who left for Chicago yesterday after revealing that he had received a telephone summons forty-eight hours earlier that his daughter was in trouble.

The call to Dr. Roche, a physician, was made Monday night over long distance telephone by a man who said he was "Mr. McDonald of Chicago." He urged Dr. Roche to get his daughter out of Chicago as soon as possible. Dr. Roche called the girl next day and exacted her promise to return. The next he heard she was dead.

Admits Making Call.

As police began to investigate the phone mystery a man appeared at the detective bureau last night and admitted he had made the call. He said he was Edward McDonald, a friend of Dr. Restell, and that he had phoned the girl's father at Mrs. Restell's suggestion. He refused to identify himself further.

The story of the tragedy as unfolded by Dr. Restell and his wife revealed a clandestine romance which the dentist apparently had regretted and tried to end. Since February Miss Roche had worked as an assistant in the dentist's office, although he had met her about two years ago, shortly after her graduation from Northwestern. In March their romance budded.

"About two weeks ago I decided we should tell my wife that Rebecca loved me," said Dr. Restell. "Then after talking to my wife I decided to break up the affair and I told Rebecca so. Last Saturday I dismissed her from my employ."

Girl and Wife Meet.

According to the dentist, Miss Roche received the tidings tearfully. On Monday following a talk with Dr. Restell in which he urged her to go home she called at his home, 57 East Division street, and met his wife. At that time Miss Roche pleaded with Mrs. Restell to give up her husband. That same night Miss Roche got into the dentist's office and telephoned him she "couldn't stand it any longer."

At the girl's request Dr. Restell and his wife called on her in his office and found her, he said, intoxicated and crying. She had removed a window ventilator and admitted she had

ALL 7 JUSTICES AT SPRINGFIELD HOLD IT'S VOID

Law for Refunds May Be Passed.

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 10.—[Special.]—The Illinois state sales tax was knocked out today by the state Supreme court. All seven members of the court joined in the opinion declaring the act unconstitutional.

The law is now a dead letter. The general assembly may seek to pass a bill modified to cure the faults pointed out by the high court, but for the present at least retailers must cease charging consumers 3 per cent on their purchases. It is the opinion of the best informed in the capital that efforts to revive the tax bill will be fruitless.

Not to Ask Rehearing.

After he had read the opinion closely, Attorney General Kerner issued a statement indicating definitely that, in view of the unanimity and the unqualified nature of the ruling, he will not ask for a rehearing. The statement follows:

"The sales tax act was passed by the general assembly and approved by the governor for the purpose of raising money to provide relief for persons in this state who are destitute and in necessitous circumstances. Money raised under the act, not needed for relief purposes, was to be used to reduce general property taxes. As attorney general of this state it was incumbent upon me to support the constitutionality of this act and to secure a determination of this question at the earliest possible moment. This I have done.

New Act May Be Passed.

"The court held that the act was an occupation tax permitted under the constitution of this state. It held, however, that the act as passed by the general assembly provided an illegal classification in violation of the uniformity provision of section 1, article IX. of the state constitution and the equal protection clause of the federal constitution.

"The court also held that the act made a double appropriation contrary to the provisions of section 16, article V. of the state constitution.

"Merchants generally, since the first of April, have been collecting this tax from their customers with a view to paying the tax imposed by the act on the fifteenth of this month. Inasmuch as the act has been held unconstitutional no payments will be made to the state by the merchants and all merchants should use every possible effort to return to their customers the tax which they have collected from them."

Killed as Class Legislation.

The specific points upon which the bill was killed was the exemption of "farm produce sold by the producer thereof" and automobile gasoline was class legislation. Thus the responsibility for the death of the law is largely placed on the agricultural bloc under the influence of the Illinois Agricultural association because it once more sought to protect the farmer from taxation. Motor fuel was exempted by general agreement because it is covered by the 3 cent gas tax. The court also held alternate appropriation for relief or for use against school taxation void as "double appropriation" prohibited by the constitution.

The adverse decision puts an end to the hope of Gov. Henry Horner of obtaining between forty million and sixty million dollars a year from this source for the relief of the destitute. After a thorough canvass of the possibilities of raising a large amount for this charity work he, with the warm support of the late Mayor Cermak, determined that the adoption of a high sales tax was the only available method of producing the revenue.

No Statement by Horner.

Tonight there are no suggestions heard of an alternative method of relief revenue raising. In reply to a request for newspaper comment on the ruling, Gov. Horner said he had none to make. It is possible he may have something to say about further procedure after he sees the complete text of the opinion.

The lawyers here are at a loss to determine whether there will be refunds of taxes paid by retail buyers during the forty days the law was in effect. The retailers have collected the tax, which, it is estimated, already amounts to five million dollars or more. There is no legal obligation for them to repay it.

The only suggestion made is that the general assembly now pass a bill requiring merchants and other retailers to return tax moneys collected to purchasers who have receipts or other

ACTOR ARRESTED FOR KIDNAPING NANCY TORRES

Los Angeles, Cal., May 10.—(AP)—Frederico Vega, Argentine actor, was arrested tonight by two detectives on charges of kidnaping Nancy Torres, Mexican film actress, when she declined his escort. He gave his age as 28.

Miss Torres, 22, who is not related to the Mexican film star, Raquel Torres, told police she attended a dance with Vega Monday night and later went to a night club with him. They quarreled, she said, and she attempted to leave alone shortly before dawn. Vega, she asserted, dragged her into his motor car, beat her, and took her to his home in West Los Angeles.

She told detectives she finally managed to escape and fled to the home of neighbors, who summoned police.

SEIZE SUSPECT FOR DRAGGING JUDGE OFF BENCH

Le Mars, Ia., May 10.—(AP)—Martin Rosburg, 45, of Hinton, Ia., alleged by militia officers to have been the man who dragged District Judge C. C. Bradley from his bench at the start of a farm outbreak here two weeks ago, tonight was arrested at Tindall, S. D., by Sheriff Rippey of Plymouth county.

Rippey said Rosburg told him he had intended to surrender Monday, "but had been talked out of it." He said he had been traveling with Morris Cope, sought as one of the asserted leaders of the group which mauled the judge. Rosburg said he had not seen Cope since Monday, Rippey announced, when the pair parted at Riverside, S. D.

Rosburg was returned to Le Mars and lodged in the military prison camp.

ITALIAN OFFICER TO BE SHOT AS SPY BY FIRING SQUAD

ROME, May 10.—(AP)—A firing squad of military police will execute at dawn tomorrow a warrant officer of the navy who was sentenced to death last night by a special tribunal for defense of the state after conviction of revealing plans for Italian naval ports to a foreign power.

Death will be by shooting in the back. The sentence will be carried out at a medieval fort on the outskirts of Rome. Two civilians, alleged to be accomplices, one of them a girl, were sentenced to prison.

Utmost secrecy is being maintained, not even the names of the trio, who were arrested in March, being disclosed.

Loop Building Put Under Tax Receivership

The first receivership under the Skarda act for nonpayment of taxes was ordered late yesterday by Circuit Judge Harry Fisher. As a result County Treasurer McDonough this morning will take possession of the Loop-End building, 177 North State street, and collect the income from the property until 1930 real estate taxes totaling $36,466 are paid.

The receivership was bitterly contested by Attorney Thomas H. Fisher, representing Sol H. Goldberg, lessee of the property. When the judge was preparing the order Goldberg, fearful of broken leases, pleaded that he be allowed to pay $18,000 of the taxes and avoid the receivership temporarily, but his attorney would not permit him to do so.

Offers Cash in Escrow.

The lawyer offered to place the full amount of the taxes in escrow with the county treasurer pending a decision today by County Judge Jarecki on objections.

At the end of the lengthy hearing, during which the court several times asserted he would postpone appointment of a receiver if the taxpayer would pay 50 per cent, the judge finally said:

"This stubborn attitude on the part of the defendant is not to be understood. He comes in here and admits he has sufficient money to pay the entire tax, but refuses to pay even half and permit the remainder to be adjudicated.

"The city and county could not function and hundreds of millions of dollars would be withheld from the county treasurer if all taxpayers adopted the same stand. No consideration can be given a property owner who will not pay even a dollar of taxes."

Doesn't Help Unpaid."

"But we are offering to put up the whole amount of the taxes in escrow," protested Goldberg's lawyer.

"What good will that do the county, the unpaid employes?" retorted the judge. "You admit your taxes should be at least $18,000. Either pay that amount or a receiver will be appointed."

"All right, appoint a receiver," said the lawyer, turning away.

It was said a full payment of taxes will be made today after Judge Jarecki has decided the proper amount of taxes upon the building. An alternative, however, is that an appeal will be taken from Judge Jarecki's ruling.

County Treasurer McDonough announced that Joseph F. Peacock, for more than a quarter of a century real estate agent in the city controller's office, would be appointed county agent and manage the property. Notices will be mailed the tenants in the building this morning that the county has taken it into receivership.

Silent on Removal.

The county treasurer yesterday refused to comment upon reports that frequent complaints on his tardy action in collecting taxes had caused speculation about his removal from office. He said he hoped his actions within the next few days would show that he is sincere in purpose, and that he was proceeding with all possible speed to enforce the new laws speeding up collections.

McDonough made public figures showing that tax collections yesterday amounted to $992,356. The daily average of collection is rising steadily, he said. Yesterday payments were divided as follows: 1928, $19,033; 1929, $53,142; 1930, $28,592; 1931 real estate, $345,391, and 1931 personal property, $246,238.

INSULL EMBARKS ON LIGNITE MINE VENTURE NEAR GREEK BORDER

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

ATHENS, May 20.—Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities magnate, who has been an exile here since last October, left tonight to inspect lignite mines which he intends to exploit in the village of Vevi. He was accompanied by his friend and bodyguard, Peter Vanech, and several mines' department experts.

Vevi is only eighteen miles from the Jugo-Slav border, but, since the American consul general here has informed Jugo-Slavia that Insull's passport has been canceled, it will be impossible for him to cross the frontier.

Using, it is understood, British capital, Insull plans to supply fuel to Ægean and Black sea ports.

Farmer Fears U. S. Padlock on His Pet Mulley Cow

Geneva, O., May 10.—[Special.]—Capt. I. D. Howard, North Geneva farmer, still hopes he will not find Molly, his favorite cow, wearing four government padlocks some morning.

Several days ago Molly got hold of some damp wheat that had soured.

"Molly is a fool cow, like all mulley cows," said Capt. Howard. "So of course she ate all the wheat she could hold. The next morning, when I milked, the foam overran the bucket and soaked my knees. Molly had turned herself into a brewery and far exceeded the legal 3.2 beer."

proof that they were charged the 3 per cent on purchases since April 1 when the law went into effect.

The exact action of the court was that of sustaining an injunction against state officials from receiving money produced by the tax. That restraining order was issued by Judge Jesse R. Brown of the Madison county circuit court on a petition presented to him on March 29, his temporary ruling being made permanent a short time thereafter.

The action was brought in the name of Robert Irving Winter of Alton, the head of an association of merchants organized to fight the tax. The association counsel consisted of Frank G. Thompson of Mount Vernon, State Representative Leroy M. Green [Rep., Rockford], Roscoe Forth of Granite City, Roy F. Hall of Rockford, and State Representative Ira H. Streeper III. [Rep., Alton].

They faced both in the lower court and in the Supreme court Montgomery S. Winning, special assistant attorney general. Because there was only the official copy of today's decision available and there were two score newspaper men, state officials and legislators clamoring to know immediately what it was all about, Mr. Winning read the opinion and dictated a hasty summary of it as he went.

His abstract of the opinion follows:

"In an opinion filed today by the Supreme court, the court, in a procurium opinion held the sales tax act unconstitutional. All seven judges concurred in the opinion, Justices Duncan and Jones specially concurring.

"The first question presented was whether or not the title of the act expressed more than one subject. But the court held that the act expressed only one subject and did not violate the title provision of the constitution.

"It was also contended that the act violated the equal protection clauses of the state and federal constitution and uniformity provisions of section 1, article IX. of the constitution of Illinois by imposing a tax upon persons engaged in the business of selling tangible personal property at retail; the legislature designated one class upon which the tax was imposed; having designated one tax, the legislature then attempted to exclude from that class farmers selling their own products.

Held Not Uniform.

"Such exclusion results in an improper classification and the act is not uniform in its application to the class on which it operates and cannot be sustained. Likewise the act in exempting from the tax imposed the business of selling motor fuel at retail exempts without basis in fact from such a class a business indubitably belonging thereto and so violates the uniform requirements of the constitution.

"It was also contended that the act violated article III. of the state constitution providing for the separation of the three departments of government, the due process clause of the constitution, in the provisions of the act relating to this administration.

"The court, however, held that the act did not violate these provisions of the constitution. If it did, the appellee was not injuriously affected and it is not now necessary to pass upon the validity of these provisions.

"It was also urged that the act violated the due process clause of the state and federal constitution in that the act is confiscatory. But the court held that a retailer is not compelled to engage in business at a loss and his property therefore is not confiscated by the imposition of the tax upon him.

Relief Use Upheld.

"It was further provided by the act that in counties having over 500,000 inhabitants the money collected should be expended by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission providing relief to residents of such county who are destitute and for such purpose the commission should make use of and coöperate with the county or other municipal corporations charged by law with the duty of poor relief and local relief agents.

"It was not contended, however, that providing relief to citizens who are destitute is not a public purpose, and under the provisions of the act the Illinois Emergency Relief commission can use the funds coming into its hands for no other purpose. These provisions therefore do not violate due process of law of the constitution. Neither does the act amend by reference other acts contrary to the provisions of the constitution.

"It was also contended that the act was not adaptable to the denominations of United States coin and currency and is therefore unworkable. This contention was overruled because the tax is not on the consumer but on the retailer.

"It was also urged that the act violated section 6, article IX., of the constitution, which provides the general assembly shall have no power to release or discharge municipalities or inhabitants thereof of its proportionate share of state taxes. The court held that this section applies only to state taxes and therefore the provisions of the act do not violate this section. The court also held that the act did not violate section 2 of article VIII. which provides that school money must be applied to the objects for which they were made.

"It was contended next that the act violated section 16 of article V. and the court, citing a former opinion, held that the appropriation was not made for a single purpose but was made for use for either one or both of two purposes. And the appropriations are therefore void.

"In conclusion the court held that eliminating the provisions of the act which were found to be void it is not the act the general assembly passed or intended to pass and hence the act under review in whole and entire is void."

Signed by Seven Justices.

The seven Supreme court justices who signed the opinion were Warren W. Duncan, Marion; Norman L. Jones, Carrollton; Frank K. Dunn, Charleston; Warren H. Orr, Carthage; Clyde E. Stone, Peoria; Oscar E. Heard, Freeport, and Frederick R. De Young, Chicago. This probably will be the last big case passed upon by Justices Duncan and Dunn, whose terms expire this year and who are not candidates for reëlection.

The sales tax bill was introduced as an administration measure by Senator Francis J. Loughran [Dem., Chicago] on Jan. 17, was passed by the senate on Feb. 15, by the house on March 16, and was signed by Gov. Horner on March 22, taking effect at once, the imposition of the tax starting on April 1.

Mrs. Maye Grigoliet, 40 years old, 7823 South Michigan avenue, who is suing her husband, John, vice president of the Chatham Heating company, for separate maintenance, testified yesterday in the court of Circuit Judge Craig Hood.

Mrs. Grigoliet said her husband is behind in his temporary alimony payments and that she is destitute and forced to live with her friends.

Her daughter, Margaret, was forced to live with her father, because the alimony was unpaid, Mrs. Grigoliet charged, and while there found the names of 13 women who are alleged to be friends of her father. The case was continued until tomorrow.

RELIEF FACES EMERGENCY AS SALES TAX DIES

Refund of Collections Is Another Problem.

Action by the Illinois Supreme court, which ruled yesterday that the state sales tax is unconstitutional and void, directed attention last night to two problems. They are:

1. The plight of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, which had expected a revenue of forty to sixty million dollars a year from the tax.

2. Disposition to be made by merchants of the tax money which has been collected in the last forty days. In view of the court decision this money belongs to the consumers who paid it.

Funds for the relief commission are sufficient to cover needs only for the fifteen day period that ends next Tuesday. After that the commission has only $800,000 with which to go into the next period of two weeks.

However, an application is now pending with the federal Reconstruction Finance corporation for a $2,500,000 loan. If this is granted the combined sum will enable the commission to continue to care for 300,000 families on the relief rolls until June 1.

Expenditures of the commission are at the rate of approximately $200,000 a day. Of the relief roll families, 185,000 are in Cook county and 115,000 downstate.

Sees Day to Day Borrowing.

Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the commission, said yesterday that local resources had been virtually exhausted. It was believed, he said, that after June 1 the organization would have to go on a day to day basis, borrowing from the Reconstruction Finance corporation for each twenty-four hour period, until the federal relief bill which has been sent to the President for his signature goes into effect.

This bill would release an additional $500,000,000 of federal money for relief loans. It becomes effective ten days after the qualification of a federal relief director.

"Illinois," said Mr. Reynolds, "has already borrowed $55,243,721 from the government, more than any other state. Originally loans to any one state were limited to $45,000,000, but the limitation was removed because of the acute situation here.

Only $5,000,000 Left.

"Other states have also borrowed heavily and only $5,000,000 of the original $300,000,000 relief loan fund is left."

The only ray of hope in the situation, as Mr. Reynolds viewed it, lies in the prospect that there may be a slight decrease in the number of families on the idle relief funds. That is a faint ray. Until last month, when the number became stationary, there had been an average increase of 5 per cent monthly in the families cared for.

"A very slight decrease is expected in the next period," Mr. Reynolds added. "Food costs are slightly lower and fuel bills will be reduced, but the savings will not be appreciably large."

What to do with the sales tax money already collected by retailers was a puzzle to those who collected it. State street merchants, meeting in the afternoon, decided to halt collection at once, but refunds will not be made until the time limit for a rehearing before the Supreme court has expired.

John R. Thompson Jr., head of the Thompson restaurant chain, took the lead last night in announcing immediate refunds. The company has issued ticket receipts for sales taxes and these will be honored in cash on presentation. Any tax not claimed after a certain time, Mr. Thompson said, would be turned over to the relief commission.

The Walgreen company, operating a large chain of drug stores, announced that tax collection had halted, but that the manner and time of refund would not be decided until the question of a rehearing before the Supreme court had been settled. Edward Meyer, operator of two restaurants, said that with the consent of his regular patrons he was going to turn all taxes collected over to the Emergency Relief forces.

The city council adopted a resolution urging the legislature to pass a new and valid sales tax law to meet the Supreme court's objections.

Mayor Kelly said that it is fortunate the legislature is still in session so that it can begin work on a new sales tax law that will meet court approval. He said the sales tax is, in his opinion, an equitable form of taxation if properly applied.

Priest Tells of Mrs. McLean's Lindbergh Deal With Means

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—[Special.]—A Roman Catholic priest so ill he came to court in a wheelchair; a detective hugging a parcel of bright diamonds; a defendant cussing out his own lawyer. These are some of the ingredients that went today into the making of the trial, here in the district Supreme court, of Gaston B. Means and Norman T. Whitaker, charged with conspiracy to defraud Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean of $35,000 in connection with their futile plan last year to recover the kidnaped Lindbergh baby.

The Rev. Francis J. Hurney was the priest. He came from a sick bed to tell the court how he had been called to Mrs. McLean's home March 6, 1932, to sit in at a conference with her and Means, as Means received from her $104,000 with which to ransom the baby he was so confident he could recover. Then the priest traced out a pageant of promises which Means, and later Whitaker, had made to Mrs. McLean, for some six weeks.

First Promise: 48 Hours.

He told how he had accompanied Mrs. McLean and Means to Mrs. McLean's country home in nearby Maryland, where Means, he said, had assured them the baby would be returned in 48 hours. He told of the various delays, the numerous excuses which kept coming up as Means sent Mrs. McLean hopefully to her cottage at Aiken, there to receive the baby, and then on down to El Paso, where he assured her, the child would be returned, then back again to Aiken and on to Washington.

This brought the story up to April 17, when Father Hurney said he was informed by Mrs. McLean that her lawyers knew of her transactions with Means, demanded that Means return the $104,000 to Father Hurney, to be turned over to her.

Would Add $35,000.

Still hopeful of the success of the plan, however, Mrs. McLean that day told Means, who was also at the conference, that if he d give the priest the $104,000 she would try to raise an additional $35,000, which Means was to turn over to the kidnapers in return for $49,000 of the "hot" or marked money which Lindbergh had given to the kidnapers.

And that's where the diamonds came in. Unable to hand over the cash, Mrs. McLean had reached into her handbag, taken out a diamond necklace and two diamond bracelets, said to be valued at $95,000, and had urged Father Hurney to take them and pawn.

"But I had no place to keep them safely," the priest explained today, "and so I refused to accept them."

Disillusioned by Lawyers.

Mrs. McLean then turned them over to Miss Elizabeth Poe, a Washington newspaper woman. Instead of taking them to the pawnshop, Miss Poe testified today, she took them to Mrs. McLean's lawyers. The latter, Miss Poe said, told Mrs. McLean she had been duped, insisting that Means return the first money.

Father Hurney, at the instance of the lawyers, went to the Means home and received this explanation:

"Mr. Means said he had gone to his home in Concord, N. C., to get money he had been keeping there. On his way back he got to the bridge from Alexandria, Va., to Washington. It was about four in the morning, he said. And a man with a red lantern dashed into the road, stopped his car, and gave him the number 11, the code number used by Mrs. McLean in all the transactions. He told me he did not know the man, but thought that as he gave Mrs. McLean's code number, he ought to hand over the money. He said he did that."

Means Grows Impatient.

On cross examination counsel for Means brought out that the suggestion for her to raise $35,000 of "clean" money in exchange for the $49,000 "hot" money had come from Mrs. McLean herself.

Means grew more and more impatient; he kept scribbling suggestions in a notebook, passing them up to the lawyer. Finally he hunched nearer and in a whisper that whistled across the counsel table said: "Damn it, ask the questions I tell you to."

When the government rested its case Attorney J. W. Tomlinson asked the judge to instruct the jury to find Means not guilty. The judge overruled the motion. Means himself is expected to take the stand tomorrow.

"But I can't be sure that he will," Mr. Tomlinson said this evening.

62 DEATHS TOLL OF CUMBERLAND VALLEY TORNADO

Hits Tennessee-Kentucky Border.

Nashville, Tenn., May 10.—[Special.]—Sixty-two deaths were reported today in the wake of a spring tornado which swept the upper Cumberland valley along the Kentucky-Tennessee border late last night. The number of injured was undetermined.

The greatest loss of life was reported in Beaty Swamps, Overton county, Tenn., where rescuers had found 20 dead early this afternoon.

Other Counties Hit.

In Monroe and Adair counties, Kentucky, a death list of 16 was reported. Twenty casualties were reported in Russell county, Kentucky.

In Wilson county, Tennessee, 50 miles away from Beaty Swamps, two Negroes lost their lives in a heavy windstorm that swept the state.

The tornado swept away houses, barns, and trees in its path. At Beaty Swamps, all lines of communication were swept away and trees strewn along the country roads made traffic almost impossible.

Child Blown Away.

Among the dead in Russell county was Mrs. Henry Smith of Fonthill. Her child was blown away by the tornado and has not been found. In Russell Springs nearby, three houses were blown down but no deaths were reported.

Among the dead in Tompkinsville were the Rev. Roy Bedford, pastor of the Northern Methodist church, and his wife.

Two Killed in Illinois.

Mount Vernon, Ill., May 10.—[Special.]—Two persons were killed last night when a windstorm wrecked the home of Thomas Cantrell at Dale in Hamilton county. The dead are Marvin Thompson, 17 years old, and Thelma Catnrell, 10 years old.

Report Five Dead in Texas.

Brownwood, Tex., May 10.—(AP)—A violent windstorm which raged in this section tonight was reported to have caused the death of five persons at Jones Chapel, a farming settlement east of Brownwood.

ILLINOIS STUDENT TAKES HONORS IN SPEAKING CONTEST

Wooster, O., May 10.—(AP)—Harold Stark of Granite City, Ill., high school, competing for the third successive year in the finals of the national high school forensic tournament, tonight won the acclaim of his competitors by capturing the championship in oratorical declamation and second place in dramatic declamation.

Besides Stark the high school champions crowned tonight were Denton Snyder of Humbolt, Ia., in dramatic declamation; Caryl Arnold of Grand Rapids, Minn., in humorous declamation; Robert Dunham of Sioux Falls, S. D., in extempore speaking, and Gene Davis of Cicero, Ill., in original oratory.

Stark's subject in the oratorical declamation contest was "The Supreme Menace" and dealt with war. In the dramatic declamation event he spoke on "Death Takes a Holiday."

Another Humbolt speaker, Frances Bowman, was third in the humorous contest, speaking on "The Arithmetic Lesson." Mary Reilly of Rankin Township High school, near Danville, Ill., was second. Her topic was "At the Declamatory Contest."

Rachel Collins, another Cicero, Ill., contestant, won third place in dramatic declamation with "The Valiant."

Daniel Ragon, Kenosha, Wis., was third in extempore speaking.

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—Bishop William T. Manning of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of New York and Suffragan Bishops Arthur S. Lloyd and Charles K. Gilbert accepted 20 per cent salary reductions today as the 150th diocesan convention reduced the Episcopal fund budget correspondingly. Bishop Manning at present receives $15,000 a year, while the salary of each of the suffragan bishops is $10,000 a year.

Earlier President Roosevelt was reelected for another six year term as a trustee of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine at the convention which concluded its two day session at the synod house on the cathedral grounds.

NEW U. S. ENVOYS SAIL FOR POSTS AMID CEREMONY

New York, May 10.—(AP)—After Alfred E. Smith and forty-eight young women had released baskets full of carrier pigeons in a ceremony on the decks of the S. S. Washington today two new ambassadors sailed on the liner's maiden voyage to take up their posts abroad. They were Robert Worth Bingham, for the court of St. James, and Claude G. Bowers, ambassador to Spain.

The pigeons used in the farewell ceremony had been loaned by the United States army signal corps at Fort Monmouth, N. J. Each bird bore a message to the governor of one of the states. Former Gov. Smith's bird strolled leisurely along the deck after he had opened the hamper and it took considerable arm waving and "shooing" to start it on its way to Washington, D. C.

When the usual question put to all departing ambassadors to the court of St. James—about the knee breeches—was asked Mr. Bingham said:

"I had hoped you wouldn't ask that question, but as you have asked it you can say positively that I will not wear them."

He likened the subject to mother-in-law jokes.

WHEATON JURY HUNTS WINFIELD VILLAGE BOOKS

An investigation was started by the Du Page county grand jury in Wheaton yesterday to determine what has become of the records of the village of Winfield.

L. O. Thieme, village president, who was defeated for reëlection last month, was one of those who testified. Mr. Thieme said later that he had asked the help of the grand jury because no records could be found for the six years previous to his induction into office.

In the recordless period, he added, two bond issues for a total of $50,000 had been floated and he couldn't even find out who held the bonds. It is expected that the officials who held office during the six years will be called to tell what, if anything, they know of the records.

Oliver C. Atkinson, who defeated Thieme in the recent election, scoffed at the idea that anything was wrong with the village. He said Thieme was trying to make trouble because he and his faction, many of them Chicago business men living in Winfield, had been defeated by the votes of the home folks of the village.

FARM BILL FELT HERE; MILK TO GO UP 1C A QUART

Dairymen Seek Backing of U. S. for Rise.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Chicago will be the scene of the first action by the federal food administration, given power by the farm bill to fix prices. The measure now is ready for the President's signature.

Plans to apply the law were completed at meetings concluded here yesterday, attended by representatives of the dairy industry. In the first meeting held at the offices of the Pure Milk association, representing 17,800 dairymen producing milk for Chicago, details were worked out for increasing the price the farmers receive for their milk.

Cent a Quart Increase Here.

After eighteen hours of negotiations between farmers and dealers, Dr. Clyde L. King, arbitrator, announced an increase of 30 cents per hundred pounds, or about two-thirds of a cent per quart, would be allowed the farmers, above the present scale of $1.45. This means that Chicago consumers will be expected to pay an additional cent per quart for milk.

There was no evidence last night when the expected one cent increase will take effect, however, except that it might await the President's signature on the farm bill. The Milk Council, Inc., the organization of Chicago dealers, held a meeting at its headquarters in the La Salle-Wacker building, but no information was forthcoming from its officials as to what action was taken. It was said the council met to discuss the action of a delegation of ten milk producers and distributors which will leave today for Washington.

This delegation expects to enlist the new federal food administration in maintaining a fair price for milk in the Chicago area, which the majority of dairymen consider to entail a one cent retail rise.

The delegation also expects to obtain government aid in preventing local milk companies now under racketeer influences from interfering with the organized milk industry. They will take with them evidence of operations in the milk industry by Murray Humphries and other hoodlums seeking control of labor unions throughout the dairy industry.

Explain Third Cent Difference.

The difference between the two-thirds cent increase for the producers and the proposed one cent rise to the consumer, according to Pure Milk association officials, lies in the fact that the 30 cents per hundred increase applies only to 90 per cent of the basic milk production. For the other 10 per cent, bought by dealers as milk for cream or other uses, the price will be that of 92 score butter fat plus 20 per cent.

All additional milk will be paid for at butter fat prices. All increases are to be effective, so far as the producers are concerned, by May 15.

Meanwhile officials of the National Coöperative Milk Producers' federation and the American Creamery Butter Manufacturers met at the Palmer house to plan a working agreement acceptable to the industry and to the farm bill administration in Washington, in so far as butter and other milk products are concerned.

N. U. FRESHMAN WINS SELECTION TO WEST POINT

Woodrow W. Stromberg, 1228 Otto street, a freshman at Northwestern university, was appointed to the U. S. Military academy at West Point yesterday by Congressman James Simpson Jr. John K. Terborgh, 1649 Melrose street, was named first alternate, and Frederick W. Hinricks, 801 Monroe street, Evanston, second alternate.

Stromberg was selected by a military board including Gen. Frank R. Schwengel, Col. Dilier Meyers, Capt. Edward Evers, and Capt. John B. Bellinger. He was one of 300 to make application, 67 of whom took written examinations May 4 in the federal building. The twelve highest in standing were recalled for a physical and oral examination, the three named being highest.

SENATORS JOIN HOUSE IN PASSING BILL ON FARMS

Gives Emergency Powers to Roosevelt.

tary is to have power to make marketing agreements with processors, coöperatives, and handlers of any agricultural commodities or products, regardless of the anti-trust laws. The R. F. C. is to assist in the program by making loans. The secretary also may license the above persons, require them to open their records, and maintain a specified system of accounts, and may revoke their licenses, the revocation being "final if in accordance with law."

Fines are to be imposed on persons violating the secretary's orders.

The host of agents required for the administration of the act are to be chosen regardless of the civil service.

The Smith cotton-pool plan is included as an additional aid in the case of cotton, the secretary of agriculture buying at present prices all cotton held by the farm board, the crop loan bureau, and the coöperatives, and giving options on it to farmers agreeing to cut production at least 30 per cent.

The farmer receives in this fashion cotton equivalent to the amount which he agreed not to raise this year, with the expectation that cotton prices will rise and that he may make a profit on his option and on his crop.

Refinancing Farm Mortgages.

Second of the main titles is that providing for the refinancing of farm mortgages. Under it, for a maximum period of two years, the federal land banks may issue up to 2 billions of 4 per cent bonds, the interest guaranteed by the government. The bonds are to be used to refinance farm mortgages at not more than 4½ per cent, payments on principal to be held in abeyance for the first five years. Appropriations of 65 millions are made to recompense the land banks for loss of interest and to enable them to make extensions to deserving borrowers.

"A program is laid out for the liquidation of the joint stock land banks. The banks are to reduce the interest rate to 5 per cent to farm borrowers and agree not to foreclose for two years. The R. F. C. is to loan up to 100 millions to finance the program.

The R. F. C. is to advance 200 millions to the farm loan commissioner to enable loans to farmers so they may regain foreclosed property and have working capital.

The R. F. C. is to lend up to 50 millions to drainage, levee, and irrigation districts to reduce and refinance their indebtedness.

Provides Inflation, Too.

The final title of the bill embodies the Thomas inflation amendment, giving the President power to make agreements with the federal reserve banks for the purchase of 3 billions of government obligations; to issue up to 3 billions of greenbacks against which a sinking fund of 4 per cent a year is to be created; to diminish the gold content of the dollar within a 50 per cent limitation and make agreements with foreign nations looking to a stabilization of world exchange on a gold basis, devaluation of the dollar to be a possible part of such agreements; to remonetize silver at any ratio; to accept up to 200 million dollars worth of silver at 50 cents an ounce in payment of the next six months' foreign debt installments.

WISCONSIN WILL CONTROL MILK DURING STRIKE

'Holiday' Leaders Warned by Governor.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., May 10.—[Special.]—Local health officers who have broad powers under Wisconsin statutes will be the only officials permitted to direct distribution of milk during the milk strike to be called Saturday night, Gov. A. G. Schmedeman said tonight in a public statement in which he outlined his plan to provide children and invalids with dairy products.

Gov. Schmedeman will issue a proclamation tomorrow or Friday incorporating the four major divisions of his program. They follow:

1. He will request all creameries, condensaries, milk distributing plants and cheese factories to close.

2. He will charge local health officers with the duty of supervising delivery of milk and other dairy products to persons whose health would be impaired if they do not receive them.

Sheriffs Given Orders.

3. He will charge sheriffs and district attorneys with the work of permitting distribution of milk ordered by health officers without interference from strikers.

4. He will direct the state health officer to permit full flow of milk to any district after a majority of milk producers serving it have expressed a desire to withdraw from the strike.

Gov. Schmedeman said he hopes the strike will benefit Wisconsin farmers, but does not believe it will. He pointed out it may have "dire consequences" for farmers as well as all residents of the state.

State Action Outlined.

At an afternoon meeting in the capitol attended by the governor, Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the executive council; Ralph Immell, adjutant general of the Wisconsin National Guard; Dr. C. A. Harper, state health director, and local health officers from all parts of the state, the governor's plan was outlined in more detail.

State officials do not know exactly what Wisconsin farmers will do during the strike as far as out of state markets are concerned. "I can't believe that they are going to jeopardize their Chicago market by shutting off milk to it," said Crowley. "Of course, we can't tell exactly what they will do."

Crowley said that for purposes of simplifying distribution of milk to children and invalids it should be put up only in quart bottles. Only those children who are 8 years old or less are to be given special privileges. Older children will be regarded as individuals whose health will not necessarily be impaired if they do not receive a daily supply of milk.

Will Operate Few Dairies.

To simplify distribution, the health officers are to take over and operate as few dairies as possible to supply the health requirements of their communities. All dealers will be given their proportionate share of milk to distribute to their consumers who are designated by the health officials to receive it. In this respect the milk business of Wisconsin will be operated as a public utility.

The state will issue to health officers certificates to be pasted on windshields of trucks to be used under physicians' directions for collection of milk. Trucks with these stickers will not be molested on the highways and will have protection of county deputies and, if necessary, the National Guard.

Ban on Strikers.

No milk will be distributed except under the orders of local health officers. Striking organizations, which have proposed to deliver milk on a coöperative system, will have no authority to do so, Crowley said. This was interpreted as an indication that the state will force these strikers to strike or sign a petition asking the state for permission to deliver milk as under normal conditions.

Three Milwaukee dairies will be taken over by the health department, bottles of all dairies will be used, but the cap on each will be inscribed "pasteurized emergency milk," Dr. Koehler stated. The filled bottles will be distributed to all dairies in proportion to their normal deliveries and they will take them from house to house as directed by the health department.

WALLACE FORESEES CENT INCREASE IN THE PRICE OF BREAD

Boston, Mass., May 10.—(AP)—An increase of about one cent a loaf in the cost of bread to consumers would result under the terms of the farm bill, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace said today.

Here to speak at the annual dinner of the Boston Flour and Grain exchange, Wallace said in an interview: "This represents an increase to the consumer of about 15 per cent and an increase to the farmer who raises the wheat of about 70 per cent. Bakers have given us assurance that the tax will not be pyramided."

The object of the farm bill, the secretary explained, was to collect from the processors of farm produce—notably wheat and cotton—a tax, to be passed on to the public.

The proceeds of the tax would be used by the government in paying rent to the farmers for those of their acres which they, in return, do not plant.

The price of a cotton shirt costing $1.50 would be increased to the consumer by about 5 cents, the secretary said.

MOTORIST PAYS FOR CRASH; CHIEF DROPS THE CASE

A charge of driving while intoxicated against a motorist who crashed into the automobile of Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker was dropped by the chief, it became known recently, after the motorist had paid the cost of the damage to the chief's car.

"That's true," said Chief Schoemaker last night. "I know it's bad policy to dismiss such charges and it will not happen again."

The accident occurred May 2 at Central Park and Milwaukee avenues. The offending driver, Michael Kuzyk, 52 years old, 2936 Milwaukee avenue, was booked promptly at the Shakespeare station by Schoemaker's chauffeur, Policeman Fred Knott.

Judge J. William Brooks continued the case against Kuzyk. The day after the crash Chauffeur Knott and Defendant Kuzyk arranged for the repair to the chief's car at Kuzyk's expense. The bill was $75. That afternoon Chief Schoemaker had the charges against Kuzyk dismissed for want of prosecution.

"I took this matter up first with Commissioner Allman," said Schoemaker. "We learned that Kuzyk was a reputable man and that he had taken three drinks the night of the accident. This and other reasons made us go easy on him."

WHEATON JURY INDICTS TORTURE BANDIT SUSPECT

Paul de Joseph, 19 years old, 1124 Milton avenue, was indicted by the Du Page county grand jury at Wheaton yesterday on four charges of robbery. Bonds were fixed at a total of $60,000, which de Joseph was unable to furnish. He and two companions, it was alleged, went to the farm home of Mrs. Sophia Kersten on April 26 and after torturing her and tying up her two children and several neighbors who were visiting the family, fled with money the victims surrendered.

CHARGE GAG LAW WHEN CODE BILL PASSES SENATE

Debt Settlement News Said to Be Affected.

Washington, D. C., May 10.—[Special.]—Charges that President Roosevelt was passing a gag law to cover up his debt negotiations flew about the senate today as administration leaders pushed through a bill demanded by the state department to punish employes giving out code matter without authorization.

In between the orations of Senators Hiram Johnson [Rad., Cal.], and Arthur R. Robinson [Rep., Ind.], both opponents of debt revision, the senate was turned into a schoolroom where Senator Bronson Cutting, [Rad., N. M.], chart on wall and pointer in hand, "parsed" the bill in question and pointed out glaring grammatical errors.

The measure was a radically revised senate version of the out and out censorship bill rushed through by the house not long ago when state department officials came dashing to capitol hill crying that publication of a proposed second book by the author of "The American Black Chamber" would offend Japan and possibly lead the United States into war.

Measure as Amended.

As amended in the senate foreign relations committee the measure provides that "whoever, by virtue of his employment by the United States, shall obtain from another or having custody of or access to, or having had custody of or access to any official diplomatic code or any matter prepared in any such code, or which purports to have been prepared in any such code, shall wilfully, without authorization or competent authority, publish or furnish to another any such code or matter, or any matter which was obtained while in the process of transmission between any foreign government and its diplomatic mission in the United States, shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than ten years, or both."

Senator Johnson charged that though the bill might be "as conventional as a wedding" on the surface, it was in reality an attempt to curb free speech.

Senator Robinson described the refusal of the state department to explain just what danger threatened.

"Gag on Public."

"President Roosevelt has been made a dictator," he shouted. "Now we are asked to gag the American people, with the debt question coming up and an effort in the offing to break down the American tariff. Europe and Japan know more about the recent conferences with foreign representatives than do the American people."

Then Senator Cutting suggested that the language be changed to:

"That whoever by virtue of his employment by the United States shall obtain and thereafter wilfully, without authorization or competent authority, publish or furnish to another any official diplomatic code, or any message or matter prepared in any such code shall, upon conviction thereof, be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than ten years, or both."

But the senate, by a vote of 30 to 42, refused to agree.

"That first 'having' ought to be 'shall have,' however," said Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], and with that dubious contribution to clarity the bill was passed.

NAZIS PUT TORCH TO THOUSANDS OF 'IMPURE' BOOKS

Works of Jews Destroyed in Great Bonfires.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 10.—Twenty-five thousand books of Jewish, Socialist, and pacifist authors went up in flames tonight in front of Berlin university. Students clad in fraternity costumes directed the literary "burning at the stake." They had collected the books from public and private libraries, using a special blacklist of "un-German" authors compiled by a Nazi literary "purification committee." Similar bonfires were held in many other cities in Germany.

The authors of books which were burned included Helen Keller, Upton Sinclair, Jack London, Ben Lindsey, Franz Boaz, and other Americans.

The names of German writers were called out as their works were tossed into the fire and tremendous boos arose from the thousands of spectators. The names of foreign writers, however, were not mentioned as their books went on the pyre.

Goebbels Addresses Crowd.

Among the German authors who received especial attention from the crowd were Heinrich Mann, Emil Ludwig, Erich Remarque, Theodor Wolff, and George Bernhard.

Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda and public enlightenment, in an address to the bonfire gathering, declared that "the period of Jewish intellectualism now has ended."

Chancellor Adolf Hitler today addressed the first united labor congress, composed of trade union delegates from all over Germany. Formerly German labor was organized in many groups with different economic programs. Hereafter labor will be subject to the will of Hitler.

"The laborer must again be made proud of his work," Hitler told the congress. "He must be freed of the stigma of the class struggle. The workers must become the all encompassing foundation for the nation."

Acclaim Hitler as "Protector."

The workers acclaimed Hitler as "the protector of the German workers' front" and promised their coöperation in enlisting brother workers who are keeping aloof from the Hitler movement. Hitler named Robert Ley, president of the Prussian state council, as leader of the "German Labor Front."

The chancellor in his appeal for a united nation stressed his own closeness to labor and lashed out at intellectuals unable to grasp "the yearning of the masses." He said that the world crisis is the result of changes in the social structure in the last 70 years, when society evolved from patriarchism to an industrialist system infested with Marxism.

"If we wanted to retaliate for Marxist crimes and for the revolution of 1918 we would be forced to kill Marxists by the tens of thousands," he cried.

He said he had been chosen by fate to act as the defender of the rights of the masses and that the resurrection cannot be accomplished quickly, but that this generation must realize it is building for the future.

Seizes Socialist Property.

Hitler today executed a coup de grace to the Socialists by confiscating all property of the party, all its newspapers, and all property of the former Republican semi-military organization, the reichsbanner. The government alleged that an investigation of books of the labor unions had showed that the Socialist party and the reichsbanner received undue payments from the labor unions.

At Allenstein today Rudolf Galinowski, communist leader, seized a revolver lying on a desk in court where he was being examined and started firing. A storm trooper shot him down. The court immediately ruled that the storm trooper had shot in self-defense.

The number of idle in Germany decreased during April by 268,000 to 5,330,000, which is 409,000 less than a year ago, according to figures made public today. Since the peak of the winter unemployment in February, the number of idle has decreased by 717,000.

More than 25,000 Chicago Jews yesterday joined in a parade and demonstration protesting against persecution of their race in Germany by the National Socialist party of Chancellor Adolph Hitler. The demonstration was staged especially as an expression of protest against the burning of the works of Jewish authors by Nazis, and to condemn Hitler's choice of Joseph Goebels as Germany's ambassador to A Century of Progress.

The parade formed at Roosevelt road and Ashland avenue, and included men and women from every European state. Children and gray-bearded men with skullcaps marched side by side, bearing banners. All professions were represented.

Rain Speeds Up Meeting.

The parade moved east in Roosevelt road to Michigan avenue, then north to Congress street where the mass meeting was held in the plaza at Grant park. When the first marchers reached Grant park others were still forming into line at the starting point. The meeting was opened an hour after the first groups arrived, without waiting for those still coming, because rain began to fall.

Jacob Seigel, organizer of the protest movement and editor of the Jewish Daily Forward, declared that Hitler's persecution of Jews is a manifestation of militarism and is a prelude to war. Of the burning of the books, he said that, while the books may be destroyed, their ideals can never be seared out of Jewish minds.

Other speakers amplified these statements. They were Morris Seskind, representing the Federation of Jewish Unions; Rabbi Benjamin Marcus, who spoke in Yiddish; Benjamin Good, Communist, and Dr. Rubin Horowitz, representing Zionists.

65,000 Parade in New York.

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—Led by an Irishman, 65,000 Jews paraded this afternoon in a protest against the policies of the Hitler government in Germany. The huge parade, which marched down Fifth avenue, was organized by the American Jewish congress. Christians joined in the march.

GERMANY'S SIDE OF CASE

Germany was forced to accept Hitlerism to escape less desirable "isms" which threatened its national ideals, Ellery Walter, world traveler, author, and foreign correspondent, told members of the Association of Commerce at the La Salle hotel yesterday.

Mr. Walter said Hitler's persecution of the Jews was not directed against the German Jews who for generations have been essentially German, but against an influx of 150,000 Jews from the east who fostered communism.

"Many innocent Jews have suffered in the general persecution but the conditions have been greatly exaggerated in America," said the speaker. "Hitler is not alone in his hatred of the eastern Jews, as his power over the German people attests. The German people hate these Jews, just as they hate the French for the treaty of Versailles and the Poles for the Polish corridor.

"But they realize that the old Jewish banking families have done great things for Germany and do not persecute them. The banking element in general is opposed by the German middle class because too many of them ar. like Charles H. Mitchell, who is not a Jew."

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, May 10.—The wearing of a tophat in Austria now renders one liable to arrest.

A student dressed in a plusfour suit surmounted by a tophat was halted today by a policeman, who said:

On the student's replying "You can't arrest me for wearing a tophat," the policeman retorted, "Can't I?" and he took the student to the police station.

The explanation of this incident is that the Nazis, forbidden last week to wear their brown shirt uniforms, adopted tophats as the party dress.

The Tenants "Hear a Cat"; Find Abandoned Baby Boy

Residents of a flat building at 1053 Dakin street thought they heard the mewing of a cat last night in the front hallway. But when William J. Thomas, the janitor, investigated he found a baby boy crying in a basket.

AGED ECCENTRIC AND SECRETARY ARE FOUND SLAIN

Bodies Are Discovered in Subcellar Office.

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—The subcellar office of the wealthy and eccentric Edward Albert Ridley in Allen street, where a man was murdered two years ago, was the scene of a second and third murder today. This time it was the 88 year old Ridley himself, known all over the east side for his odd dress, his reputed millions and his Whitmanesque beard, and his secretary, Lee Weinstein, who were the victims.

They were killed in the same damp, poorly lighted, littered and musty room where, two years ago, Herman Moench, the only other secretary Ridley ever had, met a similar fate. Weinstein was shot five times and the old man was beaten to death.

Police Without Clews.

The death of Moench had remained one of New York's murder mysteries, and today it began to appear that the deaths of Ridley and his new secretary also would remain unsolved. The police found no information leading them either to the motive or the murderers, unless an old, high swivel stool, which apparently had been the instrument of Ridley's death, should give up tell tale fingerprints.

Robbery was discounted as a possible motive. The pockets of the old man, containing a few business papers, $1.85 and a gold watch, had not been disturbed. Neither had the pockets of Weinstein. Two old safes in the office had not been touched.

In his manner of dress, habits and appearance, Ridley was like a character out of Dickens. In 1901, when he and his brother Arthur sold out a department store founded by their father, Edward Albert Ridley, he established an office in the sub-basement of 63 Allen street.

Far from Elevated Noise.

The little room was forty feet below the sidewalk. No sound penetrated there from the rattling Second avenue elevated.

At first Ridley, attended and aided by Moench, who had started as an errand boy in the department store, found the dampness uncomfortable. So he wore rubbers over his shoes. In time they came to be as necessary to him as his shoes, and he wore them all the time.

The cavelike office was several degrees too cool for comfort all year round. So Ridley added an overcoat to the apparel that he wore perennially. A man who had been raised in the tradition of changing styles for others—Edward Ridley & Sons department store was a fashionable one—he never changed his own. Always he wore a derby hat, clamped down over his flowing white hair.

Ridley spent a good part of every day in his office. He came in from Fanwood, N. J., on an early train. He had lived in the same boarding house in Fanwood 35 years. Weinstein, 44, lived in Brooklyn with his mother and a sister.

When Moench was murdered on Jan. 3, 1931, Weinstein and his brother, Harry, operated a garage over the office. At that time the old man had entered his place as usual and sat down at his desk. Later, getting up to get a ledger, he stumbled over Moench's feet, sticking from behind the desk, where he had fallen after he had been shot twice.

Ridley needed a new secretary and he liked Lee Weinstein, so the brothers gave up the garage and Lee went to work for him.

LEAGUE SHOCKED BY DECLARATION OF WAR IN CHACO

GENEVA, Switzerland, May 10.—(AP)—Paraguay's declaration of war against Bolivia today caused a sensation here. It was the first war declaration since the league of nations came into existence.

The league, therefore, was confronted by an unprecedented situation. It was pointed out that, since both Paraguay and Bolivia are members of the society of the nations, they had undertaken to forswear war.

The question arose as to whether a special assembly should be convoked to examine the justification of imposing economic and financial penalties on the combatants.

BOY, 16, ON TRIAL FOR MURDER, HEARS "CONFESSION" READ

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—The father and mother of 16 year old Harry Murch went on the witness stand in the Queens County court today in an effort to save him from the electric chair for the murder of 12 year old Willie Bender.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel C. Murch, testified that Harry was really 15 years old, not 16, and by this means they hope to make him subject to juvenile laws rather than capital punishment.

Harry himself is expected to testify tomorrow and to repudiate a confession which the district attorney read into the testimony today. According to this confession, Harry admitted that he had slain Willie Bender to get revenge on Willie's father. The "confession" quoted Harry as saying that Willie's father had been accusing him of committing a robbery and of striking a woman on the head. The account led up to a scene in a vacant house where the killing occurred. The confession in this regard continued:

Q.—Tell us what happened from then on. A.—I told him to put his hands behind his back, and he did it, and I tied his hands and his feet, and I put the rag around his mouth, and I put the rags around his eyes, and I put him on the floor.

Q.—And then, after you had tied his hands and feet and put the rag over his mouth and eyes and he lay on the floor, what did you do? A.—I stabbed him.

LOVE DRAMA IS BARED IN GIRL'S LEAP TO DEATH

intended killing herself, the dentist said. During the talk Miss Roche agreed to give him up, but then changed her mind. Dr. Restell said he and his wife remained with Miss Roche until after midnight and that he took her to her hotel room at 1553 North Clark street at 3 a. m.

"Miss Roche came to my office again Tuesday," continued Dr. Restell. "She pleaded she loved me too much to leave me. She said she would sooner die. At 10:30 Tuesday night I was called at home by an elevator boy who said there was a sick girl in my office. My wife and I hurried there. We found Miss Roche on the couch, asleep and intoxicated.

Wife Watches Girl.

"I left, but my wife stayed to watch her because we couldn't arouse her from her stupor. At 4 a. m. Miss Roche awakened, began raving, and tried to jump out the window. My wife stopped her.

"My wife told her not to jump, that if she wanted me she could have me. At 9 a. m. Wednesday I went to the office, and my wife left. At 10 o'clock Miss Roche was dead."

When Miss Roche leaped Dr. Restell was in another part of his office talking to Lawrence Range, the building manager. Dr. Restell's attention was attracted by the sound of running water in the private room of the office. Investigating, he found the window of that room open. A few moments later Mr. Range told him the girl had jumped from the window. Dr. Louis W. Bremmerman, who saw the girl leap from a window of another office, said that Miss Roche plunged headfirst to her death.

Mrs. Restell's Story.

Mrs. Restell corroborated the story of her husband, and said she had first learned of the affair between her husband and Miss Roche about a week ago.

"I told my husband he would have to choose between me and the girl," said Mrs. Restell. "The last time I saw her, just before she leaped, I asked him: 'Do you want me or her?' He didn't answer and Miss Roche said: 'I don't want him any more.' Then I went home."

Mrs. Restell then told about the visit of Miss Roche at her home on Monday afternoon.

"She told me she loved him," said Mrs. Restell, "and didn't want to give him up, that she knew my husband didn't love me any more, and that he would be happier with her if I should give him up. I told her I loved my husband and wouldn't give him up."

Miss Roche was known at Northwestern as a brilliant scholar. She was a member of the Anonian literary club. Letters found in her room revealed other romances. Two letters also were found written to her by Charles F. Fraker, a former Evanston campus teacher, and Thomas J. Corgan of Hinsdale.

Identify Body of Girl Killed in Loop Plunge

The body of a young woman who leaped to her death from the tenth floor of a building at Madison and Dearborn streets Tuesday afternoon was identified yesterday as that of Miss Tessie Salusky, 27 years old, 3222 Mossprait street. Her brother, Peter, 21 years old, told police he knew of no motive for her act. She had no love affairs, he said. For the last month she had been working as a maid, he said.

TRIBUNE WRITER FINDS CHACO WAR IS THE REAL THING

Bullets and Snakes Take Toll of Thousands.

A few hours after Paraguay declared war on Bolivia yesterday, the first actual eyewitness stories by an American correspondent of South America's jungle battleground reached The Tribune office. The remoteness of the scene of the war is evidenced by the fact that stories written on April 3 and despatched by courier and round about mail routes to avoid censors did not reach Chicago until more than five weeks later. Mr. Patric is the first correspondent of any neutral nation who has been permitted to visit the battle front. Another story will appear tomorrow.

BY ANTHONY PATRIC.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUNOZ, Gran Chaco, Bolivia, April 3.—[By Courier and Mail to La Paz, Bolivia.]—From a distance the eleven months old struggle between Bolivia and Paraguay for possession of the Gran Chaco may seem to be a comic opera affair. That illusion vanishes close at hand.

After criss-crossing the entire territory by airplane and truck, after visiting base hospitals filled with wounded and fever stricken men, after witnessing companies of soldiers cut down like weeds in one of the Chaco's bloody and spectacular battles, and after existing for several hours in a front line mudhole waiting for a Paraguayan machine gun nest to quit spitting bullets, the conclusion is inescapable—this is a real war.

All the Elements of War.

It is no common, garden variety of war. The forbidding character of pear shaped Chaco territory itself precludes that. This war has machine guns, tanks, trenches, big guns, aerial battles, and everything else that goes with a real war. Bullets, disease, and thirst have slain thousands. But besides all that, it has jungles and jaguars, swamps and poisonous 15 foot snakes, mosquitoes and fever, a scanty water supply, and a terrain which baffles virtually all human attempts at travel.

Despite these obstacles to war waging, both countries have dived headlong into the conflict. About 60,000 troops are now engaged. Men of both nations are rushing to join their colors.

This feeling of grim determination to defend the national honor, punish the "aggressor" nation and perhaps win for the fatherland the great wealth believed to be hidden in the Chaco was especially evident on a trip taken by this correspondent in that part of Bolivia which skirts the Chaco battleground to the north and west.

I traveled by air from Puerto Suarez westward to Santa Cruz, an ancient capital of the Gran Chaco, stopping at such picturesque places as Fort Robore and San Jose. Farm work is being carried on as intensively as in peace time. In fact, Bolivia, recognizing its dependence on agriculture in war time, has released the necessary number of men from the army to keep up the farm production.

Bolivians Are Confident.

Santa Cruz is a typical Spanish town which has preserved the character it acquired during the time of Spanish domination. It is an important link in the long lifeline of transportation which connects Bolivian sources of supply with the front. Bolivian officers are to be seen strolling along the streets or congregated at coffee houses. They belong to the Army Service corporation, and their job is to keep the supplies moving along.

Santa Cruz is connected by dirt roads with the rear bases of Bolivia's Chaco army, of which Villa Montes, to the south, is the most important. Transportation, due to the almost primitive condition of the roads during the rainy season, is most difficult. A huge fleet of American made motor trucks, however, has been extremely useful in keeping the stream of arms, ammunition and food supplies flowing.

Villa Montes, compared with Munoz and Ballivian, may be considered a comfortable city. It offers a few good baths and a variety of dubious restaurants, which supply meals for less than the price of a bad song. Fifteen cents is usually enough to pay for a good dinner.

At Villa Montes, however, the war becomes more apparent. Airplanes arrive loaded with wounded soldiers. Troops pass through for the front, showing the same "sangfroid" as a traveling salesman about to leave on his weekly trip. And there is a well equipped hospital filled with wounded and sick soldiers.

Leaving Villa Montes, I flew on to Munoz, the Bolivian army headquarters in the Chaco. I was the first foreign correspondent to arrive there.

At Munoz the war zone has begun. One knows it at once. There are no stores, cafés, or private residences. The general staff owns everything and directs everything.

Where South American Nations Wage War

Map shows location of Gran Chaco, a vast area in South America, for which Paraguay and Bolivia are fighting. Paraguay yesterday declared war against Bolivia after 11 months of battling in "unofficial warfare." Paraguay's declaration threatens, according to dispatches, to involve other South American nations. The map also shows Leticia, a territory over which Peru and Colombia are now fighting an "undeclared war."

WAR DECLARED BY PARAGUAY AGAINST BOLIVIA

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, May 10.—President Eusebio Ayala of Paraguay today formally declared war against Bolivia over the Gran Chaco boundary dispute. He also proclaimed a state of siege and notified the league of nations of his country's action.

President Ayala acted after peace negotiations which had been conducted recently by neutral South American nations had broken down. He used authority which had been voted him by the Paraguayan congress several weeks ago.

This was the first time that a war proclamation had been issued involving two South American nations since 1879, when Bolivia and Peru combined to fight Chile in a dispute over nitrate rights.

Paraguayans greeted the declaration of war with wild acclaim. Excited demonstrations were staged. Crowds surged through the streets of Asuncion, the capital, singing and shouting.

Unofficial warfare in the Gran Chaco began last June and has continued, weather permitting, to the present. The two nations had been at swords' points over the territory, the disputed part of which is about the size of Illinois and Indiana, for more than fifty years.

Potential Riches at Stake.

Both countries base their claims to the territory on the centuries old administrative divisions of the Spanish colonial system, which are so ambiguous that each country is able to find substantial justification for its particular claims.

The Chaco is a wild, low lying stretch of land filled with jungles, swamps, and plains, but it also contains potential cattle ranches and possible sources of oil and metals. Its quebracho forests are valuable for their tannin production. Its location, between Bolivia and Paraguay and an outlet by way of the Paraguay river to the Atlantic ocean, of course, would make it a great asset for Bolivia.

Paraguayan officials are believed to be relying on a blockade of its foe. This would result if expected proclamations of neutrality of Argentina, Chile and other neighboring countries are forthcoming. This, it is expected, would hamper the Bolivian supplies.

Armies of the two nations are now locked in a battle near Forts Gondra and Nanawa. The battle is regarded by military observers as one of the most crucial thus far. It is estimated that casualties have totaled more than 25,000 since the hostilities began.

Bolivia Ready to Fight.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, May 10.—(AP)—Chancellor Demetrio Canelas tonight said Bolivia received Paraguay's declaration of war without surprise.

Bolivia, he said, will continue defending its rights as it has done until now within the bounds of international law. The war declaration, he added, would end the peace negotiations. The Bolivian cabinet met this afternoon to consider its course of action.

Minister of War Hertzog said the declaration of war was evidently "a demonstration that Paraguay desired to prolong the bloody struggle, thus giving the lie to her pacifist protestations." He said Bolivia was disposed to accept the challenge.

Chile in Delicate Position.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, May 10.—The Chilean position regarding the Gran Chaco has become most delicate because the principal aim of Paraguay's declaration of war, it is admitted, was to secure the closing of rail communications between the Chilean ports of Antofagasta and Arica with La Paz, thus cutting off Bolivia from the sea. All Bolivian supplies arrive by way of the Pacific and it is possible for Chile to impound them.

Apart from traditional ties of friendship with Paraguay, Chile also is angry with Bolivia for imputing unfriendly motives in the recent peace overtures. Foreign Minister Cruchaga, in a stern note to Bolivia denied bias in favor of Paraguay and warned of the consequences of rejection of arbitration.

ECONOMIC TRUCE AWAITS O. K. OF OTHER NATIONS

Britain and United States in Final Agreement.

LONDON, May 10. — (AP) — Great Britain and the United States were brought into agreement today on the terms of an immediate tariff truce and awaited similar acceptances by six other nations represented on the world economic conference organizing committee. Great Britain and the United States initialed the pact this noon.

In American circles here it was felt that the absence of replies from France, Germany, Italy, Japan, Belgium, and Norway was nothing to worry about, because all of them originally had agreed to a much stronger truce accord than the revised version which the British government finally found acceptable.

Organizers to Meet Today.

Provisional arrangements tonight called for a meeting at 3 p. m. tomorrow of the organizing group, at which approval of the truce can be formalized and it can be sent with the conferees' blessings to the governments of other nations of the world with a recommendation for their prompt acceptance.

These plans, of course, were contingent upon favorable word from the six countries. The meeting tomorrow might be delayed should one or more of the other governments suggest further alterations in the text of the agreement.

Details of the interchange between Great Britain and the United States were not completely divulged. In announcing the tentative agreement yesterday Prime Minister MacDonald said there remained "the settlement of the actual words and the protection of the essential position of both governments"—referring, apparently, to British negotiations with other countries concerning commercial agreements already under way.

Weaker than U. S. Planned.

Under the plan all nations would refrain from raising new trade barriers before the end of the world conference, during which new understandings about commerce are expected.

As it stands the project is something less than what the special American ambassador, Norman H. Davis, originally proposed, inasmuch as Great Britain's position was that she had to safeguard her right to continue negotiations for trade pacts already started. However, it was definitely stronger, according to American circles, than the form agreed upon last night by the British.

This strengthening was said to have come from suggestions cabled during the night by the American state department, which the British government accepted at noon today.

The British announcement of the agreement today spoke of America's "complete acceptance of the British formula."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., May 10.—Canada is a party to the tariff truce proposed by President Roosevelt, Premier Bennett told the house of commons today. Bennett interpreted the truce terms as involving "no increases in tariffs until after the conclusion of the world economic conference."

Polish Minister Picked to Form New Cabinet

WARSAW, Poland, May 10.—(AP)—Janusz Jendrzejewicz, minister of public instruction, was charged today with the formation of a cabinet to succeed the ministry of Premier Alexander Prystor, which resigned yesterday. The Prystor cabinet withdrew in obedience to custom because President Ignaz Moscicki finished one term and started another. It was explained that the selection of a new premier would indicate no change in Polish policy.

ROOSEVELT TO EASE CUTS IN RELIEF FOR WAR MAIMED VETS

Washington, D. C., May 10.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt announced tonight that cuts in veterans' compensation for service connected disabilities have been greater than expected and that the regulations formulated under the economy bill to govern such payments are to be reviewed and liberalized.

The announcement followed a White House conference between the President, Budget Director Lewis Douglas, and Louis Johnson, national commander of the American Legion.

The White House statement follows:

"As a result of the application of the veterans' regulations it now seems that the cut in compensation of service-connected world war veterans with specific injuries has been deeper than was originally intended. The regulation and schedules in this respect will, therefore, be reviewed so as to effect more equitable levels of payment. Careful study also will be made of the other regulations and their effects.

"By reason of the burden incident to rerating and in order that undue hardship will not be imposed upon veterans in their application for adjudication of their cases, regional offices of the veterans' administration will not be closed as has been reported, except where it has been clearly demonstrated that regional facilities are not necessary.

"It is not contemplated that government hospitals will be closed pending a careful, studious survey of the entire hospital situation. This, of necessity, will require considerable time.

"These conclusions are in line with the President's original statement that the regulations and schedules would be drafted so as to effect the most humane possible treatment of veterans truly disabled in war service."

C. E. MITCHELL U. S. TAX TRIAL TO OPEN TODAY

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the National City bank, will go on trial in the federal court tomorrow on the charge of evading payment of federal income tax for 1929 and 1930. United States Attorney George Z. Medalie will prosecute, Max D. Steuer defend, before Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard.

Mr. Mitchell has pleaded not guilty to indictments charging the evasion of $858,420.68 tax for 1929 and 1930 by making tax-loss sales of securities which the government contends were not bona fide sales.

BONUS MARCHERS ORDERED TO QUIT CAMP IN CAPITAL

Washington, D. C., May 10.—(AP)—Police acted swiftly tonight to prevent a repetition of last year's spectacular riot within the shadow of the capitol dome by ordering evacuation of the first 1933 bonus army camp.

Sharp words passed between the bluecoats and leaders of the marchers headed by Harold Foulkrod when they were told to leave a vacant lot behind the house office building.

Inspector Albert J. Headley notified the veterans that they must evacuate within 24 hours because of lack of sanitary facilities.

Heatedly, Mike Thomas of Camden, N. J., told Headley the group could be evicted "but many more are on the way." Thomas was in last year's army which was driven out by federal troops.

In view of camping arrangements provided by the government at Fort Hunt, across the river in Virginia, metropolitan police have followed a course of merely guarding city property and have not interfered with movements of the veterans.

But Foulkrod's faction of the army has refused the camp's facilities on the grounds its prospective occupants were communists. The lot they were ordered to evacuate is owned by a Baltimore development company and the Washington Terminal company, a subsidiary of the three principal railroads entering the capital.

Acids in Stomach Cause Indigestion

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from Walgreen's some Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid, and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder form—never liquid or milk) is harmless, inexpensive, and is a fine remedy for acid stomach. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no fear of indigestion.

ROOSEVELT, AIDS DRAFT PROGRAM TO AID INDUSTRY

Planned Economy Is Goal of Administration.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt began today the preparation of the legislation to carry into effect one of the most ambitious projects of his administration—the establishment of controlled capitalism in industry.

At a White House conference with administration and congress leaders the President gave consideration to several proposed drafts of the contemplated bill which is to provide the following:

1. A planned economy for industry whereby trade associations would fix minimum wages, hours of labor and prices of products subject to review by the federal government.

2. A vast program of construction of public works by the federal, state and municipal governments with funds supplied from the national treasury.

Three Secretaries Attend.

Participating in the conference were Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes, Secretary of War George H. Dern, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, Assistant Secretary of State Raymond Moley, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Rexford Tugwell, Director of the Budget Lewis Douglas, Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], Senator David I. Walsh [Dem., Mass.], Representative Joseph W. Byrns [Dem., Tenn.], majority leader of the house; Representative Robert L. Doughton [Dem., N. C.], Donald R. Richberg of Chicago, labor lawyer, and Hugh Johnson, economic expert for Bernard Baruch. Profs. Moley and Tugwell were present in the capacity of economic advisers to the President.

After familiarizing himself with the features of the various plans submitted and outlining his views of the scope of the project, the President appointed a committee to draft the measure in collaboration with Budget Director Douglas. Mr. Roosevelt expressed the desire that the work be expedited, that he may transmit the bill to congress this week.

Following the conference with Director Douglas later in the afternoon Senator Wagner declared that the work of drafting the bill will have to be continued tomorrow. He indicated that the industrial control features would be "both voluntary and compulsory" and said that the nature of the tax to amortize the public works bonds was up to President Roosevelt.

Senator Wagner's statement that the control features would be both voluntary and compulsory was taken to mean that after agreements had been reached companies failing to join would be investigated to disclose labor conditions and other practices. These facts would be published in an effort to bring public opinion into play, and if this device failed, compulsion might finally be invoked.

Plan Vast Public Works.

It was tentatively decided to frame a public works bill providing for construction of projects that would not require long preparation and therefore would afford opportunity for employment of a large number of idle men without delay. As envisaged, this bill will call for a total expenditure of about 3 billion 300 million dollars.

The White House conferees were in general agreement that a special tax should be levied to provide for the interest and amortization of the bond issues required to finance the public works program. There was no decision, however, on the form of the tax. Tentatively discussed were taxes on tea, coffee, sugar, and cocoa, corporations, gross incomes and the building industry.

The principal industrial planning bill figuring in the White House conference provides for the establishment of a "national board for industrial recovery," empowered to approve a code of trade practice for each trade and industry, adherence to which by the units of the industry will exempt them from the application of the anti-trust laws. The board may make approval of a trade practice code conditional upon understandings with regard to prices and other matters that will be protective of consumers.

Violations of the code by any unit of an industry will be deemed unfair competition and the offender will be subject to prosecution under the federal trade commission act.

The board is empowered to approve agreements between competing units that tend to the economic improvement of the industry, to increase employment, or to rehabilitate the industry.

The board is to appoint a labor council empowered to establish regional advisory industry committees representing employers, employés, and the public. Employers and employés are to agree if possible on maximum hours of labor, minimum rates of pay and working conditions, and such agreements shall become effective when approved by the council.

If they fail to agree the regional committee is to report to the council the number of hours to which employment should be limited in order to distribute properly the available work and stabilize commerce, the minimum basic subsistence wage to insure fair competition and the wages and working conditions established by collective bargaining in the industry. Thereupon the council is to fix the hours of labor, minimum wage, and working conditions.

To be entitled to the benefits of the act any unit must comply with the decreed hours of labor, minimum wage and working conditions.

Loans Are Authorized.

In order to increase employment and rehabilitate industry the Reconstruction Finance corporation is authorized upon certification by the board to make loans to employers complying with the provisions governing hours of labor, minimum wage, and working conditions.

The board is to consist of the secretaries of commerce, labor, agriculture and interior, ex-officio, and one member appointed by the President with the consent of the senate, who is to be the chairman and executive officer.

According to administration leaders, the bill sponsored by the President will be put through congress in place of the Black 30 hour bill and Secretary of Labor Perkins' minimum wage and production control amendment. The labor committee favorably reported the 30 hour bill to the house today. Under the terms of the bill as revised only those manufacturers, producers and processors enforcing a 30 hour work week and a minimum wage level, set either by trade associations within the various industries, or by a "federal trade regulation board," would be permitted to ship their goods in interstate commerce.

While the bill fixes a maximum 30 hour work week in industry, subject to certain exemptions, the establishment of minimum wage levels is left to industrial trade associations and to the discretion of the federal board.

DEFENDS DELAY IN PROSECUTION OF J. W. HARRIMAN

Ex-Controller Calls Such Affairs Routine.

Washington, D. C., May 10.—[Special.]—Defalcations of bank presidents are "common matters to the office of controller of the currency." The defalcation of Joseph W. Harriman of the Harriman National Bank and Trust company therefore was merely "a routine subject," John W. Pole, former controller, today assured a senate judiciary subcommittee.

Mr. Pole appeared as a witness before the subcommittee investigating why the prosecution of Harriman was so long delayed, a postponement due, government officials assert, purely to a desire to permit reorganization of the bank, and justified by the assurance that the New York Clearing house would not let any depositor in the institution lose his money.

May Sue Clearing House.

Renewed possibilities that government suit may be entered against the clearing house to force a settlement of the Harriman bank's financial affairs appeared when Alfred A. Cook, counsel for Henry E. Cooper, conservator of the institution, conferred with the secretary of the treasury, the controller of the currency, and later with Senators Stephens and Neely of the investigating committee.

Recent witnesses, including Mr. Cooper and F. G. Awalt, acting controller, have declared they believe the clearing house not only morally but legally responsible. The committee may visit New York to investigate Harriman's stock pools.

Subcommittee members discussed the advisability of going to New York to investigate the so-called directors' pool, headed by Harriman, to purchase the bank's stock. It has not yet been decided whether the subcommittee's authority would include this feature in its inquiry.

Repeatedly Mr. Pole told the subcommittee that the delay was the best course in the public interest. Subjected to sharp questioning from Senators Neely and Robinson [Indiana], he consistently maintained this attitude.

"You should have had the crook arrested at once and promptly prosecuted," shouted Senator Robinson. "It would have been a very wholesome influence."

"I think not," the witness answered. "It would have created such excitement it might have been heard throughout the United States. The banking situation was critical. We were endeavoring to keep the banks open and some of the bankers themselves had to be encouraged to go on."

"What Halo on Harriman?"

"What kind of a halo rested on Harriman's head that you let him go unscathed for nine months?" Senator Neely demanded.

"It wasn't Harriman at all," was the reply. "It was my belief that if we prosecuted Harriman at that time, it would redound to disaster not only of the Harriman bank but of many others. The situation was critical and we dared not take the chance."

SUMNER REVEALS HUMPHRIES' PLOT AGAINST UNION

Racketeering Among Milk Drivers Planned.

Steve C. Sumner, secretary-treasurer of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union, yesterday told Chief Investigator Daniel Gilbert of the state's attorney's office of the proposition made to him last year by Murray Humphries and three other labor hoodlums to allow them to racketeer in the union.

Sumner said that Humphries and William [Three Fingered Jack] White, Frank Diamond, and Marcus [Studdy] Looney visited him in the union offices at 220 South Ashland avenue and told him that they had organized an independent dairy company and wanted to operate it with nonunion employés for six weeks to enable them to get a foothold. When Sumner demurred, he said, and insisted that his union would not enter a racket deal, the hoodlums betrayed interest in the union bank account.

Arrive in Three Autos.

"The first I knew of Humphries and the others' interest in the union was on May 23, 1932," Sumner related. "I remember the time because it was the day the Supreme court reversed the conviction against White for the murder of Policeman Edward Pflaume. They came to the union headquarters in three automobiles. I wasn't in. They came back two days later and saw me.

"Humphries said they were starting in the milk business and had organized a dairy company. He asked me to lay ok them for six weeks so that they could employ nonunion help and undersell the regular dairies. After that time I could hold a demonstration at their plant, they said, and that would give them an excuse to raise the price of milk and employ union men."

Promises to "Take Care of Him."

"They told me that all I would lose would be the 'take'," Sumner continued, "but I told them there was no 'take' for milk wagon union officials. Diamond then said to me: 'Sumner, you're old. When you started in the union racket, brass knuckles and blackjacks were used. Now gats and machine guns are used. You come along with us. We'll take care of you'."

Sumner, who is 74 years old, said that Diamond told him the "organization" controlled judges, police officials, and legislators in the United States and Canada, whom they had elected, and "can get you out of trouble in two hours."

"Humphries cut him short," Sumner said, "and told me he was putting his cards on the table. He said: 'Prohibition is going out and soon there won't be an 18th amendment. We've got a big organization and must take care of our boys."

Sumner said that he insisted that the union was legitimate and had paid out $240,000 a year in sick and death benefits.

Has Headquarters Fortified.

"Humphries then quizzed me on the finances and said we must have a big bank account," Sumner said, "and then they left. Shortly afterwards I had the headquarters fortified."

Later Sumner told newspaper men that he did not think there was any connection between Humphries' inquiry into the union finances and the kidnaping of Robert Fitchie, president of the drivers' union. Sumner is reported to have paid $50,000 to have Fitchie set free.

State's Attorney Courtney, informed of Sumner's disclosures, refused to say what action he woud take, adding that he "expected developments" within two weeks.

ROOSEVELT'S WISHES PREVAIL AT CAUCUS ON ANTI-TRUST LAW

Washington, D. C., May 10.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's wishes again prevailed over threatened opposition in his own following in congress tonight when a Democratic caucus called by opponents of his proposal to relax the anti-trust laws refused to sanction resolutions of protest and cast an overwhelming vote of confidence in Mr. Roosevelt.

About 150 of the 317 Democratic members of the house were present at the meeting, which was forced by representatives opposed to any change in the anti-trust laws. Two resolutions of protest against Mr. Roosevelt's suggestions that the anti-trust laws be liberalized were withdrawn by their sponsors in the face of certain defeat.

The caucus finally adopted a resolution offered by Majority Leader Joseph W. Byrns [Dem., Tenn.], expressing the confidence of the Democrats in the house in President Roosevelt.

Representative Joseph Shannon [Dem., Mo.], one of those who forced the meeting tonight, declared afterward that it had been a "helpful gathering" and said he believed sentiment in congress is definitely against any alteration or relaxation of the Sherman and Clayton acts.

BAR CHARGE FOR CRADLE PHONES AFTER 3 YEARS

The Illinois Commerce commission yesterday entered the official order directing the Illinois Bell Telephone company to cease collecting its charge of 25 cents a month for cradle telephones after a subscriber has paid the extra charge for three years. The decision was announced last Monday, the order yesterday making it official. Subscribers who have used the cradle sets for three years will not have to pay this charge after June 1, and other subscribers will be relieved of the fee at the expiration of three years' use. The immediate saving to the public was estimated to be over $300,000 a year.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 78; recovered, 63; stripped, 10 [from police records for 24 hours ending at midnight Tuesday].

Joseph Morgan, colored, 21 years old, 1512 Prairie avenue, was held to the grand jury on a charge of robbery yesterday by Judge John Gutknecht. The complainant was Frank K. Fisher, 301 Brainard avenue, La Grange, a member of the Chicago Crime commission. He testified that Morgan was one of three colored youths who took his automobile and a pistol from him April 18 at 47th stret and Prairie avenue. While driving the car later Morgan was in a collision in which his two companions were killed and he was captured.

Illinois House Votes Fund to Erect Columbus Statue

Springfield, Ill., May 10.—[Special.]—While the Horner administration was still seeking ways and means of effecting state economies, the house today passed a bill appropriating $15,000 to erect a statue in memory of Christopher Columbus in Grant park, Chicago. It was introduced by R. V. Libonati [Rep., Chicago] and backed by the other Italian members of the house—Charles Coia [Dem.], Robert Petrone [Rep.], Albert J. Mancin [Rep.], and Joseph E. Farina [Rep.]. All are Chicagoans. The vote was 79 to 30 for the bill, just two votes more than necessary for passage.

TNT PROVES DUD; COAL STRIKERS AT WORK TODAY

Merchants Win in First Racket Skirmish.

$7.50 on the wage scale, but was doubling the truck assessment for itself. Moreover, Mr. Elmstrom recalled, the T-N-T proposed imposing a boycott of both merchants and unions on any customer whose fuel bill became more than sixty days delinquent.

In the face of these conditions, Mr. Elmstrom said, the Coal Merchants' association refused to treat with the T-N-T. Certain independent dealers agreed to go along, he said, all being given the $7.50 scale, and a favored few getting an even larger wage reduction. Meanwhile, the association continued to pay the $5 scale until last Sunday.

Factions Split Unions.

Factional strife has beset the unions. On last Sunday afternoon the faction headed by Sheridan, Cain and Booth showed their dominance by mustering 1,800 members at their meeting while the insurgent group, George Roy Baker, mustered only 120. On Monday morning the merchants association declared it would stand the higher wage penalty no longer and posted notice that $7.50 was the new scale.

There were reports last night that, in view of the ouster of the T-N-T, the Sheridan faction would call a special meeting Sunday at 814 West Harrison street to iron out differences with the Baker faction and relations with the T-N-T.

COAL MAN FIRED ON

Charles W. McCoy, 50 years old, 5301 South Honoré street, president of the United Retail Coal Dealers' association, an organization of coal peddlers, was fired on by gunmen early this morning as he drove south in Western avenue at 43d street.

McCoy told New City police he noticed a car following him and heard three sharp reports which he first mistook for backfires. At the third report, he said, his hat flew from his head.

Looking back, he perceived three holes drilled through the car's rear window, matched by three holes in the windshield. The third bullet, he discovered, had pierced the crown of his hat.

The coal dealers' organization which McCoy heads is a two year old independent organization with headquarters at 2221 Madison street. Its 400 members have been unable to purchase coal in the yards recently. Officers and directors of the association met last night on the matter and ordered a protest meeting for tomorrow night. At that time, according to George Forth, secretary, the association will probably vote to begin injunction proceedings in court against the groups interfering with their business. He refused to identify these groups.

University of Minnesota Cuts Salaries of Faculty

Minneapolis, Minn., May 10.—(AP)—Salary reduction ranging from 10 to 20 per cent will be effected at the University of Minnesota for the next fiscal year beginning July 1, it was decided by the board of regents.

The pay cuts applicable for employés and faculty members is expected to save about $300,000 in the salary budget of approximately $4,000,000.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 10.—(AP)—Inez Courtney, titian haired stage actress, was awarded a divorce today from Howard S. Paschal, broker. The actress testified her husband displayed a bad temper and had a habit of staying out late. She said he had not provided for her since their marriage in Rye, N. Y., June 20, 1931.

WALTER S. BEMIS TO SELL AUTO AND PAY UP ALIMONY

Walter S. Bemis, appraisal engineer employed as a city expert in the gas rate litigation, appeared yesterday before Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan to explain why he is $150 in arrears in temporary alimony payments to his wife, Gertrude. Bemis, who said that he had not been paid for his work for the city, agreed to make an effort to sell one of his two automobiles to catch up with the $15 a week order.

Attorney Robert Cantwell Jr., representing Bemis, said that Mrs. Bemis, who brought suit for separate maintenance, is in California with her mother. The attorney said she went there last year to recover from carbon monoxide poisoning suffered when she was overcome in the garage at her home at 821 Foxdale road, Winnetka.

Ohio Republican Leader Sees End of Slump Reached

Superior, Wis., May 10.—(AP)—Carmi A. Thompson of Cleveland, Republican leader in Ohio and secretary to President Taft and later United States treasurer, said on his arrival here today "the end of the depression has been reached and the country apparently has started on a return to normalcy." Mr. Thompson arrived here aboard the steamer Edward N. Saunders Jr., which was rechristened. "The country is fortunate in having a man like President Roosevelt in the White House, with the ability to be the leader of the nation and show it the way out of the depression," Mr. Thompson said.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PEIPING, China, May 10.—(AP)—Japanese troops today crossed the Lwan river in north China, reliable foreign sources said, thereby going beyond the objective announced recently for the current phase of Sino-Japanese hostilities.

More than 2,500 Americans live in Tientsin and Peiping, international areas toward which the Japanese are now pushing.

Many of the Americans, however calmly they view the approach of the invading forces, believe the cities will eventually be occupied by the Japanese.

Menace Kalgan.

SHANGHAI, May 10.—The Japanese are massing large forces at Dolon-nor, 150 miles northeast of Kalgan, with the intention of advancing to Kalgan and applying pressure on Peiping from the northwest as well as from the northeast, dispatches said today.

The Japanese push on Kalgan brings them within striking distance of Suiyuan and Shansi provinces west of Peiping and also enables the Japanese to menace Outer Mongolia, which is dominated by Russia.

The Chinese army which defended the Woosung forts at the mouth of the Yangtze river during the battle at Shanghai last year, was practically wiped out today as the result of the Japanese capture of the town of Tsienan in the Lwan river district.

It was stated that the Chinese forces remained in the city for fierce hand to hand fighting in the streets and that only a mere handful finally withdrew to the town of Lulung.

The Japanese forces in the Lwan river area, which were reinforced by a full division of fresh troops, crossed the river north of Lwanchow where the Kailan mines, under British administration, are located. Latest reports state that the Japanese in this area have occupied Yungping, Funing, Changli and Lulung. Yungping is only 105 miles northeast of Tientsin.

On another front, only 35 miles north of Peiping, Japanese planes are said to have practically wiped out the town of Miyun.

Wicked Stuff

GET IT OUT! REFILL WITH

ISO=VIS "D"

The New Anti-Sludge Motor Oil

Like a foul figure in a nightmare SLUDGE hides deep down in the crankcase of your car . . . clutches at the whirling crankshaft . . . clings to pistons . . . stealthily chokes the life out of your motor. And once it starts to form, this mass of broken-down oil, dirt and moisture builds itself up with every passing mile.

Yes, sludge is wicked stuff. But now, there's a way to deal with it. First drain out old, worn-out, sludgy oil. Then refill with Iso=Vis "D," the new motor oil just perfected by the Standard Oil Company—a motor oil that will not sludge. Use it regularly and you will prevent the dangerous re-formation of sludge between crankcase drainings.

IF YOU LIKE LONG WORDS, READ THIS—

Iso=Vis "D" is produced under totally new processes perfected by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana)—patents pending. These are the Propane Dewaxing Process, and the Chlorex Extraction Process for removing unstable and undesirable constituents present in all petroleum distillates. By these exclusive refining processes a new-type lubricant is produced with much higher resistance to oxidation and sludge formation than any motor oil has hitherto possessed. The new oil likewise is notable for improved viscosity-temperature characteristics, low pour point, minimum carbon formation, and great durability.

Trained Servismen at any Standard Oil Station will drain out old sludgy oil and refill with Iso=Vis "D" in 8 short minutes.

NEW LOW PRICE!

COMPLETE REFILL with Iso=Vis "D" Chevrolet, Ford or Essex—

ILLINOIS GIVES PALMER CONTROL OF INSURANCE

Bill Ready for Horner; Attack Defeated.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., May 10.—[Special.]—The general assembly today completed the enactment of a law giving Ernest Palmer, superintendent of insurance, "with the approval and by the direction of the governor," virtual dictatorship over the operations of insurance companies in Illinois.

It is an administration bill and therefore is expected to receive Gov. Horner's approval within a short time. It conveys authority to "adopt, promulgate, modify, enforce, or rescind from time to time such rules as may be necessary for the purpose of maintaining safe and sound methods" in the insurance field and provides for the extension of farm and homestead mortgages held by insurance companies.

Debate Precedes Passage.

Final action by the state senate, the house having passed the measure on March 29, followed one of the warmest tilts of the session, which included implications that Superintendent Palmer has been receiving pay from an insurance organization as well as from the state and his calm appearance before the senators scornfully to deny the insinuations and to urge the passage of the bill.

Almost simultaneously with the passage of the bill the resolution of Senator George M. Maypole [Dem., Chicago] for the creation of a special committee to investigate insurance companies, which brought up the implied charges against Palmer, was defeated, 18 to 14. A dozen senators refused to vote on it.

The fracas started when Maypole called up his resolution, saying in connection with his motion that one man in the state house—meaning Palmer—had said enough votes had been lined up to stop it. Senator Thomas P. Gunning [Rep., Princeton] followed him by saying there were rumors in Springfield and in other parts of the state that Palmer still was receiving $18,000 a year from "insurance companies." Palmer formerly was general counsel for the Chicago Board of Underwriters.

At this moment Maypole spied Palmer standing in the rear of the chamber, silently observing the proceedings, and demanded that the floor be cleared of "men lobbying."

Palmer Makes Statement.

Gunning proposed that Palmer be asked to appear and make a statement and this was followed up by Senator James J. Barbour [Rep., Evanston] and others; but before action was taken, the Republican leader, Senator Richard J. Barr [Joliet] told Gunning that after thirty years' service he would ignore whisperings such as those he had heard.

"I did not seek this job," said Palmer in opening his talk. "I went into it at the request of the governor, because I thought I saw real opportunity to be of service to the people and because I regarded the experience as an investment for the future.

"As for the charges whispered against me—I expected them and I am unconcerned about them. I'm not afraid of them. My record is an open book. I severed all connections with all insurance organizations when I took the job. Nevertheless I have been accused of a lot of things. That doesn't worry me. I don't give a whoop about such charges."

Gets Special Report.

Turning to the broader subjects before the chamber, he said he had just received from independent actuaries the results of an hitherto unrevealed examination of the affairs of 24 Illinois insurance companies and that while 95 per cent of all the companies are sound, "there are some that we will have to fold up."

"Of the Illinois companies," he added, "there are a considerable number that are as fine and sound as any in the country. As for the other, we intend to let the people know the facts, but this is not the time or place to mention individual companies.

"As to the investigation, I leave it to you gentlemen whether it will be wise to have the affairs of the companies aired in public, scaring thousands upon thousands of policyholders and beneficiaries, or to concentrate our efforts on the conservation of their assets. I urge you to pass the bill before you and to kill the resolution for the investigation."

Senator Barr effected a quick change in program which brought adoption of the insurance bill by a vote of 40 to 6 before the Maypole resolution was taken up.

PHYSICIAN REPORTS RAPID FALL IN HEALTH OF GANDHI ON 3D DAY

POONA, India, May 10.—(AP)—The mahatma Gandhi was described tonight by his own physician as "exhausted but not unduly ill" from the fast he began on Monday. The physician, after examining the frail political and spiritual leader who embarked on a three weeks' fast in protest against untouchability, said he was surprised and disappointed at the rapid fall in Gandhi's condition.

COUNCIL VOTES FOR DEFEAT OF SEAWAY TREATY

At its meeting yesterday the city council went on record unanimously as opposing the St. Lawrence seaway treaty, in its present form, as inimical to the interests of the lakes-gulf waterway, and called upon Illinois senators to thwart efforts to have the United States senate approve it.

"Article 8 of the treaty," said Ald. William A. Rowan [10th], chairman of the council committee on harbors, wharves and bridges, "limits the diversion from Lake Michigan to 1,500 cubic feet per second in 1938. Competent engineers have said that our waterway, for which we have waited for years, cannot carry traffic with that limited flow."

The alderman also pointed out that the treaty virtually gives a foreign power control over Lake Michigan, although it is wholly within the United States and is not a boundary water. He said that under the terms of the treaty congress would not be able to prescribe the amount of diversion needed for navigation purposes.

BILL PROPOSES NEW TAX BOARD FOR COOK COUNTY

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., May 10.—[Special.]—The present tax assessing and reviewing officials of Cook county would be put out of office by passage of a bill introduced in the senate today by Francis J. Loughran [Dem., Chicago]. In their stead a board of assessment and revision composed of three members appointed by the county board, would be substituted.

For some time it has been reported that the city and county administration, and other local units, have been highly displeased with the conduct of the present board of tax appeals—George F. Nixon, appointed by Louis L. Emmerson as governor, and Fred W. Brummel, named by President Emmett Whealan of the county board. It was assumed that the bill sought the removal of Nixon and Brummel, rather than of Assessor J. L. Jacobs.

Backed by Mayor Kelly and others, the measure changes many important provisions of the "Kelly" plan, adopted by the legislature last year to replace the old style board of assessment and reviewers.

Posts Abolished.

Jacobs, Nixon, and Brummel were appointed as the result of this legislation. Their terms were to have extended to November, 1934, when their successors would be elected for four year terms.

The Loughran bill, however, would immediately abolish the posts of assessor and members of the board of appeals and make their successors appointive for time to come by extending the present terms to Jan. 1, 1935, when the county board would appoint successors for four year terms.

In detail, the bill would establish, in all counties of more than 250,000 inhabitants, a board of assessment and revision of three members named by the president of the county board with the consent of the board. One member would be designated by the president as secretary of the tax board and he would serve as the county assessor.

As to Compensation.

As to compensation for the new board, the bill reads: "Each member of such board shall receive such compensation as may be fixed by the county board to be paid from the county treasury, and the compensation of the county assessor may be different from that of the other members."

The sentence abolishing the present taxing machinery to make way for the new reads as follows: "Such board of assessment and revision shall succeed to all the powers and duties now vested in or exercised by the board of review and board of appeals in such counties (of more than 250,000 population) except such powers and duties as are by this act vested in the county assessor, and such board of review and board of appeals are hereby abolished."

There is no emergency clause so the bill would not become effective until July 1 if passed by both houses. Senator Loughran succeeded in sending it to second reading without reference to a committee.

Another important change in the "Kelly" plan would abolish horizontal revisions of all property, limiting the scope of cuts to individual taxpayers. This provision, it was believed, was written because of the recent 15 per cent cut ordered by the present board of appeals and sustained by a majority of the tax commission.

The board of revision would be given the power to revise assessments before they go into collection and when they are reported to the state tax commission there would be some power left to make corrections. This power, however, would be very limited, Lougran said.

Because passage of the "Kelly" bill provoked one of the most tempestuous sessions in years, it was predicted tonight that Republicans would oppose the new legislation tooth and nail.

If a certain booth in the Polish pavilion at A Century of Progress has its share of customers this summer, the Red White and Blue club, 1340 Wade street, will carry on at full tilt the coming year. The club is dedicated to the interests of children and young people who live in the congested neighborhood it serves.

Mrs. Thomas Gowenlock, president of the club, said yesterday that the proceeds of the booth are expected to provide much of the $4,500 needed to maintain the club which was founded in 1918 as a recreational center where members might also be taught good citizenship.

Space in the pavilion, as well as the booth and its decorations are being provided, Mrs. Gowenlock said, by the Polish consulate. In addition to the articles it will sell the booth will exhibit the handiwork of the center's children.

"We've had hard sledding during the last year to make ends meet," Mrs. Gowenlock concluded. "We hope to make enough this summer to carry us through the year."

ARVEY PRESIDES OVER COUNCIL FOR FIRST TIME

Ald. Jacob M. Avery [24th], president pro tempore of the city council, exercised his office for the first time yesterday when Mayor Kelly stepped from the rostrum for a few minutes. At the meeting Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [48th] protested against the employment methods of the World's Fair directors. He said that many persons from outside of Chicago are given jobs in preference to unemployed Chicagoans.

The committee on committees brought in a report making three changes in the membership of council committees. Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th], former member of the finance committee who was removed when the council was organized in April was reappointed on the committee. Ald. Dorsey R. Crowe [42d] and John J. Coughlin [1st] were appointed on the World's Fair committee.

Ten aldermen were selected by Mayor Kelly yesterday to act as an official reception committee to distinguished visitors to the World's Fair. The aldermen, who will do the work resigned recently by Greeter Gaw, will wear high hats and full dress, if the occasion and time demands such attire. They are David L. Sutton [8th], Jacob M. Arvey [24th], John S. Clark [30th], George W. Robinson [36th], William A. Rowan [10th], John J. Coughlin [1st], Dorsey R. Crowe [42d], Thomas J. Terrell [29th] Thomas J. Daley [7th], and James J. Cusack [5th].

BETTER BUSINESS BUREAU REVIEWS WORK OF A YEAR

Exposure of the substitution of cheaper grades of coal in charity deliveries was called one of the most important achievements of the Better Business bureau last night by its president, Charles H. MacDowell. Mr. MacDowell spoke before 300 members of the organization at the Union League club.

According to Mr. MacDowell, 3,766 advertisements were checked during the year and constructive suggestions were made regarding 1,411 of them.

A great thing has occurred amongst us. We have made a complete turn-around, and at last America's face is toward the future.

Three years---1929 to 1932---we Americans looked backward. All our old financial and political machinery was geared to pull us out of the depression by the same door through which we entered. We thought it simply a case of going back the way we came. It failed. We now realize that the way out is forward---through it.

Thanks for that belongs to President Roosevelt. Inauguration Day he turned the Ship of State around. Having observed the failure of sincere efforts to haul us back the way we came, he designed a new method---new political and financial machinery---to pull us out the way we are going---forward. He is clearing international obstacles out of the way; he does not stand in awe of tariffs. The people begin to feel that he does not take advice from the "interests"; that he has courage and loyalty to work for one supreme interest only---the welfare of the American people. That is a big achievement for two months in office.

And now we all look to what is coming; we grow less and less concerned with what is behind. We are looking for a hand-hold on the haul rope. Every man wants to do what he can, and all he can.

The best thing I can do for the Country is to create industry by building good motor cars. If I knew anything better to do, I would do it. Industry must be my contribution. Motor cars must face ahead to the future, like everything else. They are so much a part of the Nation's daily life that if they lag behind they hold the Country back.

ILLINOIS SENATE GROUP MAKES SALARY CUTS 10%

Changes House Figures of 20% on Judges.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 10.—[Special.]—Holding that the economy knife wielded on state expenses by the house of representatives had cut a little too deeply, the senate committee decided today to raise sums fixed in several of the Burns bills.

The house made cuts of about 20 per cent against judges of the Supreme, Circuit, and Superior courts and the state officers. The senate committee made the percentage ten. There were many words of praise for the "overworked judiciary" and the elected officials who head divisions of the state government.

Whereas the house had reduced the judges of the Supreme court one-fifth, or from $15,000 to $12,000 annually, the senate committee raised the salary figure to $13,500.

Most of the state officers were reduced in the house from $10,000 to $7,500. The senate committee made that $9,000; the lieutenant governor's 50 per cent cut from $5,000 to $2,500 was eliminated and $5,000 restored.

Judges of the Circuit and Superior courts in Cook county now receive $15,000, of which the state pays $8,000. The Burns program would have cut the state share to $6,600, but the senate committee applied the 10 per cent rule and set it at $7,200. Minor bills were left about as passed.

Resent Censure by Burns.

Some members of the senate resented the action of Representative James T. Burns [Dem., Kankakee], sponsor of the economy program. He recently criticized the senate as being lackadaisical in considering his bills. Yesterday Mr. Burns delayed consideration of a senate bill in the house by demanding that it be read in full.

So when Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago], chairman of the committee, called up the Burns bills in its session this afternoon, President Pro Tem. R. V. Graham [Dem., Chicago] asked if Burns thought himself "a Mussolini or a czar" who could run the senate. "He isn't even here to explain these bills for us," Mr. Graham said, "but he accuses us of delaying them."

"If Burns did come, he'd insist on reading them in full," commented F. J. Loughran [Dem., Chicago].

Barr Opposes Bench Cut.

"I don't favor cutting any judge's salary," said Richard J. Barr [Rep., Joliet]. "I think they earn every penny they get. Let's not start with them. However, I'd be willing to cut our own salaries from $3,500 to $2,000 for the biennium."

"You'd suggest, then, that we run for judge instead of for the senate?" asked Loughran.

"Not that exactly," replied Barr, "but you must remember that judges can't practice law when they're on the bench, while we senators are allowed to do so."

Burgess' Amendment Wins.

Mr. Barr moved to table the bill cutting the pay of Supreme court members, but the motion lost, 7 to 5. H. S. Burgess [Dem., Fairfield] then suggested the 10 per cent cut, and this amendment was adopted, 6 to 5.

Without more debate the other reductions were voted and the bills sent to the floor of the senate. A large portion of Burns' $15,000,000 reduction program still is pending in the house.

LOSES $20 TO BANDIT.

VOTERS WHO MOVED WARNED TO REGISTER BY TUESDAY NIGHT

A warning to voters who have moved since November that they must register at the election board offices before Tuesday night if they wish to vote for repeal delegates June 5 was issued last night by Mrs. Leslie Wheeler and Mrs. William H. Mitchell, co-chairmen of the Illinois division of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform. It read:

"We wish to call to the attention of our 225,000 members in Illinois and all other voters the fact that if they have moved since voting last November it will be necessary for them to go to the election commissioners' office, room 308 city hall, and register, so that they may vote for delegates on June 5 to the repeal convention. This office is open every day except Sunday from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., and May 16 is the last day for registration.

"In accordance with the economy program registration days will not be held in the various precincts; therefore the only way for any one who has moved and who wishes to vote June 5 is to register in room 308 at the city hall."

HOUSE BALKS AT CHICAGO PARK PLAN OF G. O. P.

Springfield, Ill., May 10.—[Special.]—Balking at passing a Chicago park consolidation bill which is not approved by the administration, the house of representatives today voted to postpone consideration of a consolidation measure which bore a Republican label.

The bill at hand was backed by Elmer J. Schnackenberg, Republican floor leader, and other members of the Republican controlled Illinois commission on taxation and expenditures. It would consolidate the three large park districts in Chicago—south, west and Lincoln—into one and take in small districts when they desired to join. Not carrying a referendum clause, the bill provided that the new district would be governed by three commissioners elected in November, 1934.

Democrats, led by James P. Boyle [Dem., Chicago], moved postponement of consideration until the referendum bill desired by Gov. Horner, could be introduced. Under it the commissioners would be appointed, not elected. The roll call was featured by tart clashes but the Democrats mustered their members and carried the motion 73 to 70.

PERMANENT REGISTRATION BILL PASSED

Springfield, Ill., May 10.—[Special.]—By a vote of 115 to 4 the permanent registration bill applying to Illinois cities having election boards, including Chicago, was passed by the house of representatives today.

Hailed as an economy measure, the bill provides that a permanent registration of voters shall be taken on Oct. 8, 1934—the registration to be taken on duplicate cards containing an affidavit of the persons being registered and his voting record. The election board will keep one card and the precinct voting place the other.

Change of residence would be noted by appearance at the election board offices. Any person failing to vote after 1936 would be stricken from the election rolls, but could be reinstated by appearance at the election board office and making affidavit.

Goose Electrocuted When It Pecks at a "Live" Wire

Columbus, Ind., May 10.—[Special.]—A pet goose belonging to Jules Lomax, was killed when it nibbled at the end of a live wire blown down in the yard. The goose took one peck at the wire, squawked, and fell over dead.

During the meeting of the Lincoln park commissioners yesterday chance inquiries brought out that the preceding board had paid $134,225 for 2.34 acres of land now called Emmerson park. The commissioners made a computation showing that this is $57,000 an acre.

A. D. Plamondon, president of the present park board, said there was no desire to be critical of the acts of the former board appointed by Louis L. Emmerson when he was governor. But the commissioners made comparisons of other land values, one commissioner recalling a sale of thirty acres for the site of the half finished Lane Technical High school. This tract was sold for $510,000, or $17,000 an acre, as compared to the $57,000 for the park site. The Lane High school site is at Addison street and Western avenue. Emmerson park is at Granville and Ravenswood avenues.

Purchase Unanimously Approved.

The park board records were inspected to see if any of the former board members had opposed the purchase of the park site from the Chicago Town and Tennis club on Jan. 6, 1931. The records showed that the purchase had the unanimous approval of the board.

The discussion of the park purchase arose during consideration of an ordinance authorizing the refunding of a $750,000 park bond issue, part of which matures in July. The commissioners wanted to know if any of the $750,000 was used in the Emmerson park purchase. They were informed that the park site was bought with money from the park expansion fund.

The commissioners decided not to criticize actions of their predecessors and accepted the suggestion of Commissioner Martin Kennelly that "we proceed with the strictest economy and conduct the park affairs so that future boards will not have the occasion to criticize our expenditures."

Delay in Drive Project.

Mr. Plamondon tried to telephone to Gov. Horner about a delay in the building of the continuation of the outer drive from Montrose avenue to Foster avenue. C. E. Carson, the contractor, told the board that he is unable to proceed with the work because the state has not supplied him with the 30,000 barrels of cement needed. He said that under his contract with the state the state is to furnish the cement, and the contract contained a provision that in the event of the failure of the state to supply the cement he could buy what he needed in the open market. In accordance with that provision, Mr. Carson said, he contracted for 30,000 barrels at $3.15 a barrel, which he said is 10 cents below the market price.

The state, however, canceled that provision, Carson declared, due to Gov. Horner's decision to combat the so-called cement dealers' combine which the governor said has raised the price in 1933.

Mr. Plamondon was unable to reach the governor, but was informed that Mr. Horner in all probability would not release the cement to Carson but would await legislative action on a pending bill which would authorize the state highway department to buy cement "on the open market" without bids.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE MAJOR PROBLEM OF RECOVERY.

A report of the National Organization to Reduce Public Expenditure [Norpe] reveals encouraging progress in the reduction of government expenditures in many of the states. In Ohio, for example, the budget for 1929-'30 was $74,200,000, and for 1931-'32, $65,744,000, with actual expenditures 30 per cent lower. The proposals for the next biennium descend to $46,000,000. A splendid record. In Iowa they spent $110,000,000 in 1931, but expect a budget of $70,000,000 for 1934. In Wisconsin there are estimated reductions for 1933 of $14,000,000 in the state budget and of nearly $11,000,000 in local expenditures. Since 1931 the savings are about $45,000,000. In Oregon the state budget has been reduced from $17,344,000 in 1931-'32 to $9,339,616 for 1933-'34. Local property taxes were reduced from $48,859,000 in 1929 to $41,544,000 in 1932. Other states are showing substantial economies, and in a few cases the spenders are still unrepentant and unafraid. Not surprisingly, Huey Long's Louisiana is a prominent example. Its expenditures have risen 105 per cent in the last year, or from $27,328,000 in 1929 to $86,538,000 in the year ending next month.

If it is reasonable to note with some encouragement the gains for economy already secured in the federal and many of the state and local governments, the task of bringing all public expenditures within safe bounds and to arrest the swelling tide or torrent of public spending can only be appreciated by facing facts of which the public is generally uninformed. In a strong appeal for public economy before the National Academy of Political Science last autumn Mr. Strawn of this city pointed out that since the war public borrowing in the state of New York has increased 221 per cent, in Michigan 808 per cent, in California 1,099 per cent, in Missouri 1,842 per cent, in Illinois 8,777 per cent, in New Jersey 10,476 per cent. Public spending since the war has increased in New York City 180 per cent, in Philadelphia 277 per cent, in Chicago 339 per cent, in San Francisco 388 per cent, in Detroit 1,330 per cent. The funded debt has increased in New York City from about $795,000,000 in 1910 to $2,246,000,000 in 1932, and that of Detroit from $23,513,000 in 1918 to $349,567,000 in 1932. Constitutional limitations have not permitted such Gargantuan increases in Chicago's funded debt, but Mr. Strawn reminds us that while our population has increased 55 per cent in 20 years, our tax levy has increased 560 per cent.

By an unbroken upward swing the total cost of federal, state and local government has grown from 855 millions per annum in 1890 to about 14 billions in the present year of grace, or from a per capita cost of $13.56 in 1890 to $107.37 in 1929. The increase of the national income offers no justification for this increase, for whereas government took one dollar of fifteen and a half in 1913 it now takes one dollar of three.

No nation, however rich in resources of nature and human industry, can survive such an orgy of spending. To check it drastically and promptly is the major problem of recovery.

APPORTIONMENT, LAW AND PRINCIPLE.

Attorney General Kerner's opinion upon the essentials of reapportionment, we are confident, is sound law in Illinois, whatever the law of Mississippi may be. But it is more than sound in law. It is sound in democratic principle. Our Supreme court in Moran vs. Bawley, cited by Mr. Kerner, states this principle admirably when it says that "elections are equal when the vote of each voter is equal in its influence upon the result to the vote of every other elector."

In Mississippi they are not so keen about equality, but, although the federal Supreme court seems to have held that a statute of Mississippi which does not require contiguity, compactness, and equality in congressional districts is not invalid under the federal constitution, our own statute which so qualifies apportionment asserts a principle which ought to be established in every American commonwealth. Universal suffrage, which the nation has adopted, is seriously disparaged if the vote of one elector, because of residence, is unequal to that of another of different residence.

Equality of political right is or ought to be the essence of our political system if it is to be really democratic, and if there is to be inequality no inequality ought not to be imposed upon voters, as it is in a gerrymander, for the mere purpose of entrenching a politician in his job or insuring a political organization, class, or section a political influence not justified by considerations of political right.

The Illinois statute declares the proper principle of democratic government requiring that districts shall be contiguous, compact, and as equal as practicable. But these requirements have been repeatedly ignored, in the latest act so flagrantly that our Supreme court held the apportionment invalid. The legislature has refused to correct the gross inequalities which present apportionment, both because of its original divisions and the shifting of population, has created. The consequence has been great injustice to a large section of the state and the depriving of many citizens of their lawful influence in government.

In spite of just protest against this serious wrong there is evidence that in the present legislature there is intention among some of its members to evade law and principle on behalf of certain influential incumbents and sections of the state. If this intention prevails it will set an example of lawbreaking and of disrespect for democratic principle.

THE SPEAKER AND THE WATERWAY.

Representative Henry T. Rainey represents in congress the 20th congressional district of Illinois, which includes the counties of Brown, Calhoun, Cass, Greene, Jersey, Mason, Menard, Morgan, Pike, and Scott. One glance at the map reveals this district as one which will profit directly and substantially by the fullest development of the Lakes-Gulf waterway. The new facility of economical transport the waterway offers the agriculture and manufacture of the district is of prime importance to all its people and their representative should be among the most alert and vigorous of waterway champions.

It should be especially fortunate for the 20th district and for all the region which will benefit by the development of the waterway that Mr. Rainey is not only in congress but one of its most influential members. He is not only an experienced legislator but a leader of the dominant party, and last but not least the holder of the most powerful office, next to the presidency, in the government. With such influence and power there could be no more formidable defender of the interests of the 20th district and of the whole region tributary to the waterway than Speaker Rainey, and the waterway needs defense. Its efficiency is endangered by powerful influences and will be sacrificed if not protected by the maximum political influence of the region to be served by the waterway. This is a cause that needs and deserves the best effort Speaker Rainey can give to his district and the midwest.

THE U. S. AS A GUARANTOR IN EUROPE.

Mr. MacDonald, in outlining to parliament proposals upon which Great Britain and the United States are seeking to agree, said that if world disarmament was to come to anything it must involve a willingness on the part of the United States to underwrite the security of threatened European nations. The instinctive comment of most Americans on that must be, how silly!

It is proposed in the name of peace that European arrangements as to territory and control of people, very offensive to many of these people and violently protested by them, shall be stabilized by a greater threat of force. These arrangements are now maintained, although they are full of causes of war, by costly and heavy armaments and by alliances and intrigue. It is proposed to decrease the number of armed men back of the arrangements, provided there is a combination in the form of more threatening alliances which will include the power of the United States.

Americans cannot be deceived by any such sophistry merely because it is called pacific and altruistic. Their common sense would tell them that the need of costly armies will diminish as the provocations to war are decreased. If the heavy hand of domineering and acquisitive powers were taken off of people who do protest with all their soul against the injustices done them, small armies would be sufficient for the peace of Europe. What the top powers want in Europe is a less expensive way of protecting themselves in the possession of their spoils of war.

They seek to leave the injustices unremedied and the injuries unremoved and to bring the United States in as another policeman to insure that what is shall continue to be. No one can be fooled by that except the most thoughtless altruist who can satisfy himself with phrases in spite of what his eyes would show him if he were willing to see.

MORE EXPERIMENTS.

[Grand Rapids Press.]

White House rejection of the plan for a vast program of public works backed by a bond issue of several billions has pointed more strongly to the possibility of adoption of some plan of direct stimulation of private industry, either by subsidy or by guarantee against loss. The President has seen clearly that a large public works project could not be put into operation in a short time. He is not even depending upon his Tennessee basin development scheme for immediate revival, even though this dream seems to have his full indorsement.

What the country may expect is something along the lines of a combined Rorty and Kent plan. The Rorty idea, advanced some time ago by Malcolm C. Rorty, vice president of the American Founders' corporation, involves direct federal subsidies for new construction and other large capital operations by private interests.

The Kent plan, offered by Fred I. Kent, a director of the Bankers' Trust company, calls for a government guarantee of private industry against loss in certain basic fields. He believes manufacturers now will not use funds available for loans at low interest rates because they are not assured of any market for their products, but he contends industry could be reëstablished if the government would insure against loss a series of industries whose renewed activity would create demands on other industries. He would have the R. F. C. make a survey showing the condition of every kind of manufacturer in each district and then select a group which in its judgment would not produce an oversupply of goods.

The administration's aim, it is hinted, is to adopt the Rorty plan to an extent that will create a demand for goods and link it with the Kent plan for production. Care would have to be taken that the latter phase did not cause overproduction, which still exists in too many lines.

This is undoubtedly a period of experimentation in which many projects may be undertaken which would not receive consideration in normal times. When the Kent plan first was broached it met immediate objection on the ground that it would merely glut an already overproduced market. The real problem was seen as one of distribution and consumption—and that still is the greatest problem.

It is possible, however, that there is some truth in the contention that industries which have been idle so long must be given a starter—the pump must be primed. If government subsidies and guarantees could actually prime them it might be just the thing to do. Perhaps the greatest danger is that the pouring of federal funds into these industries and works would not cease when the priming was finished. And it would be futile also to pour funds into pumps over dry wells. Like all experiments, this one, if undertaken, should be carried on with caution and careful deliberation. The situation is too critical for mere amateur puddling.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

THIS CHANGING WORLD! Congressman Beck says we should scrap the constitution and divide the country into three or four self-governing groups of states. And about sixty years ago Mr. Jefferson Davis, Mr. Lee, Mr. Jackson, Mr. Bragg, Mr. Beauregard, and other distinguished gentlemen got shoved around something awful for simply proposing that the U. S. A. be cut into two pieces.

STORY.

Haloed and blinding, in its silver trail
Of heavenly light. The boy-knight, Galahad,
Listened and felt the singing power that had Ordained that he take up the futile Quest
Against the sacred Chalice, reverently—
A haven from the half-guessed urgency
Of strong, young thighs. The little nun had knelt,
Through tremulous, moonlit hours, to weave a belt—
Sturdy and broad, of her own lustrous hair—
To hold the sword that Galahad would wear.

Accepting it, he turned toward foreign skies

CHICAGO, MAY 11, 1933.—Dear Doctor: Well, well, old friend, and how are you? I do hope you and your family are prosperous and riotously happy and enjoying the very best of health. The community needs such great, big, brainy, unselfish men as you. Everywhere I go I hear the most wonderful things said about you; yessir, everybody is not only sounding but fairly shouting your praise. Your name is on every lip. And by the bye—here's that trifling little sum of seventeen dollars and fifty cents I believe I owe you. I was looking over some old letters today and there, hidden away down in a crack of the drawer, was your bill. Dear, dear, I am so sorry it got lost, as it is really quite old, three years at least. Well, accidents will happen, ha, ha, and I know you'll overlook this little mistake. I just wanted to say that I am so delighted you are gaining such an enviable position in the community and that all my best wishes are with you for an even greater and more illustrious career. Yours most sincerely,
—Ivan Norval Thirste.

P. S.: I understand that a week from now the doctors can write any prescriptions for whisky they care to, all restrictions being removed by the government. Now, isn't that fine! By the way, I'm feeling very much run down and the wife says I need something stimulating now and then. And I am going on a fishing trip in about ten days and I am so afraid of rattlesnakes. Rattlesnakes are always biting me. I. N. T.

Loveliest petal that blows,
Pink from the angels' embrace;

Shines afresh in a wee baby's face;
Loveliest petal that blows,
Fresh from the angels' embrace.

PROF. MOLEY, who is by way of being assistant secretary of state, says in the June Cosmopolitan the only way to provide against a permanent bread line is to go back to the farm. But we haven't got a farm to go back to, and about our only chance to get one would be to buy one when it's sold under the mortgage. And then the farmers would lynch us. And if we had a farm we would want to raise hogs and cows and American Beauty roses and be of some use and not just hanging around.

THE FORGOTTEN MAN.

He felt forgotten, walking in that street,
With rain-drenched cloths on heavy dragging feet
Too tired to ask for alms from those he met,
He felt his body freeze, his bones chill-wet.
(The city is a very lonely place
For one who longs to meet a friendly face—)
But here—a doorway. Out of gray nowheres
The church was empty, dark, and queerly still;
Outside the wind was blowing cold and shrill.

There on the altar where the shadows clung,
Above a votive light, the pale Christ hung.
The man dropped to his knees, his eyes grew dim,
As he knelt to a friend who welcomed him!

"BROKEN" BLOOD VESSELS.

THIS department receives many letters asking about the tiny, threadlike, twisting blood vessels plainly seen in the skin. They are most often noticed around the nose and cheeks, but a great many inquiries are made about this condition on the thighs. Occasionally they are observed on the body.

Many readers ask if these are varicose veins. That question can be answered quickly. They are not varicose veins, nor are they forerunners of these veins. They are not caused by mechanical obstruction, as are varicose veins, and they are not located in the regions where veins are prone to become varicose.

There are several names for this condition. One is telangiectasis and in many of the other names the first nine letters of this long word appear. The reason for this is that the appearance is due to a prominence of and sometimes to an increase of blood vessels ordinarily not visible to the eye.

There are two varieties of this trouble, one developing in middle life or beyond and the other present at birth or becoming apparent in young children. This article deals with the first.

A man who has been a pretty steady drinker for a long time notices that his nose is red when he is drunk, and it does not become pale when he is sober. Somewhat disconcerted, he looks closely and he sees a number of fine, twisting blood vessels in certain areas of his skin. Or the location may be the cheeks or the thighs.

The cause is even more varied than the location. Drinking whisky is not one-tenth as guilty as is charged. Even when the man is an old toper, the immediate cause of the trouble is generally indigestion, gastritis, gall bladder trouble, or cirrhosis of the liver rather than alcoholism.

Exposure to weather may be the cause. Another is infection of the sinus. So-called catarrh is another. Goiter and tuberculosis are others.

The leading group of causes are the infections. To this group belong those around the nose and cheeks, resulting from infections of the sinuses, the nose, and the eyes.

The probability is that most of those on the thighs are due to infection of the pelvic organs or some other disorders there. As has been said, disorders of the liver, the gall bladder, and the digestive tract cause a large proportion of the cases.

Many want to know how serious this condition is, whether it develops into anything serious, and what can be done about it. The condition is not serious. The effect on the appearance [and sometimes unjustly on the reputation] is the sum total of the harm done. Nor do these vessels develop into anything. When they become visible they are just about through growing and not many new ones are scheduled to follow after. The only significance of the disorder is that it points to something somewhere else, and it may be wise to heed the stop-look-and-listen sign.

There is no treatment called for so far as life and health are concerned. The cosmetic urge may be regarded as important. Treatment consists in finding the cause and removing it when possible. Local treatment may consist in coagulation with electric needles, or treatment with radiotherapy. However, the rule is that treatment is not called for and the results do not justify it.

GALL BLADDER.

Mrs. E. C. M. writes: 1. Will you please print a diet for gall bladder trouble?

2. Is an operation always necessary? My mother has had trouble with her gall bladder for several years. She is 55 years old and very nervous.

3. Can you tell me the meaning of anxiety neurosis and multiple sclerosis?

REPLY.

1. Very simple, plain food, no condiments, no rich sauces or dressings, no heavy meals. Mostly vegetables, fruits, breads, and cereals; not much meat, less fats and greases. A very light evening meal, or none. Overcome the constipation habit.

2. No. Many escape that.

3. A person has an anxiety neurosis if fear and anxiety cause him to worry excessively, to sleep poorly, and to develop one or more phobias. These anxiety phobias often relate to diseases. Multiple sclerosis is a progressive disease involving different parts of the spinal cord. It causes muscle weakness, lack of control and coördination, and different sensations, dependent on its location. Anxiety neurosis is a state of mind plus bad mental habits. Multiple sclerosis is a very real organic disease, not especially related to habits or mental processes.

GAS WATER HEATERS.

Chicago, May 7.—[Friend of the People.]—What can be done about gas hot water heaters that are still in bathrooms? I thought an ordinance had been passed that prohibited heaters in bathrooms. R. A. M.

You are advised that section 2625 of the revised municipal code provides that no gas water heater shall be installed in any bathroom or toilet room. When a compaint of this nature is received an investigation is made by the board of health and an order is issued to remove the heater to a more suitable location.

STOCK LIABILITY.

Waukegan, Ill., May 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Please advise if the original owner or former holder incurs liability beyond fifteen years after the sale and transfer of bank stock. If so, what is the legal limit? 2. Does liability rest upon a broker on transfers through his name from seller to purchaser? F. W. W.

1. Since the statute of limitations does not start to run until a cause of action has accrued, and since no cause of action accrues against a bank stockholder until the insolvency of the bank, the statute of limitations cannot be relied upon as a defense.

2. He could be held for his pro rata share of debts that were incurred while he was a stockholder.

In Sanders vs. Merchants Bank, decided Oct. 22, 1932, by the Illinois Supreme court, it was held that all the successive owners of the same shares of stock may be held liable to the amount of the par value of these shares for debts accruing during the respective periods of ownership of such successive owners.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

40 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 11, 1893.

CHICAGO.—The Irish village did not need the sunshine that fell brightly on the tower of Blarney castle and on its green flag to make it the warmest place in the Midway plaisance yesterday. A hearty Irish welcome accomplished that. And a happy Irish crowd, reminiscent of the glories of old Erin, and bent on showing American visitors what a housewarming should be, made the territory bounded by the walls of the low-roofed cottages a jolly corner to linger in, listening to Irish airs, laughing at Irish jigs, partaking of Irish cakes and ale. The occasion that put the Earl and Countess of Aberdeen and all their following of harpists and pipers, dairymaids and shillalah makers in high feather was the "private view" that preceded the formal opening of the Irish Industrial village tomorrow.

Ten thousand years is the estimated age of a young woman who wears a feather robe and lies curled up behind glass in the caves of the cliff dwellers at the World's Fair. Doubtless she was a princess in her day, for the men who invaded her sepulcher found the mummy perfectly preserved, wrapped in soft sea island cotton cloth, covered with yucca fiber and hidden in a niche which was carved out of the solid rock.

Among the people who have generously loaned their art treasures to the exposition must be counted Joseph Jefferson, who, although he parted reluctantly with "The Mauve," the gem of his collection, is now congratulating himself that it escaped the fire at Buzzard's bay. Chicago connoisseurs have shown great liberality in sharing with the public their private collections. Twelve paintings from Potter Palmer, eleven from C. T. Yerkes, six from Mrs. Henry Field, four from Martin H. Ryerson, and several from A. M. Munger and S. M. Nickerson are readily recognized on the walls.

The World's Fair managers refused to issue passes to the grounds to walking delegates of the carpenters' union. Commissioner Massey told one of the six delegates that the commission considered that the second strike was a violation of the agreement and not a pass would be issued to any of the delegates.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Approximately 10,000,000 men between the ages of 21 and 30, inclusive, will be required to register—probably within the next fortnight—as available for military service in the war with Germany under the terms of the new national army bill perfected by the conference committee of the house and senate yesterday. From these 10,000,000 men will be selected the first 500,000 recruits to the selective conscription army, the second 500,000 when the President decides to call for them, and recruits to bring the regular army and National Guard up to maximum war strength in the event that volunteers to these forces fail to come forward in sufficient number and the President exercises his power to draft. In Chicago 300,800 will register and approximately 15,000 be drafted for the first call.

THE WAR.—London reports allies' advance southeast of Lake Doiran in Macedonia on a four mile front. Capture two miles of enemy trenches on the left and consolidate new positions. On the western front Paris reports successful operations north of Sancy. London reports slight advance on the south bank of the Scarpe.

NEW YORK.—Herbert C. Hoover, who recently came from Europe to advise the government on food conditions there, says that without control we may see flour at $20 a barrel before the year is over, but that with control "the present price of flour can be reduced 40 to 50 per cent and at the same time the producer can be treated in a liberal manner."

CHICAGO.—On May 14 Chicago is to have its first 15 cent loaf of bread. The bakeries announced that beginning on that date the 6 cent loaf would be abolished.

THE MENACE OF THE COMMISSARS.

Chicago, May 6.—I wish to express my appreciation of the strong leading editorial which appeared last Monday morning. It was more like THE TRIBUNE used to be, and should be, than anything that has appeared for a long time. If every one whom I heard speak favorably of the editorial wrote you, you would have a very gratifying response. I hope you may succeed in rousing public opinion before we have any more commissars appointed. We now have a commissar for the department of agriculture and will soon have one for the railroads, and one for industry is contemplated. The newspapers will be lucky if they escape. N. C. GILBERT.

HIGHER PRICES FOR WATER.

Niles Center, Ill., May 6.—A number of years ago when my husband and I built a modest home and opened greenhouses in a Chicago suburb we were able to maintain a position as citizens of good standing, meeting all obligations promptly and also laying aside something for the future needs of our growing children. Compared to conditions at the present time, rural life in our community was ideal. An electrically operated well on our property provided us with an abundant supply of good, pure water, and our monthly bill for water and light together was frequently only $1.25, and never higher than $2.50. Since the installation of a water meter, which entailed an initial cost of $35, we have been charged an average of $11 monthly for water that is greatly inferior to that from the well, and our light bill is $3 and more.

Is it fair that in a time of general business depression we should be burdened with taxes to defray the cost of improvements made by the utilities corporation in the optimistic days of extensive real estate developments? Must we pay for water mains that are lying in rabbit fields, for unused equipment that will have to be replaced at the expense of future generations? Are not the utility company's old customers entitled to service at a moderate fee instead of being charged exorbitant prices which they cannot pay and which force them into the ranks of the tax slackers?

MRS. JOSEPH TURSKI.

AN UNGUARDED RAILWAY.

Chicago, May 6.—Is there a law or is there any possible way to have the railroad guarded or fenced off at the end of North Austin avenue? The railroad has high wooden fences in back of the houses, but at the end of this street it is open and is not safe for little children. There are a lot of little children on this street and I have a little boy of my own, and, although it is easy to tell a child not to go to the railroad and stay in the yard, it is a great attraction to see the engines.

MRS. MARION V. BARLOW.

SMUT.

Chicago, May 8.—A recent news story in your paper tells of the arrest and of the approaching trial of a downtown bookseller because he sold some supposedly obscene literature to the representative of an organization of vice crusaders.

Now, it is in no way my intention to offer a brief for the sale of salacious reading matter (though there may be ample room for debate as to what constitutes "obscene literature"; consider the recent barring by the United States customs office of Voltaire's "Candide"; also of a painting adorning the Vatican art galleries), nor for the merchant who handles such dubious merchandise. But it is even more difficult to justify or condone the tactics employed by the self-appointed vice reformers. For it seems, in the case in question, that the bookseller was enticed and entrapped into selling the particular book labeled obscene—entrapped by an agent of the very organization whose mission is supposed to be to clean up vice conditions. Does entrapment become any more decent or honorable when practiced by vice crusaders? Men condemn and laws penalize misrepresentation and fraud on the part of merchants; why should professional reformers be permitted to engage in such practices with impunity?

Another consideration: Why heap all the blame and penalty upon the proprietor of the book store? Is not the buyer equally at fault? To be sure, the fact that a given book store handles certain objectionable literature acts as a temptation and opportunity to potential purchasers; but is it not equally true that the bookseller would not carry such merchandise if he did not feel assured that there is a demand for it—that demand, often as not, coming from highly respectable individuals?

If these sanctimonious crusaders are sincere in their moral uplift endeavors, why do they not educate the people to read only clean literature and to eschew literary filth? Have they not learned the lesson that virtue and morality cannot be legislated into people, and that the club of the law is a poor substitute for moral guidance and precept?

HAPPY DAYS ARE HERE AGAIN.

Chicago, May 5.—In answer to my advertisement in yesterday's TRIBUNE for a maid to go to the country for the summer I had five telephone calls, three from women who failed to show up as promised. A year ago I had thirty-eight replies from business women, nurses, domestics, etc., all of whom begged for the position, some offering to work without pay in order to be fed for three months.

Better times are surely here when good jobs go a-begging! Or is domestic help receiving so much from the relief fund that housework is no longer attractive? PUZZLED.

5 NEW SCHOOL TRUSTEES GIVEN O. K. BY COUNCIL

Mayor Kelly's Appointees Pledged to Economy.

The appointment of five men to the board of education was approved unanimously yesterday afternoon by the city council. The new trustees, all pledged to an economy program, were named yesterday morning by Mayor Kelly. They are:

JAMES B. McCAHEY, 4850 Greenwood avenue, president of the J. J. Dunn Coal company, five year term to succeed H. Wallace Caldwell.

CHARLES W. FRY, 5959 South Francisco avenue, president of the machinists' union, five year term to succeed John A. English

PAUL DRYMALSKI, 3650 North Harding avenue, president of the Polonia Coal company, five year term to succeed James A. Hemingway.

HARRY W. SOLOMON, 3100 Sheridan road, authority on hotel and property management, one year term to succeed Lewis E. Meyers, who resigned.

JOSEPH J. SALAT, 1854 South Troy street, president of the Lawndale State bank, one year term to succeed Carter Blatchford, who resigned.

At the same time the council approved the appointment of Martin J. McNally, north side real estate operator, to the board of local improvements. He will succeed Ernst J. Kruetgen, who was appointed as a member of the Illinois commerce commissionn by Gov. Horner.

Two Others Appointed.

Two other appointments which did not need the sanction of the council also were made yesterday by Mayor Kelly.

Former Ald. Frank H. Landmesser was named commissioner of compensation to succeed Joseph H. Voss, and Dr. David O. Jones was appointed city physician, a position which he held during the régime of Mayor Dever and which was not filled by Mayor Cermak.

"All of the new school trustees are pledged to an economy program," Mayor Kelly said yesterday in discussing the appointments. "None of them was recommended by the Democratic organization and none of them was sponsored by a politician. They were chosen because they are business experts and because they are close to the people."

The mayor was asked if any of the candidates were qualified to take the presidency of the board to replace Orville G. Taylor, who accepted the post temporarily and recently sought to resign.

"All Fit to Be President."

Trustee Salat was born in what is now Czechoslovakia and came to the United States when he was 5 years old. He organized the Lawndale National bank and was first president of the institution. He resigned in 1914 to become president of the Lawndale State bank.

Trustee Solomon, former executive manager for the Straus building, was made president of the Transcontinental Hotels, Inc., last February.

The new trustees will take office at a ceremony to be held this afternoon. The board meeting yesterday was recessed until then for that purpose.

JUDGES SEEKING RE-ELECTION

JUDGE HARRY M. FISHER

Judge Harry M. Fisher, Democrat, is one of the six Circuit judges refused indorsement in the Chicago Bar association primaries. He was born in Lithuania 51 years ago and came to America when 12. He was admitted to the bar in 1904 and in 1912 was elected a judge of the Municipal court. He was reëlected in 1918, and in 1921 was elevated to the Circuit bench. He was reëlected in 1927. He has served 20 years in judicial office.

Judge Fisher is a member of the judicial advisory council and was the leader in breaking some of the age old traditions of the Criminal court which made for delays in the dispensation of justice. He was responsible for getting changes in procedure through test decisions, which later were upheld by the Illinois Supreme court.

The most notable were those which allowed the waiver of jury trial in a felony case, and which took from a jury the right to be judge of the law as well as the fact. This overturned a custom of a century's standing.

Judge Fisher presided over the stormy sanitary district graft trial in which Tim Crowe and others were convicted. He is rated one of the best lawyers on the bench, but has been criticized for his fondness for politics. During the last campaign he was disclosed as being involved in the intrigues of the "Secret Six" to injure State's Attorney John A. Swanson. His activities as a politician appear to be regarded by the bar association as spoiling his usefulness on the bench.

Among cases which brought publicity to Judge Fisher were the dog race track trials in which he issued injunctions and prevented raids.

In the recent bar primary Judge Fisher failed to get an indorsement. In a field of 19 he ran 18th. The report of the association says: "As a member of the judicial advisory council he has made notable contributions to the advancement of civil and criminal jurisprudence in Illinois. He possesses legal ability. But he has not the confidence of the bar. In our opinion he is unfit for judicial office and should not be renominated."

G.O.P. HEAD TAKES VEILED THRUST AT MRS. PINCHOT

Outgrowth of Her March with Factory Girls.

Scranton, Pa., May 10.—(AP)—Edward Martin, Republican state chairman, today repudiated and then "stood by" part of a "prepared speech" which quoted him as assailing a "prominent Pennsylvania woman" parading in a "flaming red costume" with strikers.

Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of Pennsylvania's independent Republican governor, one of Martin's bitterest political foes for years, marched several days ago in red attire with factory girls in an Allentown demonstration.

Omitted When He Makes Speech.

The statement did not identify the woman in the "red costume," nor did it name the place of the demonstration.

Martin made no reference to the woman in red when he spoke and announced before the meeting that he had no intention of discussing this phase of the advance address handed to newspapermen.

He talked about "racketeers."

After the meeting, Martin's representative said he had approved the excerpts as handed to reporters.

Martin said that the paragraphs he omitted from his speech were in the original, but that he thought it was understood the references to the woman in the red costume were "out."

He insisted he had no one in particular in mind and had no intention of referring to it in his speech today.

Mrs. Pinchot Replies.

Mrs. Pinchot at first declined to comment on the incident, but tonight issued this statement at her Milford home:

"Poor Gen. Martin!

"I said last night that he was a man afraid of his shadow and incapable of leadership.

"I didn't know then that he was afraid of children in sweatshops nor that he trembled before the color of a woman's dress. (Mine, by the way, happened to have been dark mulberry and not flaming red, as he said.)

COUNCIL APPROVES $56,884,444 TAX LEVY FOR SCHOOL BOARD

The city council yesterday approved the tax levy requested by the board of education, thus paving the way for the sale of 1933 school tax anticipation warrants. The 1933 levy totaled $56,884,444, a reduction of 7 per cent from the 1932 levy of $61,163,364. The levy for 1931 was $85,263,807.

Buildings	2,441,569	2,514,707
Bonds and interest.	7,984,444	7,353,354
Pensions	1,314,131	1,311,359
Playgrounds	608,300	229,599
Free textbooks		461,359

Mayor Kelly has expressed a hope that he would be able soon to obtain $17,000,000 for the school teachers. The adoption of the tax levy will enable the board to exchange 1933 warrants for 1932 warrants now held in the city's aggregate of funds if it is found that the 1932 warrants can be marketed easier than this year's.

With the appointment of five new trustees yesterday, the opinion was expressed that the school board will proceed to make efforts to salvage as much as possible out of the board's 1933 budget, in accordance with the wishes of the mayor.

SEVEN OF SITTING JUDGES REJECTED IN BAR PRIMARY

Announce Result of Vote on Court Candidates.

The Chicago Bar association last night announced the results of its primary on candidates for the Circuit, Superior, and Probate courts in the election to be held on June 5.

In the vote on Circuit court candidates twelve sitting judges received the bar indorsement and seven failed to get it. These seven did not receive enough votes to place them among the first 20 on the list. There are twenty Circuit judges to be elected.

Judge Friend Leads Field.

Twelve of the Circuit court candidates on the Democratic fusion ticket won indorsement. Among them are five Republicans who chose to run as Democrats. One of these Republicans, Judge Hugo M. Friend, led the field of candidates in the primary with 2,227 votes. The four other Republicans running on the Democratic ticket are Judges Kickham Scanlan, William V. Brothers, David F. Matchett, and Daniel P. Trude.

Three other Republicans who chose the Democratic ticket failed of indorsement by the bar association. They are Judges George Fred Rush, Michael Feinberg, and Stanley H. Klarkowski. None of the candidates on the People's Judiciary slate, the third ticket in the judicial race, won a bar indorsement.

O'Connell Is Indorsed.

John F. O'Connell, a Democrat, won the bar association indorsement for judge of the Probate court to fill the seat left vacant by Henry Horner's election to the governorship. For the Superior court Grover C. Neimeyer, a Democrat, won the indorsement for the full term and Donald S. McKinlay, a Democrat, received the indorsement for the vacancy left by the death of Judge Worth Caylor.

The following list shows the vote of the bar on candidates who got more than 100 votes. The names of the indorsed candidates are printed in bold face type. The party designations are noted by [R.] Republican, [D.] Democratic, and [P. J.] for the People's Judiciary ticket. Sitting judges are denoted by asterisks. The vote follows:

The People's Judiciary ticket was ordered placed on the June 5 ballot yesterday by the Cook county electoral board. Objections raised by John F. Tyrrell, counsel for the Republican central committee, that 11,535 illegal signatures were on the nominating petition were overruled. The board is composed of County Judge Jarecki, State's Attorney Courtney, and County Clerk Sweitzer.

MEASURE REGULATING SALE OF FIREWORKS PASSES SENATE, 28-5

Springfield, Ill., May 10.—[Special.]—The state senate tonight passed the fireworks regulation bill which it is sought to substitute for the O'Grady bill prohibiting the use of explosives in connection with the celebration of the Fourth of July.

The Sieberns regulatory bill provides that the sale of fireworks be limited to the period from June 27 to July 4, inclusive.

The senate refused to pass the Gunning chain store licensing bill. It received only twenty votes on the roll call and before the result was announced further consideration was postponed.

Hand-tailored!

1. Each individual part of each individual garment is cut by hand and not by machinery a dozen or more at a time. This insures correct size and proportion.

2. Marking threads are inserted at both the front and back of the coat at the time of cutting. When the coat is finally joined the tailor must see that these threads meet to insure the proper balance.

3. The canvas coat front is pure linen canvas and is made by hand in order to produce a softness and suppleness which cannot be secured with a stiff, machine-made front.

4. Lapels are made of fine wool hymo and carefully padded by hand. Each stitch is patiently put in by hand and painstaking care is taken to have the lapel conform to the softness of the hand-made canvas front.

5. Collars are expertly padded by hand in order that sufficient length may be given where needed. This assures proper fit and permits the coat collar to hug your neckline without bulging.

When we say that about our Suits this is what we mean . . .

There seems to be a great deal of misunderstanding about exactly what is meant when the term "hand-tailoring" is used. We consistently say that our suits are hand-tailored for while the period in which we are living has often been referred to as the "machine age" the clothing industry is one place where hand craftsmanship maintains its superiority over machine work in the achievement of character and individuality.

We have simply listed a few of the more important operations that go into the tailoring of our own Stanford Williams and Marshall Field & Company garments. The man who fully appreciates grace, ease and comfort in the styling of his clothing will usually insist on specifications like these in order to insure perfection of fit and impeccable smartness. And you may secure such fit and smartness at today's prices for our Stanford Williams clothing may be had as low as $35

"Tailored in our own shops," we say—and here's

Where fine clothing is born

Right here in Chicago, at 424 South Wells St., just a few minutes away from our own great clothing sections, is this shop which produces every suit that carries the Stanford Williams label. Employing scores of Chicagoans this establishment turns out thousands of fine hand-tailored garments each year. Here is just a corner view of a factory that occupies thousands square feet and which is one of the outstanding birthplaces of style in this country.

"Specializing in Stanford Williams Clothes" we say—and certainly

There is a Stanford Williams

A tailor of the first rank; one of the finest in the country. He's lived tailoring since his youth, serving his apprenticeship in one of the finest British tailoring shops. He's an artist, creator as well as a business man. In addition to being the director of our own clothing shops which bear his name, he is the manager of our entire group of clothing sections. He would be very happy to meet you the next time you are in for a suit of clothes and you are certain to enjoy talking to this man who stands out as one of the leaders in the men's clothing business today.

6. The front edge of the coat is basted by hand, then the edge tape is felled by hand to prevent any puckering or wrinkling.

7. Armholes are carefully basted and worked in by hand to avoid stretching. A very important operation!

8. Buttonholes are finely worked in by hand with narrow stitches in order to obtain softness.

9. The coat is finally off-pressed by hand in order that the suppleness, which has been aimed at through the entire construction of the garment is definitely secured.

PLACE HELD FOR MRS. ROOSEVELT AT FAIR OPENING

Give Details of First Day's Ceremonies.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

In making plans for the opening of A Century of Progress exposition on May 27 by President Roosevelt World's Fair officials are reserving a place for Mrs. Roosevelt in all arrangements, although no definite word has been received as to whether she will accompany the President.

The tentative program for the opening day ceremonies was announced yesterday. The program calls for an impressive parade down Michigan avenue and thence to Soldiers' field, where the official ceremonies will take place and where President Roosevelt is to speak.

The parade will form near Chicago and Michigan avenue at 9:30 a. m. and proceed south in Michigan avenue to 7th street, east in 7th street to the inner drive and south in the inner drive to the north gate of Soldiers' field.

Plan Reviewing Stand.

After passing a reviewing stand at the north end of Soldiers' field the marchers will circle the field and take seats in the arena. About 10,000 persons are expected to take part in the parade, according to Hugh W. Donaldson, in charge of arrangements, under Nathaniel A. Owings, chief of the special events division of the Fair.

Maj. Gen. of Militia Roy D. Keehn, commander of the 33d division, National Guard, will be head marshal of the parade. Preceding the motor car in which President Roosevelt, Rufus C. Dawes, Gov. Horner and Mayor Edward J. Kelly will ride, will be two squadrons of motorcycle police, two of mounted police, the Board of Trade Legion post band, the Black Horse troop, a pilot car carrying secret service men, and another squad of motorcycle police.

Behind the President's car will ride his military and naval aides and secret service men. If Mrs. Roosevelt comes, she will be seated in the next car in line, with Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes and other women of prominence. Several cars containing members of the President's cabinet and government officials will follow.

Queen of Fair to Follow.

The Morgan Park Military academy band and the entire cadet body will march next, followed by automobiles carrying the queen of A Century of Progress and her court of honor, chosen in a contest conducted by THE TRIBUNE and authorized by the World's Fair.

More than 1,000 soldiers from Fort Sheridan, including a battalion of infantry, a squadron of cavalry and a battery of field artillery, and virtually the same number from the Great Lakes naval training station will follow. Members of the United States Naval reserve also will march.

Several thousand Legionnaires will march in uniform. Spanish War Veterans, members of the G. A. R., Veterans of Foreign Wars, 200 Boy Scouts and special units of the police and fire departments will follow. The civil war veterans will ride in automobiles.

A 21 gun salute will be fired as the President enters the field. Flags extending around the top of the inclosure will be unfurled simultaneously. The national anthem will be played and an invocation read. Mr. Dawes will preside and introduce the speakers, Mayor Kelly, Gov. Horner, and President Roosevelt.

Frost to Give Address.

The outstanding event of the evening will be an address by Prof. Edwin B. Frost, the blind astronomer of Williams Bay, Wis., who will explain the significance of the sudden flashing on of all exterior building lights throughout the exposition. He will reveal how the lights are turned on by the magnified energy from a ray of light from the star Arcturus captured after a forty year trip from the star. Philip Fox, director of the Adler planetarium, also will speak.

MILITARY POMP TO THRILL COURT OF 1933 QUEEN

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

It's a long way back to the days when knighthood was in flower, but girls still love a uniform. So the military atmosphere is going to be thick around the royal court of the Century of Progress queen. The fifty-one girls destined to vie for the crown will be in the midst of uniforms frequently after their arrival in Chicago on May 25 for a glorious whirl of ten days.

Both the army and the navy will contribute their best efforts to impress and delight the group. Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius has arranged a review of 500 sailors at the Great Lakes Naval Training station in honor of the expedition of the queen and her court to the north shore on Wednesday, May 31.

En route to the naval headquarters the girls will pause for a brief look at Fort Sheridan.

On Friday, June 2, the queen of the Fair will take her retinue to witness the war show in Soldiers' field as guests of Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commanding the Sixth corps area. Picked men from the reserve officers' corps will be detailed to sit in the boxes with the girls and to interpret for them the various maneuvers and their significance in action.

Less official but more colorful uniforms will surround the group on other occasions, when they make their scheduled visits to the exposition grounds.

Photographs of the fifty-one girls chosen from the nearly 100,000 entrants from all corners of the world are being published each Sunday in the rotogravure section of THE TRIBUNE. The first ten appeared on May 7 and the second ten will appear next Sunday.

All of the fifty-one are due in Chicago on May 25. On May 26 the sovereign will be elected after a personal review by the eight judges. She will be crowned that night at a dinner in College inn at the Hotel Sherman.

ALDERMEN FIGHT OVER TRAMWAY TO FAIR GROUNDS

Failing yesterday to agree on spending $135,000 out of the traction fund to build a viaduct for street cars into Grant park at Roosevelt road, the city council committee on local transportation decided to meet again this morning.

Ald. James J. McDermott [14th] opposed the ordinance on the ground that it grants the surface lines special privileges. Pedestrian and vehicular traffic would be excluded from use of the viaduct. He pointed out that it is proposed to give the surface lines a grant in perpetuality. He recalled that when efforts were made to remove the car tracks from Lake Shore drive, the company sought refuge with the Illinois commerce commission.

FRANKLIN PARK TO OUST VETERAN TEACHING STAFF

Residents of Franklin Park were agitated last night by a ruling of the school board that all teachers who have taught in the Franklin Park school for more than ten years must find employment elsewhere for a period of one year before they could be eligible for reemployment. Petitions were being circulated asking that the ruling be rescinded.

The ruling was announced by the school board as an effort to bring new blood into the teaching staff, which numbers 14. Mrs. Harry Mitchell Lalor, principal of the school, who has taught in Franklin Park for 30 years, and nine other teachers are affected. The teachers are owed about three months' pay.

BARE TEACHERS' FIGHT ON FAIR AND CONVENTION

Write Friends to Stay Away This Summer.

Resentment of Chicago teachers over the nonpayment of their salaries has now been directed against the World's Fair and the National Education association convention here this summer, it was revealed yesterday. The teachers have been writing letters to friends in other cities telling them to stay away from the exposition and the convention.

It is said that various teacher groups also are planning to picket the World's Fair grounds. Such actions were criticized by Supt. William J. Bogan.

"Mistake," Says Bogan.

"It will be a terrible mistake for the teachers to oppose the Fair in that way," asserted Mr. Bogan. "There are committees composed of several hundred principals and teachers working hard on the convention, which will be held in connection with the Fair from July 1 to 7."

Mr. Bogan revealed that the situation had become so acute that Dr. Jacob Rosier of Washington, D. C., president of the National Education association, had sent him a telegraph query as to whether the meeting should be held in Chicago.

Mr. Bogan said he replied to DR. Rosier that sending the convention to another city would be "cutting off the nose to spite the face." He added that if the fair is a success, as it has every reason to be, and the convention was transferred to another city to become a failure, as it surely would be, then the educators would look very foolish.

Tells of Teachers' Letters.

Miss Florence Curtis Hanson, secretary and treasurer of the American Federation of Teachers, declared that she had received letters from teachers in other cities announcing that they would not come to Chicago until its teaching force had been paid. Miss Hanson blamed bankers and financial interests for the teachers' plight in her statement, but made no mention of the downward trend in tax collections.

The N. E. A. convention is expected to draw between 15,000 and 20,000 visitors to the city.

ROBBED ON WAY TO BANK.

George Campbell, assistant manager of the Eat Shop cafeteria at 6 East Lake street, was robbed of $310 yesterday afternoon by three men who caught him outside the door of the restaurant, which is on the second floor. He was on the way to a bank at the time.

BOARD MAY ACT TODAY TO PAY TEACHERS ONLY WITH FUNDS ON HAND

The board of education at its meeting this afternoon may consider paying the 14,000 teachers and not the 4,000 other school employes for last September. Enough cash has been accumulated for the teachers, but the board is still $500,000 short of meeting the entire pay roll.

September's pay roll was $3,346,679. The board has available $2,087,000 from the sales of 1932 tax anticipation warrants by the committee headed by Attorney Henry P. Chandler and $811,385, principally from the state distributive fund. The total of these resources, $2,898,385, would be more than enough to meet the teachers' $2,882,430.

The civil service workers of the board were paid in cash for their services in July and August, but they worked those months while the teachers did not.

A Windshield Wiping Racket Is Wiped Out

William Brown, 24 years old, 1735 West 35th street, developed such a good business that he attracted the attention of the police and is now in a cell at the central police station. Many motorists complained recently that boys had jumped on the running boards of their cars in Michigan avenue near Lake street and insisted on wiping the windshields and getting tips. Several of the boys were seized yesterday. They told Policemen Leo Wolff and John Shine that Brown organized them and took them to work every day in an automobile, each worker paying him 30 cents a day. Brown was found seated in his car in Lake street. The charge against him is disorderly conduct.

WATCH THE "MIRACLE CAR" CAPTURE CHICAGO!

"Comparison of the New Dodge Six with any other car in or near its price will amaze you. My new Dodge has the speed, power and performance that I would only expect in a car much higher priced. I looked at and drove many cars before deciding on Dodge and my purchase was based on the fact that the New Dodge out-performed all others."

All over town, excited motorists are saying the same thing. They cheer the Show-Down Plan as the sporting way to sell automobiles—the only plan that lets a car sell itself on merit alone.

Score Card Shows Value

If you want to be sure of getting the biggest auto value your dollars can buy, pick your next car on a Show-Down basis. Let the "Show-Down" score card show you how the Dodge gives you more for your money than any other car on the road! And 7 big ways that it saves you upkeep and running expense . . . $50 to $100 extra savings on these alone!

Faster acceleration—smoother speed—115-inch wheelbase—quicker stops without skidding—shock-proof steering and mono-piece steel body—are just some of the multitude of modern engineering improvements that make the big new Dodge Six the Wonder Car of the Nation . . . On the open road, up hills, in dense traffic, you'll see this amazing new motoring marvel give performance that leaves competition definitely behind.

No wonder the Show-Down Plan is sweeping America! No wonder wise motorists everywhere are buying Dodges! For who wants to buy a car that won't do what a Dodge does so easily?

Resolve to choose your next car—but on value! On a Show-Down of performance, beauty and utter luxury . . . You'll be thrilled at what the big new Dodge Six has to offer—for Oh-so-few dollars!

Save Money with a Dodge, too!

Your present car will probably make the full down payment on a new Dodge. And like other motorists, you too may be surprised to find that the low monthly payments on a big Dodge Six are actually less than you now pay for upkeep and repairs on your old car.

Accept Dodge's invitation. Even if you do not expect to buy, call for particulars of the Show-Down Plan and a copy of the score card—the new aid in judging real motor car value.

"My new Dodge has the speed, power and performance that I would only expect in a car much higher priced," says H. T. James

Reduced Hips 8 Inches with New Quick, Easy Reducing Treatment

"I lost 23 lbs. in 6 weeks taking BonKora. Reduced my bust 5 inches, waist 6 inches, hips 8 inches.
"I used to hate to wear a bathing suit. Now I look well in one. I am sending you a photo just taken in a bathing suit and one taken in a dress when I was stout. See the difference! I now weigh 125 lbs.
"I feel fine, too. BonKora is evidently a good tonic as well as a weight reducer. Instead of the old, tired feeling I am full of energy. I feel younger and look younger.
"I didn't starve either. With BonKora I can eat plenty and still lose fat."—Mrs. H. H. Hallock, Jr., 1105 W. Lombard St., Baltimore, Md.

Now Slender Looks Years Younger

Look at Mrs. Hallock's photographs. Note that not only did she lose fat, but the heavier parts reduced most, making her shapely as well as slender. Then take BonKora, the quick, easy Reducing Treatment, which has taken off fat even when other methods failed.

It reduces fat new "3-stage" way. Triple action; triple speed. Take a little BonKora daily to help body function properly; to remove heavy wastes and moisture from fatty tissues. EAT BIG MEALS of foods you like as explained in BonKora package.

There are no dangerous drugs in BonKora. In fact, the treatment builds health while reducing fat the quickest way. You feel and look younger.

Chicagoans, Once Fat, Praise BonKora

Lost 61 Pounds
Reduced Bust, Waist, Hips

"I weighed 200 pounds before taking BonKora. Now weigh 139. Lost 61 pounds in 10 weeks. Reduced bust 6 inches, hips 9 inches, waist 12½ inches. Used to wear 44 dresses. Now wear 18. Headaches and indigestion all vanished."—Miss Lillian Kahn, 3904 Roosevelt Rd., Chicago.

Loses 33 Pounds

"I have tried many things for reducing but never found anything to equal BonKora. I didn't starve, either. Got rid of headaches and blood pressure spells. It relieved my rheumatism. Now I can do all my housework once more."—Mrs. Katherine Lukes, 7449 Parnell Ave., Chicago.

Katherine Parker, May Stillwell Will Be Presented at Court

Chicagoans Will Make Bows to King George and Queen Mary Next Wednesday.

BY JUDITH CASS.

TWO Chicagoans are included in the list of fifteen Americans to be presented to King George and Queen Mary at the third and fourth royal courts next Wednesday and Thursday, Miss Katherine Lahm Parker and Miss May Henderson Stillwell. The latter's name was given as Osborne in the dispatches that came from London yesterday, but this evidently was a mistake for May and her sisters, Eleanor and Francise, never have taken their step-father's name, Osborne, at least not as far as their Chicago relatives know.

Miss Stillwell hasn't lived in Chicago for about ten years, not since her mother, the former May Henderson Peabody, was divorced from Addison Stillwell and married to Charles Glidden Osborne and moved to England, but in the dispatches her home is given as Chicago. Miss Stillwell is coming here this summer, in August probably, with her mother for a visit with relatives and friends. That Mrs. Osborne and her lovely nineteen year old daughter will be entertained a great deal goes without saying. According to present plans, Mrs. Osborne isn't planning to bring Eleanor or Francise or her youngest daughter, Mahmea Lolita Osborne. Mahmea is named for Mrs. J. Ogden Armour and Mrs. Osborne—it had to be a different version of May because of May Stillwell.

Some of Mrs. Osborne's relatives here are Stuyvesant Peabody, her brother; Augustus S. Peabody, Mrs. Hermon B. Butler, Dr. Stuyvesant Butler and Francis Peabody Butler. Miss Stillwell's father lives here and also her grandmother, Mrs. Homer A. Stillwell.

Miss Stillwell and Miss Parker both are to make their bows to King George and Queen Mary at the court on Wednesday. Miss Parker, who is the elder of the two attractive and gifted daughters of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Frank Parker of Fort Sheridan, has been studying dramatic art at the Royal academy in London since last autumn and she is not expected to return home until August. She was graduated from Smith in 1931 and her sister, Anne, received her A. B. degree there the following year. She now is studying for her master's degree at Northwestern university.

Hold Knitting Class at Trading Post

Scott Bromwell and George Chappell will be golfing one of these days in home knit sweaters. And if you don't think they will beam with pride as soon as they get into them, you have another guess coming.

The sweaters are being knit over at Lake Forest's Trading Post on Monday and Wednesday mornings by Mrs. Bromwell and Mrs. Chappell. They are two of the dozen Lake Forest matrons who have been taking advantage of the instruction offered by the "Post" for the benefit of the Alice Home hospital.

Both Mrs. Robert A. Gardner and Mrs. Uri B. Grannis are ready to blossom out in brand new yellow sweater suits that are the result of their own industry and Mrs. Lithgow Mitchell has a green suit to her credit.

One of the prides and joys of the knitting class is Mrs. Edward H. Bennett's blue and white boucle dress. And then there is a brown shetland wool sweater Mrs. John Coleman has made for her young son, John, and a tan sweater Mrs. Lester Armour has just finished for herself. Mrs. Kent Chandler wasn't content until she had made a blue and white tweed jacket [it's knitted] just like one she had seen in a smart style magazine. Now she's showing with pride that her copy is every bit as good looking as the expensive model.

Reids Postpone Mary's Debut

Because of her youth the Bryan S. Reids have decided not to bring out their daughter, Mary, this winter, as they had thought they might do. She has been abroad all winter in Miss Nixon's school in Florence and, according to present plans, she will have another winter abroad before being presented to Chicago society. She is arriving in New York the middle of June, where Mrs. Reid will meet her and bring her back to a house in Lake Forest that the Reids hope they will have found and be settled in by that time.

Mr. and Mrs. Reid have just returned from Wilmington, Del., where they have been visiting the A. Felix du Ponts. While there they invited all the Du Pont clan to Chicago for A Century of Progress and from the enthusiastic way their invitation was accepted it is likely that a fair percentage of this old eastern family will be guests of the Reids in Lake Forest some time this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth S. Templeton sailed yesterday aboard the S. S. Washington to get their daughter, Miss Josephine Templeton, who is at school at Miss Nixon's in Florence. They will be gone about six weeks and when they come home they will start making plans for Miss Templeton's debut this fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius B. Watson of Winnetka are planning to go east late next month to be present at the graduating exercises at the Hill school at Pottstown, Pa., on June 27, for their son, Cornelius Jr., is to be one of the graduating class. Miss Chloe Watson, who is at Smith, also will be there to see her brother receive his diploma.

Other boys from this district being graduated at this fashionable preparatory school this year are Ralph Greenlee and Peter Moon of Chicago, Gordon MacLean of Evanston, and George Roberts Jr. of Lake Forest.

Plan Vacations at Watch Hill

Some of the Chicago summer colony at Watch Hill have started making plans to go there next month. Mrs. Louise de Koven Phelps is leaving the first part of June and will be in the same house she always rents there. Her son, Hubbard Phelps, is motoring from Los Alamos ranch school in Santa Fé, and around June 18 he will stop in Chicago for a few days to see A Century of Progress before continuing east to join her.

Mrs. George R. Nichols is another one who has made her plans for Watch Hill. As soon as her son, Frank Billings Nichols, returns from Choate and has time to see A Century of Progress she will take him and her younger son, George R. III., to her house at this fashionable resort.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hibbard will probably go down for a few weeks this summer, although their plans are not definite.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine are being congratulated upon the birth of a second little boy, John Gordon Valentine, born Tuesday night, and his fond grandmother, the senior Mrs. Valentine, says he is exactly like his older brother, Patrick A. Valentine III.

Three year old Johnnie Ames' baby brother, who was born Friday at the Evanston hospital, has been named William Henry, after his maternal grandfather, William Henry Schoonmaker. Mrs. Ames will leave the hospital next week and join her husband, John D. Ames, in their house in Glenview, where they moved a short time ago. They are expecting Mr. Ames' mother, Mrs. Adelaide Schroeder Ames, to arrive from California tomorrow or the next day.

Contrary to expectation, Miss Peggy Glidden did not return from abroad with her father, Henry L. Glidden, but remained in Italy with her future sister-in-law, Miss Jean Rogers. The girls will travel a bit. Miss Glidden wants to see Vienna again before returning to Paris, where Miss Rogers has been spending the winter. Miss Glidden is engaged to be married to John Roderic Rogers of Ausable Falls, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. McCutcheon are expected at home from Phoenix around May 25.

Mrs. C. F. Glore Returns Home.

Mrs. Charles F. Glore has returned from California to her Lake Forest home, where she and Mr. Glore will remain for the summer. They have invited many friends to visit them during A Century of Progress, but as yet they are not certain whom to expect nor when to expect them.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hosmer Morse left in their automobile yesterday morning for a three weeks' motor trip to Montreal, New York, New Haven, and perhaps Washington. Mr. Morse is going on business and Mrs. Morse wants to see their son, Charles Jr., who is a student at Yale.

Upon their return the Morses will settle down to a summer in Lake Forest, but it does not sound like a very dull one, for already Mrs. William F. Covington [Betty Morse] has promised to come here in June with her children to spend a few weeks in the country and see A Century of Progress. However, the little Covingtons—a boy, 6, and two girls, 4 years, and 9 months—will probably spend most of their time building sand castles on the Morses' beach while their mother sees the Fair.

Garden Tour on North Shore.

Mrs. James W. Prindiville called yesterday to tell us about the very interesting garden tour and tea that the Northwestern Settlement board of Winnetka has planned for Friday, May 19, from 2 to 4 o'clock. The gardens to be visited are the rock garden of Mrs. Carl Miner in Hubbard Woods and the spring gardens of Mrs. Walter S. Primley in the same suburb, Mrs. Lansing B. Warner's in Winnetka, and Mrs. Frank E. Payne's at 191 Wentworth street, Glencoe. Tea will be served at Mrs. Payne's home. Tickets, which are 75 cents, may be procured from any of the above men-

Queen's Orders Spoil Public's Show at Court

BY ANN WHTTINGHAM.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 10.—When the lights of Buckingham palace blaze tomorrow night they will announce the fact that their majesties King George and Queen Mary are holding the first court of the London season. Almost alone in a world of drab republics and still more dictatorships, the English court survives as one of the oldest and assuredly most brilliant royal functions anywhere.

The queen has for some time considered the long wait in the Mall as the cars are lined up for entrance to the palace grounds an undignified procedure. At her wish other arrangements now are made. Cars will be admitted into the palace quadrangle and the overflow will gather in the forecourt. Every one seems pleased except the public. Thousands used to gather along the line of cars to gaze at the debutantes.

It was one of London's best shows and it will be missed. Another of the queen's innovations is the request that the ladies do not smoke in their cars. The queen, as arbiter of social decorum, thinks the dignity of the occasion is not enhanced by the sight of women puffing on cigarets under the windows of the royal residence.

Business Men Display Skill as Musicians

BY EDWARD MOORE.

"Chicago is proud of you and rejoices in your success," said Rudolph Ganz on the stage of Orchestra hall to the Chicago Business Men's orchestra last night. Mr. Ganz, as president of the Bohemians and introduced by George Lytton, president of the orchestra, was acknowledging the gift of the proceeds of the concert for the Bohemians' emergency fund.

Once a year this organization of about 100 business men and amateur musicians gives a public concert at Orchestra hall. There is no other orchestra like it in the country. The only professional in its ranks is Clarence Evans, its conductor, otherwise identified as the occupant of the first viola chair in the Chicago Symphony orchestra. The players are all business and professional men, salesmen, tradesmen, merchants, doctors, lawyers, practically every activity one is able to name offhand.

But they play professional programs, and play them with a zeal and liking that quite overcomes any technical shortcoming of their nonprofessional status. The symphony last night was Brahms' fourth, which conductors and orchestral men will tell you has an uncommonly tricky last movement, one by no means to be approached light-mindedly. Yet this orchestra played it not only safely but light-heartedly, as though nothing mattered except the fine piece of music that it is. It was preceded by the Bach-Abert Chorale and Fugue, and at the end of the concert came some highly agreeable tunes by Grainger and Tschaikowsky, which also demonstrated that here is an orchestra that digs beneath the musical surface.

One member of the orchestra had reason to feel proud of its violin soloist, though she rates as a professional and one of high merit. She was Mrs. Avern Scolnik, known to the concert stage as Amy Neill, and in private life as the wife of the principal second violin of the orchestra. She played Lalo's "Symphonie Espagnole" with a finish and glitter that put her into the first flight of violinists. She is a great artist who appears in public all too seldom. The audience was cordial throughout, but Mrs. Scolnik was the hit of the evening.

The Orchestral Association of Chicago, in control of the destinies of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, took in five new members at its meeting yesterday. They are Arthur G. Cable, Alfred T. Carton, C. B. Goodspeed, Chauncey McCormick, and J. Sanford Otis. Election of officers resulted in the reelection of Charles H. Hamill as president; Joseph Adams, vice president; Augustus S. Peabody, second vice president; Chalkley J. Hambleton, secretary; Henry E. Vogell, treasurer, and Charles F. Bostetter, assistant secretary.

A performance of "Die Meistersinger," in commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the death of its composer, Richard Wagner, is announced to take place at the Chicago Stadium Friday, July 21. In the cast are Else Alsen, Margarete Matzenauer, Paul Althouse, Fred Patton, and Herbert Gould, all present or past members of the Metropolitan Opera company, and Oscar Colcaire of the deceased Civic Opera company.

Paul Robeson Returns to Make 'Emperor Jones' Film

New York, May 10.—(AP)—Paul Robeson, Negro baritone who has made London his home since 1927, arrived today on the liner Majestic with Mrs. Robeson to play the leading rôle in a motion picture of Eugene O'Neill's "Emperor Jones." He said he did not know where the film would be made, but that there has been some discussion of making it in Haiti.

Small Niece Attends Maud Sippy Hill

When Bertram Welton Sippy Jr. gave his sister, Mrs. Maud Sippy Hill, in marriage yesterday afternoon to Thomas Ross King he was wearing an especially happy smile, for he had just become the father of Bertram Welton Sippy III., born a few hours before to the junior Mrs. Sippy at the Presbyterian hospital.

Only relatives and a few intimate friends witnessed the ceremony performed at 4 o'clock by Dr. Horace J. Bridges before an improvised altar of palms, ferns, and giant white snapdragon in the oak paneled living room of the bride's mother, Mrs. Bertram Welton Sippy, at 5615 Woodlawn avenue. For her wedding Mrs. Hill wore a gown of navy blue sheer crêpe trimmed in Alencon lace. The white band of her matching turban combined with her bridal bouquet of gardenias and valley lilies.

Dressed in a lovely old fashioned pink organdy frock with lace pantalets and mitts, little 4 year old Nona Ann Sippy, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. Ivan Sippy of La Grange, was her aunt's only attendant. She was quite at ease during the ceremony, for her playmates, Katherine and Paul Knaplund, niece and nephew of the bridegroom and the children of Prof. and Mrs. Paul Knaplund of the University of Wisconsin, bore the ribbons with Kenneth and Francis Sippy, the twin sons of Dr. and Mrs. Burne Sippy of La Grange.

John W. Cullen Jr. of Wilmette served as best man for Mr. King, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. King of Wilmette. After a short wedding trip Mr. King and his bride are to reside in Evanston.

Turzac Water Colors Are Fascinating

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Two attractive exhibitions have just opened within a stone's throw of each other. At the Allerton gallery are water colors and wood cuts by Charles Turzac and at the Illinois Women's Athletic club are paintings by Joseph Birren.

Charles Turzac is giving us something in the nature of a return engagement. Last spring the Allerton gallery first introduced his charming and delightful work. The present exhibit increases the favorable impression aroused then.

The water colors are chiefly in two groups, the one of Chicago scenes and the other of scenes abroad—Czechoslovakia for preference. The peasant water colors are thoroughly fascinating. The color is fresh and tender, the composition admirable, and the sense of the various incidents whimsical and unaffected.

There is no one who will not be enraptured by such paintings as "Peasant Values," "The Market," "Waiting for Customers," "The Sale," and "Girl with Goose." The pattern and color in these little sketches have enduring value.

The Chicago scenes are also admirable. Particularly striking is "Diana Court," lent by Mrs. Frank G. Logan. "Buckingham Fountain" is a vivid bit of sparkling color, modern in tone, fresh in feeling. The near-by wood cuts lack the sparkle of the water colors but are strongly and capably done, unusually fine examples of that particular craft.

Joseph Birren, in the Illinois Women's club, is fortunate in his group of landscapes. Trees are always this painter's first concern, and in the various canvases he repeats his formula for their representation with great aplomb. They are most decorative.

"The Almond Grove" is one of the loveliest, and next, perhaps, is the Swiss chalet on Lake Michigan, a real house somewhere near Holland, Mich. This is the first of a series of Chicago artists' exhibits to be held in the lounge on the fourteenth floor of the club.

Style Decrees Back to Brim Hat Movement

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Back to brims!

Just one survey of any and all the millinery collections proves that you can buy some very flattering and feminine shadow hats with the widest brims that have been seen in weeks. The colors are gray, brown, madonna-blue navy, red and black and all the brims have sheer edges that will do grand things to any pair of eyes.

The gray hats especially are worthy of great cheering . . . no more funny shades of spinsterish gray with faint shadows of lavender that every one avoided, but a good French gray, a dove gray, and a pale romantic silver gray are this year's successes.

The straws are semi-rough, very picturesque and most effective with new spring and summer cottons and linens . . . the transparent edges match bows of the same material, and white edges against inky black straw is quite as eye striking as it sounds.

Some new fabric hats just unpacked are stunning . . . you can find Agnes' new skimmer sailor affair made of embroidered "sheer," the lovely rose coral background is frosted with delicate patterns of leaves and scrolls embroidered in white. The hat itself is wickedly demure, with just enough of a brim to warrant the name. It has a particularly good shaped crown and this model is matched to one of those perky neckscarfs, also of the same rosy tinted material of the hat.

Mainbocher, another whizz with new ideas for headgear, has sent some checked sailors that are the last word in smartness. They are trim, dashing models, made of red and white, blue and white, or brown and white silk and cotton mixtures with a tiny gold thread glinting through the rows of checks. A very pert bow that looks like a pair of rabbit ears is pulled through a contrasting circle directly in front of the crown, and what is perhaps the neatest, niftiest collar scarf is sold with the hat. This narrow, checked, precise appearing collar scarf is just a mere accent of color to wear with the hat and a dark street costume, proving that it takes only a mere scrap of color to finish a chic ensemble in the grand manner.

And . . . for all those shoppers who have shuddered over the leaning tower of Pisa hats there are some of the very new and very deflated straws that spread themselves, flatter than any pancake, way over the heads of the fashion-wise early buyers.

One pastoral affair is of rough peasant straw, with a crown not any higher than an inch. The crown is encircled with a wreath of field flowers. A tiny black elastic holds this flyaway plateau on the head.

Others, equally skittish-looking and just as flat, with wide, very straight brims, are available in piques, fancy linen weaves, straws and sheer materials, but all are fitted with the anchor elastics, surely something quite new and unusual for the prowling shopper to gasp and gossip over.

Set Lilac Time for Two Days of Next Week

Flower and Fruit Guild Approves Plans.

Leaders of the Chicago Plant, Flower, and Fruit guild yesterday approved plans for the annual Lilac Time, sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, to distribute flowers to the poor and sick of Chicagoland. Tentatively the Lilac Time is set for Thursday and Friday of next week.

For the fourth consecutive year THE TRIBUNE will have the coöperation of the flower guild in obtaining and distributing lilacs.

The meeting was held yesterday in the office of T. V. Purcell, a vice president of the Peoples Gas company, who is president of the guild. Miss Harriet Vittum, in charge of Northwestern University settlement, reminded the group that "never before have we needed heartening, cheering things as we do now in the sections where there is hunger for food and hunger for beauty. The actual suffering is mental as well as physical and flowers relieve the worry of whether some one cares."

Mrs. F. W. Kingsley, Evanston, general chairman, announced the flower guild's 1933 summer season of regular distribution of flowers, fruits, and vegetables through the organized charity groups in the poorer sections of the city and some of the hospitals.

At Lilac Time commuters may leave their blossoms at the various railroad stations at booths to be maintained by the flower guild.

In Lombard, yesterday, final plans were arranged for the annual Lilac festival which this year will take the form of a 15th century town fair in England. The pageant will be presented Saturday evening, May 13, at 7 o'clock. A plot of ground two blocks square, adjacent to Lilac park, will be the scene of the celebration. Miss Mildred Fryer is the 1933 queen. Other characters include Samuel W. Norton, lord mayor, and Rebecca Howe, 1932 queen.

After the program of a little more than an hour, the cast of 250 will join the audience in a carnival and street dance. L. S. Whitbeck, president of the Lombard Lilac league, has been named lord of the county.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Field have opened Caumsett, their estate at Lloyds Neck. Next Monday afternoon Mrs. Field will open the estate grounds and gardens for a charity party.

Mrs. Cleveland E. Dodge and Mrs. Francis Boardman left last evening for Aurora, N. Y., to pass the weekend at Wells college and attend the annual May day exercises.

Mrs. Howard F. Whitney has returned from a stay of several months abroad and has opened Craigdarrock, her country place at Glen Cove, for the season.

Some Unknown Woman

By Elisabeth Sanxay Holding

SYNOPSIS.

Dinah Allen and Jane Rosslyn are roommates in a Manhattan boarding house. Dinah, from the south, envies and imitates Jane's air of mystery and sophistication. Jack Fiske a young boarder from Vermont, is head over heels in love with Dinah, who considers him just a hick. Dinah and Jane stroll to the corner drug store for sodas. A good looking young man in a silk hat, not quite sober, invites the girls for a ride in his car. To Dinah's surprise Jane accepts for both of them. He takes them to his home. Dinah soon finds herself left alone, with Jane's purse instead of her own. In Jane's purse Dinah finds an automatic pistol. All the lights are turned out. Dinah rushes for the door and is crabbed by strong arms. She shouts. Jane reappears. She pushes Dinah away from the scene of their host lying in a pool of blood. Next morning the papers carry the story of the murder of Philip Divine, Broadway playboy, and said there were two bullet wounds. Jane and Dinah saw a tall, dark man with a mustache as they left Philip Divine's house. Jane recognizes Jack Fiske's sterling qualities and tries to bring Dinah and him together. Jane admits to Dinah that she knew Philip Divine before and that she also shot him.

INSTALLMENT X.

NOTHING BUT A HICK.

And then, because of the pain in her friend's voice, Dinah put aside her own terror and dismay.

"Never mind, dear," she said. "It doesn't matter. If he recognizes me, never mind. We'll find a way out."

"Dinah, if you ever come across that man again, do anything to avoid him. Don't speak to him. Don't listen to anything he has to say. He's——"

"You know him, Jane?"

"I did know him—once."

All through her childhood and her young girlhood Dinah had had unlimited sympathy and patience shown to her; she was the youngest of the family, and the most beloved. Even in New York, where she had found that people had a strange fashion of minding their own business, she had got more sympathy than perhaps she merited. If she didn't like her dessert, Mrs. Cotter would secretly give her a piece of cake in her room. If the heat made her pale, her employer was considerate. If ever she was blue or homesick, there was always Jack Fiske—or some one else to sorry for her.

Strange, now, that she should be the comforter, that Jane's head should rest upon her slight shoulder. It was strange that she, who had never before known grief or trouble or fear, should know now how to solace that stronger spirit that had endured to the breaking point. They sat together in the dark summer night; the noises of the street floated in to them: the laugh of a girl on the front steps, trucks thundering past, the distant rumble of the "el," the shrill, excited voices of tired little children, still playing in the streets. And Dinah, whom life had as yet taught so little, yet found within herself a new wisdom.

"Don't mind, Jane dear. Don't mind so much, darling, there are two of us—you and I. That makes it all so much easier. We'll find a way out. Jane. This won't last forever. Close your eyes, Jane, and rest. You're so tired. Tomorrow it won't seem so bad."

And it was Dinah who waked first in the morning, a rare, even an unprecedented thing, for as a rule she slept as long as she could, with something of a child's utter relaxation. But this morning her eyes were open before the alarm clock sounded; she turned it off, and, leaning on one elbow, looked at Jane lying in her bed at the other side of the room.

There were things Jane had not explained; there were, obviously, things in her past life that she did not mean to explain.

"But it doesn't matter," thought Dinah. "I don't care. She's—good, and we're going to go through this together."

The sun had risen, the world outside was awake, but Dinah had half an hour before she must get up, and she used that thirty minutes for thoughts more serious, more unhappy, than had ever entered her pretty head before. And the chief one was an immeasurable regret that that man should be dead. Dead, when he was still young, and handsome, and laughing.

It was true that he had behaved ill. Perhaps Jane knew worse aspects of him than she herself had encountered. But it was cruel and dreadful that he should die, while he had so much to live for, and was so young. Every detail of what she had seen of that house was impressed upon Dinah's brain, all that nonchalant luxury, that easy good taste. "Young clubman and Broadway playboy," the newspapers had called him. She could see him before her, as she had seen him enter the drug store, his silk hat at the back of his head. Perhaps he was dissolute, not much use in the world. But he had been happy, he had relished life—and in a moment he had been wiped out, robbed of everything. To live in a house like that, to be rich, carefree, superbly at ease.

Dinah looked about her at the bedroom which she had once thought so comfortable. "Sunny front room. H. and c. water. Suitable two business ladies. Home cooking. . . ."

"I hate it!" she thought.

And thought of waking late, in a beautiful room, with a deft maid bringing in her coffee, thought of herself in an exquisite dressing gown, lying back on the pillows, opening her mail, invitations to dinners, balls, love letter. . . .

"I've never really been in love," she thought. "None of those boys back home count. I was only a kid."

And certaintly Jack Fiske did not count. There had been moments, now and then, when his ardor had stirred her a little. But that was over. What was he? An ordinary, uninteresting young clerk.

"Millions like him," she thought.

The man who was dead had been different. The girl who married him would have had everything, that elegant little house to live in, beautiful clothes, trained servants, trips to Europe—to Paris. . . .

"O, I'm so sorry! I'm so sorry!" she cried to herself.

No matter whose hand had done it, he was gone, and that was a cruel and hideous thing. She remembered him, lying there in the hall, and she shivered.

"If I did it—I'll be sorry—all my whole life."

Now it was time to wake Jane, time to begin the usual routine. Bathe, dress, breakfast, go to the office, work, come home, eat dinner, be asked to go out by Jack Fiske, or some one like him.

She was ashamed of herself for thinking so, in the face of death and danger and remorse. But she was eighteen, and she hungered and thirsted for life. Not this life, but another that was gay, and gracious and luxurious.

"Jane! Half past seven!"

Jane opened her eyes, and by the look in them Dinah felt certain that full realization and memory had returned at once to her friend. Perhaps even in her dreams she had remembered.

"Dinah," she said. "I was talking to Jack Fiske last night. We went to dinner together. Dinah, I don't think you realize what a lot there is in that boy."

"I do not!" said Dinah. "He's much too—imperious, and I don't like that. And what is he, after all? That spring overcoat he had was just awful! He's simply nothing but a hick!"

"He won't be long, Dinah. He's going to get on. He's got all the qualities that'll make him successful. He has energy and intelligence and imagination."

"I don't see the intelligence," said Dinah. "He can't talk. And he hardly ever laughs."

"It's practical intelligence, Dinah."

"Well, it's boring," said Dinah. "And as for imagination! Coney Island or a bus ride—that's about as far as he goes."

There was a mutinous look on her pretty face, an unhappy look, and with a sigh Jane kept silent.

When they went down to breakfast, young Fiske was already in the dining room, at his undesirable table. Never yet had he been one minute late to his work. And, thought Jane, if there were anything of the hick about him, as Dinah asserted, it lay only in his unabated energy and vigor, and in his slender, muscular body, the alertness of his dark face.

Small Defects No Drawback to Attraction

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Why let what you usually exaggerate into a great physical drawback stand in the way of your romantic life?

Time and again we hear from girls or boys relating height or shortness of stature as a social barrier. Or, it may be a limp, or a "funny looking nose," or hair that never looks nice. The other day a girl reported that her eyes turned "green" under certain lights, over which she becomes self-conscious due to the comments forthcoming. Sometimes the physical drawback is more marked than any of these things mentioned.

For each and sundry, however, we recommend completely ignoring any seeming defect in the scheme of physical lure. History is rife with tales of people actually deformed who have conquered, with love one of the outstanding conquests. You don't even need to refer to history books. Your eyes may serve to show you self-conscious ones that men and women are married every day who are far from being shining lights in the world of physical perfection. BUT—

They do not make the mistake of talking about their imperfection. They do not call attention to it. They're not weak enough to need that reassurance, or pity, or attention.

If it is something, like being very tall or very short, that you have no power to control—well, there are other tall people and short people to consort with. Talking about it as a liability only makes the long or short stature seem worse.

Always there is the gift of charm, of personality, of disposition to minimize any physical fault. And these, really, in the game of love matter a great deal more than the shape of the nose or the color of the eyes.

Jean Harlow Tells of Plans to Visit Fair

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., May 10.—[Special.]—Talking to Jean Harlow on the set of MGM's "He Was Her Man," today, your correspondent was mildly surprised to learn that one of the things an envied actress worries about, between scenes, is how long a visit she can make to the Century of Progress.

"I'm planning to go back for the Fair this summer," Jean says. "But I have so much work cut out ahead for me, in the way of pictures to make, that I don't know just when I can make it. I always try to make one or two trips a year to Chicago, I get too lonesome for the old home city if I don't. And I don't intend to miss the World's Fair, studio or no studio."

The Fox company has been scouring Los Angeles, San Francisco, and San Diego, and today ran want ads in the three cities in a panicky effort to locate an Irish immigrant boy between 5 and 8 years of age who still talks with a pronounced Irish brogue. The youngster is desired for Janet Gaynor's next film, "Paddy," which is scheduled to start next week, providing they find the boy.

Worthington Minor, New York stage director, is haunting the sets at RKO studio, soaking up film technique so he can carry out an assignment to direct movies.

Christy Cabanne, who directed two silent pictures about the United States Naval academy, "Annapolis" and "Midshipman," has written and will direct another with the same theme, "The Glory Command." F. McGrew Will is doing the film story. The company will go to Maryland to make part of it.

Sylvia Sidney is cast for "Chrysalia" and the title is to be changed to "Desire," providing the Paramount studio can get a release on that title from another studio which already has registered it. Frederic March, Miriam Hopkins, and George Raft are in the cast.

Mae West's colored maid once was a Harlem actress.

tioned women. In case of rain the showing will be postponed until the following day.

Mrs. Prindiville has gone out to the Deerpath inn in Lake Forest, where she will be until she goes north in August. Her daughter and son-in-law, the E. Turner Biddles, who live in Lake Forest, will go north to Mr. Biddle's parents' [Mr. and Mrs. Robert Biddle] camp at the Canadian border when the Robert Biddles return from Europe.

Events of interest today include another causerie of the Alliance Française at which Mrs. George L. Cragg will act as hostess and Miss Marjorie Westcott and Mrs. Vivian Cooper will sing French songs, and the opening of an exhibition of paintings, drawings, and mural designs by Lord Hastings in Increase Robinson's gallery from 3 to 6 o'clock.

Give Plays Tonight for Drama League.

It really is a very great compliment to those who produced and acted in the three one act plays that were given at the Arts club recently that the Drama league members who saw the plays were impressed enough with their excellence to ask that they be repeated for the entire membership of the league, for the Drama league is most discriminating. The plays are to be repeated tonight, starting at 8:30 o'clock, at the Arts club, with refreshments afterward. Mrs. Louis K. Boysen, Mrs. Charles Davis, Mrs. Pauline Palmer and Mrs. Paul Shorey will pour.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bischoff, Mr. and Mrs. Botsford Young, Mr. and Mrs. Downer McCord, the William Johnsons, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Howse, Miss Mary Taber and the Robert Twymans are among those entertaining at dinner tonight, later taking their guests to hear Ellery Walter's lecture for the benefit of the Chicago Junior school. Mr. Walter's subject will be "Germany Today and Tomorrow." The lecture is to be given at 8:30 o'clock at the Drake hotel.

Mrs. Arthur J. Mitchell is opening her Winnetka residence today for a tea for the young women working to raise the village quota for Arden Shore. Mrs. Roy Bard will assist Mrs. Mitchell today as hostess.

There are numerous theater parties being planned for next Monday night at the Erlanger theater for the opening performance of the "Teatro dei Peccoli," which is to be a benefit for the Lower North Community council. Mr. and Mrs. A. Watson Armour, Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard Carpenter, the Charles S. Deweys, the Raymond C. Dudleys, Mr. and Mrs. Newton Hudson, Mrs. Phelps B. Hoyt, the Benjamin C. Allens, Mr. and Mrs. Rosecrans Baldwin, the Charles Y. Freemans, the Walter Paepckes and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Y. Freeman are among those planning to be there.

Offer Free Medical Examination to All Children in Schools

Every school child in the city will have an opportunity for a free medical and dental examination during Youth week, May 15 to 27, Henry P. Chandler, president of the Youth Week federation announced yesterday. The service will be given through the cooperation of the Chicago medical and dental societies and Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health.

"The examinations will start on May 15 to allow sufficient time for the thousands of youngsters to see dentists and doctors," Mr. Chandler said. "Cards are being distributed in all public and parochial schools, and each child who wants an examination can obtain a card from his teacher. The pupil must be accompanied by parent or guardian when going to the dentist or physician's office."

Forty-three district chairmen of Youth week activities in neighborhoods discussed plans for the week's celebration yesterday in the board of education offices. A different activity will be featured each day. The week is celebrated nationally as a recognition of the ambitions and attainments of young people.

KIDNEY SUFFERING Curbed!

Druggists Here Offer Foley Pills on 10 DAYS' TRIAL

"I could not sleep, stoop over nor rise up without great pain. Since taking Foley Pills I rest well at night and have no pain."—Mrs. Black.

If in cases like this—not one or 100, but thousands—which bring men and women past 35 to Foley Pills for genuine relief from the miseries of night rising, painful and frequent bladder action, swollen ankles and feet, puffed eye-lids, pins and needles cramp, poor appetite, indigestion, loss of weight, no pep, backache and failing strength due to faulty kidney elimination.

Send to druggist now for wonderful Foley pills on 10 days' trial. Watch bladder action improve—see pain and soreness go — sleep sounder, eat heartier and feel years younger. If not more than satisfied with your improvement, return empty package and get your deposit back. What could be fairer?

How to Wash Out Your Kidneys

Your kidneys purify your blood by straining out uric acid and other poisons. You must pass 3 pints of water daily.

If you pass less, take Foley Pills and see how they wash these acid poisons right out of your body and make you feel simply "grand and glorious." Make test today.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., May 10.—[Special.]—Mrs. Roosevelt returned to the White House this evening in time for dinner after being absent on a motor trip for a week. She went to the Mayflower after dinner tonight to hear the illustrated lecture given by Mrs. Woood, wife of the Rev. Charles Wood, pastor for many years of the Church of the Covenant and now pastor emeritus. The subject was "Kashimir to Siam."

The secretary of state, Cordell Hull, entertained a company at luncheon today at the Carlton, where he makes his home, in compliment to Dr. Hjalmar Schacht of Germany, here for conferences with the President.

The Polish ambassador, Stanislaw Patek, entertained at luncheon today for Gen. Roman Gorecki of Poland, president of the Fidac, who is a guest in this country of the American Legion. The ambassador presented his guest today to President Roosevelt at the White House.

BY MARY MEADE.

Off for the fourth day's cruise through the vitamin alphabet—and arrival at vitamin C! Which looks like good sailing and fair weather. The tomato and orange juice folk have seen to it that we are pretty well acquainted with the temperament and whereabouts of this vitamin C. But just to get cleared up on some of the particulars:

Right now we are well out of the shivers of winter. But it's a woeful fact that some of the effects of winter may still be hanging on. Far too many families during difficult winters, such as this, have made up their daily diet from meat, potatoes, bread, and pie, with occasional baked beans or corn for variety. These foods are all right in themselves, but they do not supply all the food elements we need—and especially are they low in vitamin C.

To imagine yourself with whooping cough is not so hard, but to imagine yourself with the dread disease of scurvy is difficult—and most unpleasant. Yet there is a definite threat of scurvy in that diet we just mentioned. For vitamin C is the "anti-scorbutic" vitamin and unless it is plentifully supplied in meals—in fresh fruits and vegetables particularly—scurvy or some of its unpleasant preliminaries have a big chance of turning up. The disease shows itself in soreness and stiffness of the joints, soreness of the gums, and eventually loosening of the teeth.

We used to hear of it many years ago among sailors on long sea voyages or during famine times when fresh foods were not to be had. But even in this generation many cases turn up among babies who have been fed only upon milk which has been heated. This heating destroys nearly all the vitamin C present in milk—and there isn't a great deal to start with. And this is one of the big reasons why orange juice and tomato juice are given to even very young babies as a supplement to milk.

"But," women have told me, "we don't care for that fresh truck at our house. And nobody's gums are sore that I know of."

And the answer is this: Long before the real troubles of scurvy set in—perhaps they never will start if we are not completely deprived of our vitamin C—other difficulties turn up. We don't want just to prevent a disease. We want to be 100 per cent healthy. And unless we are taking in each day a goodly share of fresh foods and vegetables—especially the citrous fruits and tomatoes—raw or canned—other unhappy things will happen.

With too little vitamin C children grow irritable and lose that abundant pep of the runabout period. Everybody catches cold and other diseases more easily. Something that we may take for rheumatism develops. And, saddest of all, teeth decay, no matter how much we scrub and polish. Even in adults it had been found that adding plenty of orange juice and other fresh fruits and vegetables to an inadequate diet quickly and completely stopped dental decay. What's more, since we can't store this vitamin in our bodies, it's important that we get our quota every day. "C" loses its health-boosting properties when it is heated or long exposed to air. Tomatoes are the shining exception to this rule. They are abundantly supplied with vitamin C, yet their acid apparently protects it against the heat of cooking.

But ready we are now for today's table. Similar ones have already appeared this week for vitamins A, B, and G. Tomorrow and Saturday we'll wind up the family with vitamins D and E. These six vitamin tables, by the way, will be sent to you if you would like them for your cookery files and if you've forgotten to clip them each day. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope when writing.

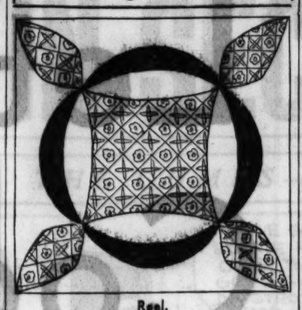
VITAMIN C.

Main benefits:
1. Produces a stronger, more healthy condition of bones and body.
2. Paves the way for sounder teeth and firmer gums.
3. Prevents scurvy.

Main sources:
1. Oranges, lemons, grapefruit, and their juices.
2. Tomatoes, fresh or canned.
3. Green leafy vegetables, particularly watercress and raw cabbage.
4. Raw turnips.

Stability:
Tomatoes keep a great part of their vitamin C, even though cooked. Other foods lose all or nearly all of theirs when heated. That's the general rule, but we can rescue a part of the vitamin even when we cook if we have a care in doing it. "C" dissolves in water, so by the use of waterless cookery we will be saving some. Or simply save your cooking juices and make soup of them. Also, cook fresh foods as quickly as possible. Any alkali (we sometimes use baking soda) is death to vitamin C, so should not be used unless absolutely necessary. Try to avoid curdled milk without the use of soda in tomato soup.

Interesting Quilt Lost Its Name During Civil War



Reel.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Inspired by the reel on which yarn was wound for the old spinning wheel, this design originated in Kinderhook, New York. Legend gives it an interesting history. During the civil war when orders were given to evacuate a town near Chattanooga, directly in the path of an advancing Union army, a southern housewife hastily snatched this unfinished quilt from the frame and buried in it the family silver and other heirlooms. Many years later, when the treasure was unearthed, the name of the quilt pattern could not be established for a time, and it was rechristened "Order No. 11," the military order for evacuation. The design now is known by both names.

For a quilt pattern of this design, send five cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn street.

THE STAGE

"Yoshe Kalb," the Yiddish drama given by Maurice Schwartz's company, will end its engagement at the Apollo theater with next Sunday night's performance. The production will visit Detroit, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Boston before ending its tour. The Apollo will be closed for a short period.

Luther Greene, a young impresario who has been staging plays at International house, announces performances of O'Neill's "Emperor Jones" at the Goodman theater tomorrow and Saturday nights. John Dunmore, a Negro actor of professional experience, will appear in the title rôle. The tom-tom motive which accompanies the action will be executed by Duke Kwei Kuntu, a native of Ashanti Land, on genuine jungle instruments.

The Shakespeare Repertory company of New York, which has been acting the classic dramas in the Broadway district for twenty-five weeks this season, will start on a tour June 3 and plans a World's Fair engagement in Chicago. This organization is under the direction of Percival Vivian, an alumnus of Ben Greet's companies. It took over the lease on a ghost theater at Fifty-ninth street and Seventh avenue, New York, renamed it the Shakespeare, formed a stock company, and prospered to the amazement of Manhattan's cynics.

Riverview park will open for its thirtieth season of open air entertainment on May 24. C. C.

Character Can Be Instilled by Indirect Means

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

The letters of grandmothers still alertly interested in the management of children, and open to the new that is also sound in our growing knowledge of boys and girls of all ages, always interests me. Likewise the letters of those who may not be grandparents, but whose children are grown, and who still are keenly interested in the ever fascinating subject of this column—child guidance.

The following letter, with its friendly tone, carries a point which contains wise counsel from one who knows child nature and its response to a combination of faith and suggestion.

"Although my anxieties concerning the training of my children are long past, yet I read your column with much interest daily. Your counsel to anxious mothers always meets my approval.

"One system of training you have at times commended which I think deserves strong emphasis: to wit, training by indirection. Looking back to my own childhood I can recall, vividly, that no direct admonition from my parents ever affected me as did the conversation between father and mother in praise of some conduct or condemnation of the acts of a third individual not present.

"How deep was the impression when I heard my mother say to a caller that she could always depend upon any statement made by her Willie because he was too honorable to be untruthful! That sank deeper into my mind than would a dozen lectures, or even a whipping. To assume, in silence, that your son is truthful cannot register on the young mind, but to say so in his hearing when talking to another etches it in permanently—at least, it did so with me.

"It is quite easy to create in the child mind the feeling that he must not disprove a mother's good opinion. And as a valuable by-product, there grows up a bond of love between the child and the appreciative mother or father. Observation has taught me that few parents realize they are implanting noble or ignoble ideals of life in their children by their daily conversation around the table or at the fireside."

MINUTE MYSTERY

[Copyright; 1933; By The Chicago Tribune.]

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

SO THIS IS LONDON!

"'The foggiest morning in London's history' is, as you fellows know, a favorite phrase of English detective fiction writers," said Prof. Fordney to members of the police training college.

"Well, I actually encountered one of their celebrated fogs on my first visit to his Britannic majesty's capital," he continued.

"The fog was actually so thick one could hardly see two feet. Having an important appointment at New Scotland Yard and as vehicular transportation was out of the question I set out on foot after obtaining directions from the hall porter at my hotel. It wasn't long, however, before I was hopelessly lost.

"I stumbled and wandered about for half an hour or so, the fog as thick as ever. Just as I came to the middle of a block, I heard a shot fired. Walking in the direction from which the sound seemed to come, I soon found myself at a street corner where a small crowd was huddled about a prostrate figure.

A bobby was soon on the job (great chaps, those London police) and I was about to go on my way when I heard some one shout, 'There goes the blighter! Catch him!' As a figure dashed ahead, not a foot from me, I tripped him and after a struggle the constable slipped the cuffs on and took him away.

"Now, you fellows who expect to be real sleuths and crime investigators, should easily be able to catch me on this story," laughed Fordney as he finished.

WHAT IS WRONG WITH IT?

[See solution on page 29.]

Perhaps you have a story or problem you would like to submit to Prof. Fordney. If so, send it to him in care of this paper. He will be delighted to receive it.

French Favor Swagger Suit for Utility Wear

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Lots of women, to whom all the ins-and-outs and whithers-and-yons of these complicated fashions have to be reduced to one outfit capable of standing an all-day endurance test, are lighting on the swagger suit. It has all the high style anybody can ask of an ensemble, and it certainly can stand the gaff in a rational wardrobe.

The swagger suit recipe is an easy one, made of equal parts jacket, flared at the back, with loose sleeves, and simple, slim skirt. The length of the jacket is uncontrolled, but its sleeves should be three-quarter length. The blouse to go with such a suit is usually something darkly checkered or gayly striped, and made of linen or cotton. Wear a plain dark blouse if your suit is light, or a plain white one if your suit is dark.

The Molyneux suit, sketched today, shows you how the swagger suit trick is generally done in Paris. The jacket and skirt are made of smooth semi-sheer dark blue woolen, and the former is hip-length, straight in front and flared from the shoulders in back, with loose, three-quarter length sleeves. Tailored collar, revers and bands inside the sleeves are made of linen striped in blue, yellow, navy and red. So's the blouse, which has short sleeves, and a big cat bow under the chin, AND a point below the belt in front and back. The skirt is cut bias with seams at the front and back.

Too Many Women Carry Heads Like Horses, Says Sculptor

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

We don't know whether she means that heads are dropped like Dobbin's after a hard day, or whether they're carried too far back, as if the check-rein were too tight. Probably both was meant, since heads are known to be carried either way, commonly. The "feed bag" droop is more common than the other, to be sure.

But—that head of yours and the way you carry it is being observed in the most critical way today. If you knew what was being said about that forward thrust chin you'd pull it in and tell it not to be so pushing in future, please.

I suppose the importance given coiffures today and the more or less tryingness of hats combine to make this head part of the anatomy the subject of so much critical analysis. Anyway, it's come to be the pivot upon which your whole style swings. Fair enough, too! Let's hope the censuring that goes on keeps up until we've all mastered the trick of a chic head carriage.

I did a good deal of talking about this during the West Point exercise campaign just concluded. If you kept up the stretching work there urged your head by now will be up atop and upright spine just where it ought to be, and your hats and self will be looking better than ever.

But today I want to urge you again not to forget that head tilt of yours.

It wouldn't be bad for a good many of us if suddenly we were shifted off to the West Indies or to West Africa and forced to go native. There women learn perfect head carriage from holding burdens on their heads. The whole carriage of these head-burdened women is superb.

We could pick up a fairly heavy book and do a little walking around just to check up on the way our head behaves. Anyway, keep this thought in mind about carrying the head smartly.

Eugene T. Skinkles Married 54 Years; Recall Elopement

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene T. Skinkle yesterday observed their 54th wedding anniversary in their home at the Austin Manor hotel, 312 North Central avenue. Mr. Skinkle, architect, engineer and editor, is 74 years old and his wife is 71. Both were born in Chicago and except for one year spent in Florida have always resided here. Their parents came to Chicago in the early 1850s.

Mrs. Skinkle, the former Cornelia Drake, the daughter of Cornelius and Harriet Drake. For many years her father was cashier of the United States Express company in Chicago. Mr. Skinkle's parents were J. W. and Julia Skinkle. His father was connected with early banking and lumbering establishments here and also was a pioneer in the refrigerating machinery business. Lik his father before him, Mr. Skinkle is a 33d degree Mason.

He recalled yesterday the romantic circumstances of his wedding on May 10, 1879. On that day he and Miss Drake eloped and were married in Kenosha, the same town where his parents had been wed 25 years before. The couple have two sons, Jay W. and Harry T. Skinkle; two daughters, Mrs. Alice Wadsworth and Mrs. Cora Rice; and four grandchildren.

An Open Letter to Users of Coal and Striking Coal-Yard Employees

For over 25 years, up to and including December 31, 1931, the Chicago Coal Merchants' Association had a series of labor contracts made directly with the various Unions. For all those years the Association recognized Union Labor, and does today.

In December, 1931, in accordance with a practice of many years, the Union wrote the Chicago Coal Merchants' Association requesting a meeting with a Committee of the Association to negotiate a contract to take effect January 1, 1932.

The committee was appointed and negotiations were in progress when the Union ended them by sending a letter to the Association stating that the Union had already made a contract with the "Trucking and Transportation Exchange of Chicago and Vicinity," and contrary to the established practice of many years, no labor contract could or would be made directly with the Chicago Coal Merchants' Association, but that individual coal companies would have to become "subscribers" to the Trucking and Transportation Exchange and conform to the contract made by the Union with the Exchange.

Neither your employer nor the Chicago Coal Merchants' Association had any voice in making this contract. This was the first the Association had ever heard of the "Trucking and Transportation Exchange" and little could be learned of the details of its organization, its backers, or its officers.

Individual members of the Chicago Coal Merchants' Association soon received applications to become "Subscribers" in the Trucking and Transportation Exchange, and were informed that the "registration fee" for each truck or wagon was $10.00, and that the "monthly dues" to the Exchange would be $1.00 per truck per month. A metal "T & T" plate was to be furnished for each truck or wagon "registered," and no Union man was to be allowed on any coal vehicle unless it bore such a plate.

Remember, this was in the midst of the winter season, and the public needed coal. The coal merchant was confronted with the choice of becoming a "T & T Subscriber" or trying to operate with non-union men. So, to avoid inconvenience and suffering to the public, and to continue employing Union labor in the only manner left open to them, the coal merchants as individuals became "Subscribers" to the Trucking and Transportation Exchange, though they knew of no advantage such a superfluous organization could bring to the public, organized labor, or themselves.

During the year 1932 nothing was learned which served to do anything but confirm this opinion. No meeting of Subscribers of the Trucking and Transportation Exchange was ever called. No report, financial or otherwise, was ever furnished them. The only officer whose identity was revealed was the Secretary.

In December, 1932, in pursuance of its policy of dealing directly with recognized officials of the Unions, the Chicago Coal Merchants' Association appointed a Labor Committee to negotiate a wage and working agreement for 1933. The Committee attempted to contact the then recognized officials of the Unions, but were refused such a meeting, and were referred to the Trucking and Transportation Exchange.

Early in January, 1933, the Exchange notified its "Subscribers" that it had made new contracts with the Unions, copies of which would be furnished later. Subscribers were also informed that the monthly dues of the Trucking and Transportation Exchange had been doubled.

A few days later, when the proposed new contracts were received, they were found to be impossible of acceptance. Among other things, they contained provisions for the collection of past due accounts from coal buyers, contrary to public policy and clearly illegal. Furthermore, the Subscribers had not been consulted in the making of these contracts, as provided in the Subscriber-agreement with the Trucking and Transportation Exchange.

The Chicago Coal Merchants' Association informed the Unions of these facts, and again stated its desire to deal directly with them. A second set of contracts between the Trucking and Transportation Exchange and the Unions was then sent by the Exchange to its subscribers. These contracts purported to cover the three-year period from 1933 to 1935, inclusive, and were again impossible of acceptance, subscribers still having no voice in their making.

Some individual coal merchants saw fit to accept the terms of the new contracts. Others, we are reliably informed, obtained special and secret agreements involving lower pay for their men and more favorable conditions for the favored employers.

Accordingly, on May 6, members of the Chicago Coal Merchants' Association posted notices to their employees announcing wage reductions intended to put them upon an equal basis with those companies favored by the "T & T."

Beginning May 8, strikes were called involving over 175 yards. Union officials visited many yards with varying proposals to permit them to reopen, in some cases without "going along" with the "T & T." On May 9 the Trucking and Transportation Exchange addressed letters to many of its former subscribers referring to the three-year contract mentioned above, and stating that it "is the only agreement now in effect in Chicago and vicinity" and that "it is a serious matter for any individual dealer or group of dealers in the coal industry in the City of Chicago to attempt to break down what has been accomplished by this agreement."

1. That there is no advantage to the public, to labor, or to the employer in making an agreement through a superfluous intermediary organization such as the Trucking and Transportation Exchange.

2. That it should be possible to make an acceptable labor contract directly between the Unions and the Association.

3. That in the event of disagreement as to the details of such a contract, they may be left to arbitration.

Bush Likely Choice for Pitching Job.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 10.—The Chicago Cubs, after standing around in a Flatbush fog waiting for some sunshine to give them a chance to play a double header with the Brooklyn Dodgers, gave up at 12:30 o'clock today, and took an afternoon train to this city, where tomorrow they will try to play the opener of a scheduled three day series with the tailend Phillies. The sun was shining brightly when the lads took the train in New York.

The Cubs haven't played a game with Brooklyn, and won't until the Dodgers open a series at Wrigley field a week from Friday. Last Monday's scheduled opener was called off just before game time and set over for the double header which didn't happen today. Yesterday's scheduled single game was put over as part of a double header on July 2. Just where they will drop in today's foggy postponements has not been decided. The next Cub visit to Broklyn is to be a four day stay, June 29 to July 2, inclusive.

Still After No. 4.

The Cubs are just as willing as not to have Philadelphia as the locale for prolonging their winning streak, which has been dangling at three straight. The Phillies so far have been pretty much of a disappointment to the followers who had doped them to start off and remain all season among the top three in the league. Even last year, while the Phillies were about the business of getting into the first division for the first time since they finished second in 1917, they weren't so hard for the Cubs to handle. The champs won the season series in Philadelphia, 6 games to 5, and took the season series in Chicago, 10 games to 1.

In fact, mathematicians figure the Phillies won the pennant for the Cubs, for while the Cubs beat the Phillies 16 games out of 22, the Phillies beat the Pirates 14 games out of 22. In other words, the Cubs were eight games better against the Phillies than were the Pirates. The Cubs beat out the Pirates in the pennant race by a margin of four games.

Bush Likely to Pitch.

Manager Grimm may start Guy Bush tomorow. Guy is eager to get the assignment. He has lost three of his four starts to date. In the game he won from Pittsburgh, 3 to 2, he had to work like everything, for his teammates were able to make only five hits off Swift. The Cubs won simply because Swift had a mental lapse and staged a windup which enabled Stephenson and Grimm to perpetrate a double steal.

Last year Bush won 19 games while losing 11, so, to be as good as he was last year the lean Mississippian is confronted with the sizeable task of winning 18 games while losing 8. No wonder he wants to get at the Phillies. Grimm said, however, that he might switch to Malone, who also possesses one victory but only two defeats—each on home run pitches.

Dickering for Klein Again

President William Veeck will renew his offers for Chuck Klein when he meets Philly officials tomorow. Details of the offer will not be made public in the event the Philadelphians again scorn the Wrigley bag of gold, and even if Klein is obtained there will be no official announcement of terms, though such matters generally leak out. It is reported bidding will start with an offer of $100,000 and two established players.

If Klein is obtained he'll go into center field immediately and will make his first appearance in Chicago against the Giants next Tuesday afternoon.

SIX STARS WIN LASTING FAME IN ANNALS OF GOLF

Here's a Story of a Mashie Shot That Helped Win Title

[This is the eighth of a series of articles on golf by Tommy Armour, who recently came to Chicago to become professional at the Medinah Country club. Armour has been ranked as one of the world's leading players for nearly a decade, having won every major title within reach of the professional, including the American, British, Canadian, western and metropolitan open titles, and the P. G. A. crown.]

BY TOMMY ARMOUR.

In this land of the survival of the fittest and "Long live the king" there are not many names in the athletic world that remain in the mind of the public for more than a decade. Champions of today are forgotten tomorrow. People of whom many blood stirring stories have been written are hardly even memories in a few years.

TOMMY ARMOUR.

It is a severe punishment for the one time stars to take, but to me it is the main reason for America's supremacy on athletic fields. The traditions of Europe teach the perpetual eulogizing of their heroes, and they retain their grip on the affections, minds and pocketbooks of the public long past their prime. In America a man cannot possibly rest on his laurels. Sports discoveries of the age are relegated to the realm of nonentities after a couple of failures. Big champions, consistent stars are "finished" after six months of unsuccessful campaigning.

Names of Six Will Live in Golf.

This standard of efficiency has produced a keenness in American athletes that has made them the finest in the world. There are, of course, a few exceptions. In the golfing world there are three amateurs and about the same number of professionals whose fame will last for a long time. The amateurs are Bobby Jones, Chick Evans and Francis Ouimet; the professionals are Walter Hagen, Johnny McDermott, and Gene Sarazen. With the exception of Sarazen, all of these players have withstood the fickleness of public sentiment for well over a decade, and his name will probably do the same.

It is a story about one of these players, Charles Evans, that I will write today. He started as a caddy and became a great champion. If his putting had been up to Bobby Jones' standard there is no knowing to what heights this artist would have gone, and I can assure you he was an artist.

There has never been his equal with the iron clubs. From the short niblick shot up to the long iron he was equally proficient, and over a period of years, as his record proves, he was one of the golfing greats. I would like to tell you about a shot that Chick once played in the amateur championship at the Engineers' Golf club in New York in September, 1920.

1,000 to 1 Shot Is Evans' Best.

All champions have made some particularly memorable shots, and this one was the best in Evans' long career. Playing Reggie Lewis in the first round, he reached the 36th tee one down and one to go. Lewis hit a beautiful drive and Evans missed his. Chick hooked his second shot into the rough at the edge of the fairway, about 160 yards from the green. Lewis put his second shot on the green.

Now this was the situation: Lewis was one up and one to go; his ball was on the green in two, and Evans was 160 yards from the green in two. It appeared to be a certainty that Lewis would win. All he needed was a half, and from the position Chick's ball was in, it looked 1,000 to 1 that Lewis would win the hole. Chick's ball was deep in the clover. The green sloped away from him very abruptly and there was a big hill directly in front of the green. In fact, the whole left side of the hole sloped sharply to the

PARKE WINS TWO MORE; PUTS OVER AURORA DOUBLE

Idaho Youngster Has His Eye on Title.

BY FRENCH LANE.

That little fellow, Lee Humphreys, out on the Pacific coast had better get a hustle on him or he's not going to win the American jockey championship.

He's out in front by about a dozen winning mounts now, but he won't be there long if Monty Parke keeps bootin' 'em home at Aurora and continues on other Chicago courses.

Every day Parke climbs higher and higher on the ladder which stretches up to the riding supremacy. And he's been doing it over the most difficult sort of muddy tracks.

Nice Day's Work.

Parke galloped to victory twice yesterday, getting Prince Macaw up just in time to win the second race and won on Cotton Time in the third, thus completing the daily double which paid off at better than $29. That is something, for the folks at Aurora plunge on Parke's mounts because he usually makes good for them.

Aside from that rather heavy day's work, Parke was second on Guide Book and finished third on Golden West and Jeff O'Neil. Thus he wasn't out of the money in five attempts. Quite a day's work for a lad who weighs but 100 pounds and who is not out of the 'teen age. But he's been rambling along at just such a pace ever since he won his first race on a Chicago track, less than a year ago.

Brothers Teach Youngster.

The members of the Parke family from Idaho are staking everything on the kid brother to bring home the championship, just as his older brother, Ivan, did twice back more than a half dozen years ago.

Brother Ivan and brother Burley, who was also a rider, are here teaching the boy all the tricks and skill of the trade. Parke naturally, through his brilliant riding, is getting almost the pick of the mounts, and he has made so few mistakes that he more than likely will continue to be on the best horse in many races.

While the sun was shining a greater part of the afternoon yesterday and one of the largest crowds of the season watched the races, the track was more difficult than ever. The time was so slow in some of the events the clockers could hardly believe their eyes.

Seth's Ballot Again.

The North Aurora claiming purse was the best race on the program and Seth's Ballot demonstrated that he is one of the greatest mud running selling platers in the country when he won it rather handily from Wood River by three-quarters of a length. Golden West, Parke's mount, was third.

It was the fifth straight victory for Seth's Ballot. He scored two of them at Lexington and three at Aurora. He was backed stoutly, yet paid $5. Stake horses are seldom more consistent than Seth's Ballot has been during the last five weeks.

NORTHWESTERN, WISCONSIN NET TEAMS TIE, 3 TO 3

Northwestern and Wisconsin tied in a Big Ten conference tennis match at Evanston yesterday. The score was 3 to 3. Capt. Tetting of Northwestern defeated Black, 6-1, 6-4, for the Wildcats' only victory in the singles. Northwestern triumphed in both doubles matches. The Wildcats will meet Notre Dame at Evanston tomorrow in their fifth match of the season. Results:

SINGLES—Tetting [Northwestern] beat Black [Wisconsin], 6-1, 6-4; Howes [Wisconsin] beat Sink [Northwestern], 6-4, 6-4; Kernjack [Wisconsin] beat Laux [Northwestern], 6-3, 6-4; Greeley [Wisconsin] beat Combe [Northwestern], 1-6, 6-2, 7-5.

DOUBLES—Tetting and Sink [Northwestern] beat Black and Howes [Wisconsin], 6-2, 3-6, 6-4; Laux and Combe [Northwestern] beat Kernjack and Greeley [Wisconsin], 11-9, 3-6, 9-7.

HEAD PLAY JUST LAUGHS AT MUD IN FAST WORKOUT

Pimlico, Md., May 10.—[Special.]—Head Play and Broker's Tip, the horses that seesawed far in front of the Kentucky Derby field last Saturday at Louisville, worked out here this morning in preparation for the $25,000 added Pimlico Preakness this Saturday. The racing strip was deep in mud.

The showing of Head Play was remarkable, considering the conditions, and many believe the son of My Play and Red Head will go to the post favorite Saturday although he lost to Broker's Tip in the Derby.

He went a mile in 1:41 3-5 hard held, and galloped out a mile and a furlong in 1:57, after being slowed down by Jockey Earl Steffen at the mile. The fractional time for the mile was :24, :48 3-5, 1:01 2-5, 1:15, 1:28 3-5, and 1:41 3-5.

Broker's Tip galloped a mile alone in 1:46 3-5 and was making no effort for speed. He appeared not to want to work alone and the whip was applied.

Silent Shot, a good mudder which will start only if the track is wet, went a mile easily in 1:45 3-5. Poppyman did the same distance in 1:44.

THINGS YOU MAY NOT KNOW About the WHITE SOX

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

PAUL GREGORY was a high school teacher for one year at Pace, Miss., after graduation from Mississippi State in 1930 . . . taught history and biology . . . also coached the high school football and baseball teams. . . . Mississippi State now has three alumni members prominent in big league circles . . . the two others are Buddy Myer of the Senators and Hughey Critz of the Giants.

Al Simmons was 18 years old when he began to look around for a job in organized baseball . . . wrote Connie Mack asking for a tryout, but the reply was unfavorable . . . later on Mack paid $30,000 in cash and several players to the Milwaukee club for the lad he had turned down . . . Al hooked on with the Milwaukee club by paying a visit to the office of the late Otto Borchert, who owned the team and also promoted boxing shows . . . when Borchert looked up from his desk and saw Simmons, attired in cap, sweater and ill fitting pants, he thought he was a prelim fighter looking for a bout.

Jimmy Dykes' first trip away from home was to join the Portland, Me., club in 1915 . . . homesickness took hold of him and he lost 17 pounds in two weeks . . . Hugh Duffy, then manager there, noted the young man's mental state and told him that he would do him a favor by releasing him . . . Dykes was glad to get it and started for home the same day.

Charley Berry has neither chewed nor smoked tobacco in any form . . . never has had any desire for the weed . . . starred in football at Lafayette and was named left end on the last All-American team picked by the late Walter Camp in 1924.

Coach Jimmy Austin once made a putout at first base, although he was playing third . . . it happened in a game between the Browns and Senators at Washington . . . a Washington batter hoisted a popup over first and Austin ran over to that corner of the diamond . . . First Baseman George Sisler signaled for the catch, but the ball dropped at his feet . . . Austin picked it up and tagged the runner, who had just rounded first base.

Manager Lew Fonseca has a perfect record as a big league pitcher . . . he pitched one inning for the Sox against Cleveland late last season and set down three Indians in a row.

CINCINNATI REDS TRIUMPH OVER PHILLIES TWICE

Win, 10 to 7 and 4 to 3; Klein Hits 3 Homers.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 10.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds balanced their won and lost columns today as they batted out a double victory over the Phillies to raise their percentage to .500 and send Philadelphia deeper into the cellar. The scores were 10 to 7 and 4 to 3.

Chuck Klein, right fielder of the Phillies, did his best to stave off defeat, hitting three homers in the two games. He cracked out two of them in the opening game to account for five runs and drove in two more in the nightcap with the other circuit hit. The three boosted his total for the season to six.

Pinkey Whitney, injured captain of the Phils, made his first appearance of the season as a pinch hitter in the ninth, but a short fly to right field was the best he could do. Score:

BIG SIX BECOMES SEVEN AS KLEIN, FOXX HIT HEAVILY

Chuck Klein fence busting activities at Philadelphia and Jimmy Foxx's consistent hitting in a double header at Detroit yesterday sent the batting averages of the two players soaring and increased baseball's big Six to "The Big Seven."

Klein connected with three home runs and a single in eight times at bat to go into a tie with Traynor, who was idle, with an average of .354 Foxx drove out three hits to boost his average to .365 and oust Sam West from the third position in the American half of the sextet. The standings:

OLD SAM JONES FINDS CHAMPS EASY PICKING

Swanson Triples to Clear Bases.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox rubbed the championship luster off the Yankees yesterday and they weren't gentle about it. The sandpaper that removed the polish from the champions was applied by old Sad Sam Jones' pitching arm and a flock of base hits. The combination was so effective that the Yanks accepted one of their worst beatings of the campaign and also slid back into a first place tie with the Cleveland Indians. The score was 10 to 2.

The greatest shock of all for the New Yorkers was that the Sox rose up and smacked their ace, Vern Gomez, as if they had never heard of him. They clubbed him for two runs in the opening inning and then caused him to leave the game in the second with one run across and three on the bases. Bespectacled Danny MacFadden stepped in at this point and finally ended the uprising with five runs over the counter. After that Danny suffered some more before he was given needed relief.

It's Great Day for Jones.

For five innings the 40 year old Jones conducted the party so successfully that there were visions of a shutout, a trick that hasn't been pulled on the Yankees since Aug. 5, 1931, or a total of 243 games. But the vanishing of the shutout in the sixth didn't irk Jones in the least. He had already collected enough satisfaction for one day. He had yielded only two hits in five innings. He had fanned Babe Ruth twice and Lou Gehrig once. After that sort of treatment the Babe withdrew to give his cold some attention.

Hits bounced off the Sox bats with such regularity that even Manager Fonseca thought he was seeing double, but the choicest was Evar Swanson's contribution. He cleaned up the full house left by Gomez by tripling off MacFayden in the second. The ex-collegian also singled once, walked twice and crossed the plate three times. That was notice that he wasn't at all scared by the team's acquisition of Earl Webb for possible duty in right field. Next in attacking activity was Al Simmons, whose double and two singles let him in for his best day since April 18, when he did the same against the Tigers.

Give Gomez Fair Warning.

As a gentle hint of what they had in mind for Gomez, the Sox touched off two hits in the first inning, and because they were preceded by a pair of passes, two runs resulted. Hayes led off with three strikes. The walks went to Haas and Swanson. Simmons lined a single over short to score Haas and put Swanson on third. Appling singled to center and Swanson hiked home. The fun ceased abruptly when Dykes grounded into a double play.

Kress' single at the start of the noisy second put Gomez on the slide for keeps. Red was forced by Berry, but Jones revived the attack with a single through short. Hayes slashed a single past Gehrig, scoring Berry and sending Jones to third. When Haas walked, filling the bases, Manager McCarthy decided to call Gomez in out of the cold. Rescuer MacFayden pitched once to Swanson, who smashed the ball into the right field corner for a triple, precipitating a parade of Jones, Hayes, and Haas across the plate. Swanson scored the fifth and last run of the riot while MacFayden was tossing out Simmons.

Two More for Sox.

MacFayden suffered another spasm in the third before getting straightened out on the job at hand. He walked Dykes to open the inning and Kress slapped a single to right. Berry's sacrifice moved the two runners ahead and Jones fanned. Hayes stepped in at the proper moment with a single to center, Dykes and Kress scoring. Haas added a single to the excitement, but nothing came of it because Swanson closed the inning with a roller to Gehrig.

Jones had various difficulties to leap over before the Yankees finally scored

ESSENTIAL WINS FROM VERY WELL AT SPORTSMAN'S

Dr. Parrish Finishes 3d in Feature.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

It was almost another big day for Ald. John Coughlin and his First ward friends, for Very Well just failed to follow the example set on Tuesday by Lillian Tobin, another member of the alderman's stable. Like Lillian Tobin, Very Well had taxed the patience of his owner, having started 18 times last year and 12 times this season without scoring a victory. For a few seconds yesterday it seemed that Very Well might repay Mr. Coughlin for this patience. He raced in a contending position throughout the seven furlongs, but his closing rush fell just short of victory.

Barashkova Takes Lead.

The field of five got away to a good start and Jockey Moore rushed Barashkova to the front, with Very Well second and Essential third. Dr. Parrish, the 7 to 5 favorite, was running fourth in the early stages and Deemster was bringing up the rear.

After going a half mile Dr. Parrish moved into third position and they raced down the back stretch with Barashkova still setting the pace. Going on to the lower bend, Jockey Carroll began moving up on the outside with Essential. He passed Dr. Parrish and Very Well and drew up on even terms with Barashkova as they headed into the home stretch. Barashkova soon dropped back, but 50 yards from home Very Well came up again and Dr. Parrish closed with a rush. As they crossed the finish line, Essential was in front by a head and Very Well held a margin of a nose over Dr. Parrish.

This was Essential's second victory of the meeting. He paid $13.00 to win, $7.92 to place and $3.72 to show. Place and show tickets on Very Well were worth $12.46 and $3.74, respectively. Dr. Parrish paid $2.66 to show.

Those in the crowd of 5,000 who held daily double tickets on My Desire and Bad Axe collected $308.66. My Desire had little trouble winning the second race, after breaking on top and opening up a lead of three lengths on the club house turn. The filly continued in fine stride to win breezing by a margin of five lengths, with Oh Yeah second and The Abbot third. In the $2 mutuels, My Desire paid $20.38 to win, $10.30 to place and $6.24 to show.

Bad Axe Sets Pace.

In winning his half of the daily double, Bad Axe also set the pace all the way, but was forced to step right along at a speedy clip to keep ahead of the favorite, One Long Hop, which raced in a contending position throughout.

Saving much ground on the last turn, Tennywood came up along the rail to take second place from One Long Hop by the margin of a nose, but failed by a length to overtake the leader. Bad Axe paid $19.32 to win.

Charley O Is Entered in Illinois Derby

The $5,000 Illinois Derby to be run at Aurora on May 20 is going to be quite a horse race after all and it may attract as many as a dozen starters, the nomination list indicated yesterday.

The entry of Mrs. R. M. Eastman's Charley O. was received yesterday and the entry of Sarada, which was kept out of the Kentucky Derby, was promised during the day. Sarada still is in the west.

TIGER RALLIES IN 9TH FAIL; MACKS WIN TWO GAMES

Philadelphia Takes First, 3-2; Second, 6-4.

Detroit, Mich., May 10.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics neared the .500 mark in the standings today by winning a double header with Detroit. The Athletics took the first game, 3 to 2, and the second, 6 to 4.

While the Tigers outhit the Athletics, 8 to 5, in the opener, the Macks bunched their hits, and Marbarry added the necessary walks to give Philadelphia victory. Merritt Cain worked throughout the first game, while Marbarry gave way to Whitlow Wyatt at the start of the eighth inning. Johnson's homer in the seventh inning for the A's was the high spot of the game. Tiger rallies in the ninth inning in both games fell short.

Cleveland, O., May 10.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians made only six hits off Lefty Weiland today, but took advantage of three errors to win the first game of the series with the Boston Red Sox, 4 to 2. Although Willis Hudlin yielded one more hit than his pitching rival he would have had a shutout except for a wild throw by Johnny Burnett that let two Boston runners score in the third. Score:

POP WARNER IN CHICAGO ON WAY BACK TO COAST

Glenn S. [Pop] Warner, former head football coach at Stanford university who resigned last winter to accept a similar position at Temple university, Philadelphia, passed through Chicago yesterday on his way to the Pacific coast. Warner has just finished conducting spring practice at Temple.

"Seasoned material for next fall is scarce," Warner said. "Most of the positions will be filled by sophomores, but we hope to have a first rate eleven in a couple of years."

MOON MULLINS—THE OUTCASTS

Marek, Ward Face Test in Benefit Show

The four bouts which will precede the intersectional matches between the Missouri valley amateur boxing team and a Chicago squad at the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night were arranged yesterday. Two weights will be represented — welterweights and middleweights. Pairings will be by lot. Welterweights are: Nestor Bruggman, Jules Candraco, John Plovonitch, and Jack De Kovic. Knute Christianson, John Liston, Mike De Kovic, and Chris Schussler will comprise the middleweight group.

The valley boxers are scheduled to workout at Trafton's gymnasium this afternoon. The coach appears to be uncertain about the result of all but two of the bouts. In these the two Irishmen on the team—Dick O'Connor, light heavyweight, and Pat Kissinger, lightweight—claim an edge over their Chicago foes. Max Marek, Golden Gloves and National A. A. U. champion, is to face O'Connor, and Edward Ward, another Golden Gloves titleholder, will meet Kissinger.

Kissinger may be remembered by local fans as the boy who whipped an old Chicago favorite, Tony Muscarello, at Kansas City, Mo., two years ago, when a featherweight.

Two professional shows will be presented tonight, one at Kid Howard's gymnasium, 116 Madison street, and the other at the Coulon club, 1154 East 63d street. The card at Howard's gymnasium follows: Jackie Schweitzer vs. Johnny Terry, Joe Feldman vs. Bobby Vernon, Joe Palazzola vs. Joey Haines, Frank Sigillo vs. Johnny Reba, Carl Scalise vs. Kid Greer, Eddie Evans vs. Vince Perino. The other bill is: Curtis Mills vs. Joe Reese, Mennen Kumis vs. Young Pino, Oren Miller vs. Savas Garcia, James Jenkins vs. George Williams, Arthur Greer vs. Johnny Brown, Frank Walsh vs. Hassan Ahmed [wrestling].

Johnny Phagan will try for a knockout against Jackie Purvis at the Cicero stadium tomorrow night. He is a hard right hand puncher and if he lands squarely on Purvis he may stop him. Prior to losing a decision to Jackie a month ago, Phagan had scored three knockouts and won four decisions. Some critics think that Purvis will win again and others contend that Phagan is improving while Purvis has reached his peak.

George Haberski, C. Y. O. bantamweight champion in 1931, and Harry Booker, featherweight champion of the C. Y. O. in 1932, both of whom weigh in at 132 pounds, will make up the feature bout of the weekly boxing show at the Catholic Youth center tonight.

Tom Pacetti, runnerup to Max Marek in the light heavyweight ranks, will take on Tom Kenneally; Tony Caputo will meet Sammy Scoglio, and Bob La Monti will face Bob Ahern. The card:

118—Santiago Demasco vs. Mike McCann.
126—Joe Wiley vs. Tom Starns.
126—Tony Caputo vs. Sam Scoglio.
126—George Conlon vs. Floyd Walker.
147—Bob La Monti vs. Bob Ahern.
175—Tom Pacetti vs. Tom Kenneally.
126—George Haberski vs. Harry Booker.

The first card of the season at the Northwest stadium will be offered on May 24. Eddie Gill, St. Charles, Ill., middleweight, and Freddy Langford of the south side will meet in the six round windup.

MOTORCYCLES TO RACE UPHILL AT CARY ON MAY 21

The annual motorcycle hill climb sponsored by the Windy City Motorcycle club of Chicago will be staged at Cary, Ill., May 21. This climb is the first of a series in which the riders will compete for the national championship.

The motorcycles used in these events are of special design, built to defy the steepest grades. Official rules compiled by the American Motorcycle association govern competition.

Andy Koslow, Syl Polacek, and Frank Liigequist of Chicago are among the hill climbers who will compete. Other contestants will be Stan McClintock, Herb Reiber, and Al Henricks of Milwaukee, Joe Petrali, Los Angeles; Don Smith, Port Arthur, Tex.; and Orie Steel, Paterson, N. J.

Bolton Introduces A. A. U. Boxing Bill in House

Springfield, Ill., May 10.—[Special.]—Representative John M. Bolton [Dem., Chicago] today introduced in the lower house of the general assembly the amateur boxing bill indorsed by the A. A. U. It was referred to the committee on license and regulation of which Representative William W. Powers [Dem., Chicago] is chairman. The committee probably will act on in at its first meeting, tomorrow or next Tuesday.

WHITE SOX.

With the season nearly a month old, Chicago's White Sox have been the outstanding team of the American league in comparison with past performances of recent years. Their present standing does not warrant expectation, or even hope, of a pennant. They may not finish in the first division with at least six squads striving for the first four notches.

LEW FONSECA.

Yet wherever the south siders finish, they are doing things and reviving interest, only partially dormant, of perhaps the most loyal body of rooters in the country. What other team could have retained so much popularity through those many lean years since the Black Sox scandal of 1919?

If White Sox partisans admit absence of hope for a league title, it is not lack of loyalty, nor is that admission more than temporary as a preliminary to a build-up. Weak teams may strengthen—sometimes—in three ways. That is by purchase of players from other clubs willing to sell, and only few clubs are willing to sell; by trades, and by purchase and development of minor leaguers. All three methods are uncertain of successful results.

Manager Lew Fonseca has been a daring trader. Some of his deals have been criticized. It is interesting to read, therefore, his words appearing in the current, 25th anniversary, number of Baseball Magazine, under the heading "What the Public Doesn't See in a Big League Trade." Quoting him, in part:

"Something had to be done. . . . One cannot expect to have it all his own way in a trade. Often he is obliged to give up more player value than he would like to do. . . . Under my management the team did not, apparently, improve so much. True, we got out of last place, but that was partly due to the misfortunes of the Red Sox. Anyway we got out.

"A club can improve considerably before it climbs in the percentages. It can develop something resembling morale. It can put up a better fight. It can play smarter baseball. A defeat 6 to 4 looks just as bad as a defeat 6 to 3. But that difference of one run may mean a considerable improvement. They may not be winning more victories but they are getting in shape to win more victories.

"Broadly speaking, a big league trade is engineered with the one object of getting a player of a certain type that is needed on that ball club. This man may not hit as well as the man you trade, but he has something that the manager needs, something designed to add to the strength of the team. . . . The public pays rather too much respect to batting averages.

"It seemed strange to some people that I let one or two good hitters go when we specially needed batting punch. That is true, but we needed other things even more. A winning team is a fast team that can think quickly and is good on the defense. That's the kind of team I am trying to gather together."

Indiana's Track Title Hopes Hinge on Mile and Two Mile

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Indiana's bid for its first outdoor conference track title in the 33d renual of the games May 19 and 20 at Dyche stadium may rest on the number of points the Hoosiers score in the or and two mile races. Indiana now has won the indoor meet twice in succession and its victories were due largely to these races.

Henry Brocksmith won both indoor races in 1932 and Indiana defeated Michigan by a fraction of a point. Brocksmith set all time records in both. Three months later Brocksmith won both races outdoors, but Indiana could place only third. Michigan was the victor with Ohio State second. This year in the indoor meet Cliff Watson won the two mile race and Charles Hornbostel took second place in the mile, their combined nine points assisting materially in Indiana's triumph.

Hornbostel's Mile Best.

Since then Hornbostel, who is almost a certainty in the half mile race, has run the fastest mile outdoors in the g Ten. He was timed in 4:15.1 at Lafayette in a triangular meet between Indiana, Illinois and Purdue, defeating Dean Woolsey of Illinois, the indoor mile champion. Whether Hornbostel can win these events outdoors is another problem, for he will have only one hour's rest between the mile, which starts the meet, and the half mile.

The same time situation will handicap Watson, indoor two mile champion. Watson entered the outdoor mile last year, but failed to place. He came back an hour later and finished third in the two miles.

Michigan will furnish a threat in both races. Bill Hill, who finished second in the two miles a year ago, but who was unable to place in the indoor meet, is improving. He was beaten by a team mate, Red Howell in this race in the dual meet against Ohio State last Saturday. Bill Howell, another Wolverine, was third. Then there's George Wright, who set the Big Ten record in 1931. Wright failed to place last year, but he finished third in the 1932 indoor two miles.

Mile May Be Surprise.

Indiana also will have Don Neese, who trailed Watson in the two miles indoors. John Currell of Minnesota also must be considered. Sufresne and West of Illinois beat out Neese last Saturday at Lafayette.

The mile isn't going to be a two man affair between Woolsey and Hornbostel by any means. For instance, last Saturday Bill Howell ran a 4:20.1 mile in the Ohio State-Michigan meet. Jack Childs, a team mate, was second with time that indicates he may break into the conference scoring. Popejoy of Purdue, fourth in the indoor mile, won his preliminary race in 4:29.5. He hasn't done as well outdoors.

There remain other runners who are not as well known, any of whom may spring a surprise as Wright did in 1931 in his record two mile race.

Previous Results

FOLLOWING are the results of the one mile and two mile races in the 1932 outdoor conference meet and the 1933 indoor meet:

1932 OUTDOOR MEET.

One mile—Won by Brocksmith, ind.; Wolfe, Mich., second; Sears, Purdue, third; Neese, Ind., fourth; Trott, Iowa, fifth. Time, 4:21.1. [Record, 4:15.8 by Fall, Oberlin, 1917].

Two miles—Won by Brocksmith, Ind.; Hill, Mich., second; Watson, Ind., third; Currell, Minn., fourth; Cortwright, Wis., fifth. Time, 9:37.9. [Record, 9:21.9 by Wright, Wis., 1931].

1933 INDOOR MEET.

One mile—Won by Woolsey, Ill.; Hornbostel, Ind., second; Howell, Mich., third; Popejoy, Purdue, fourth. Time, 4:15.2. [Record, 4:12.5, by Brocksmith, Ind., 1932.]

Two miles—Won by Watson, Ind.; Neese, Ind., second; Wright, Wis., third; Currell, Minn., fourth. Time, 9:26.1. [Record, 9:18.4 by Brocksmith, Ind., 1932].

Sox Hammer Gomez, Whip Yanks, 10-2

in the sixth. The battle started with Kress fumbling Combs' roller, but Sewell hit into a double play. Gehrig opened the second inning with a single, and a passed ball put him on second base with none out, but Jones wriggled out of this jam. Dykes kept the third a hitless inning by making a diving one handed catch of a low drive by Combs. The second Yank hit off Jones didn't show up until Crosetti beat out a roller to short in the fifth. This happened with one out and was followed by a double play.

Jones Becomes Generous.

Jones put two out of the way in the sixth before losing his control and opening the way to the Yanks' first run. He walked both Byrd, who had supplanted Ruth, and Gehrig. Chapman hoisted a fly to short center, and Haas, after a mad sprint, dove to get his hands on the ball, but couldn't hang on. The hit let Byrd score, but Gehrig, who also tried to get him, was nipped on the throw in, Appling to Jones to Berry. The run the Yankees scored in the seventh was put together by Lazzeri's single, Crosetti's double, and an infield out.

Before MacFayden withdrew from the game the Sox frisked him for another run in the sixth, but it wasn't altogether his fault. After two were disposed of Swanson singled to left and Simmons drove a two-bagger past Gehrig. Swanson raced around to the plate and would have been nailed easily but Jorgens let the throw in bounce to the stand.

GREGORY VS. ALLEN

For the final of the series today Joe McCarthy, manager of the Yankees, is going to start Johnny Allen, who has been somewhat of an invalid all spring. Paul Gregory will draw the Sox assignment.

Gomez was the first southpaw started against the Sox this season. Five hits off him in one and one-third innings indicates there is something to the old theory about left handed throwers being meat for right side hitters. The only Sox regular batting from the portside is Mule Haas.

Manager Fonseca's injured right foot is showing such marked improvement that he now hopes to be able to get into the opening game of the eastern tour at Philadelphia next Tuesday. Pitcher Ed Durham, the only other Sox cripple, also reports he is about ready to resume work. He has had a ten day rest and most of the soreness has vanished from his right arm.

Before the game Simmons lighted a match and burned all the wooly fuzz off the visor of his baseball cap. He figured he could see pitched balls better.

Jones pitched only three balls to fan Ruth in the fourth. Two were perfect curves over the inside corner and above the knees. The Babe merely looked at 'em as they went past. Then Jones threw a slow ball through the same hole. The Babe swung, but not in the right place.

Jones has compiled a handsome record for a 40 year old. He has won three times in four starts. He withdrew from a game with the Tigers after the tying run had scored with two out in the ninth. In 35 2-3 innings of pitching he has yielded 25 hits and six runs.

BY BOB BECKER.

Mr. fisherman, here is some information to put in your tackle box. It gives you tips on the age of fish when compared to their length. Nearly every angler has a desire to know how long it takes for a muskie to attain a legal length of 30 inches [Wisconsin law] or how old a legal length walleye is.

Now the story can be told as a result of the growth studies conducted by Chancey Juday and Edward Schneberger of the Wisconsin geological and natural history survey. These men have examined the scales of more than 1,100 game fish during the last few years in order to determine the age of these fish. Inasmuch as fish develop growth rings on their scales it is possible to count each summer and winter in the fish's life by reading its scales.

In studying the muskalonge it was found that, generally speaking, it takes six summers to produce a 30 inch, or legal length, muskie. At least, 71.5 per cent of legal length muskies studied had reached the 30 inch limit in their sixth summer. Therefore we can remember that a 30 inch muskie is usually a "6 year old." A 30-35 to 42 inch muskie can be considered a 7 year old fish. The average muskie measuring from 41 to 53 inches may be 10 years old. In other words, there are fast growing and slow growing fish just as there are humans who develop slowly or fast, as the case may be.

The investigators examined some muskies only 31.5 inches long which were 10 years old, while other 10 year old specimens had reached a length of 53.5 inches. Another interesting muskie fact to be remembered is this: A 60.5 inch muskie taken from Teal lake near Hayward, Wis., was found to be in its 19th summer. It weighed 42 pounds. Therefore, a pretty safe generalization is that a 5 foot muskie has seen anywhere from 18 to 21 summers. This gives us some idea of how long a fish must escape natural hazards and spoon lures to grow into the whopper class.

With respect to other game fish these facts are important. A walleye 13 inches long is usually in its fourth summer. It takes a large mouth black bass in a Wisconsin lake from four to seven summers to reach a length of ten inches. The pickerel or northern pike usually reaches legal length [16 inches] in the fourth summer. A 49 inch pickerel weighing 20.5 pounds was found to be 14 years old.

NOTRE DAME IS VICTOR OVER IOWA NINE, 8-5

Notre Dame, Ind., May 10.—[Special.]—Notre Dame defeated Iowa's baseball team, 8 to 5, in the first of a two game series today. Jim Leonard allowed Iowa only nine hits. Iowa bunched two singles, a triple by Reigert, and an error for three runs in the first inning.

A six run rally in the fifth, featuring doubles by Palmisani and Kane and five singles, gave Notre Dame a comfortable lead. Palmisani had two doubles and a single in four trips to the plate and started two double plays. He drove in three runs. Score:

Coals, Florals Meet Sunday in Twin Bill

The Spencer Coals, who opened the Wisconsin-Illinois league season last week with a victory over Logan Squares, will meet the Duffy Florals in a double header at Shewbridge field Sunday. The Chicago Firemen will play one game at Logan Square. At Mills stadium the Mills team engages the House of David in a double header, while Douglas McWeeny and his Aurora team oppose the American Clowns. The Madison Blues are not scheduled.

There are two professional baseball coaches playing ball on the Mills team. Paddy Driscoll, one time football star at Northwestern and later with the Chicago Bears, is athletic director at St. Mel High school and Lou Weintraube, third baseman, is coach at Marshall High.

The addition of Malcolm Moss, former Cub left handed pitcher, to the staff of the Logan Squares gives the Squares four attorneys. The other three are Eddie Fallon, first baseman, Joe Witry, catcher, and Johnny Bordes, third baseman.

The Colored All Stars believe they have strengthened the team both in attack and defense this year because of the addition of Johnny Hines, who plays short or third. Last year he was a star with the American Giants.

Red Smith, catcher for the Madison Blues, was a star guard at Notre Dame a few years ago under Knute Rockne. He spent a season with the New York Giants.

The Spencer Coals are rated strong contenders for the Wisconsin-Illinois league championship because of the pitching of Joe Maley. He shut out the Logan Squares with four hits Maley pitched for the St. Paul team of the American Association and was tried out by the Yankees.

ENGLAND'S DAVIS CUP TEAM WINS, BUT NOT EASILY

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Completion of the first round of Davis cup competition in the European zone yesterday saw the favored teams easily qualified for second round play, with England and Italy still ranked as the teams to beat in the upper half of the draw and Germany, Japan, Australia, and South Africa in the lower.

England is paired against Finland in the second round and Italy against Austria. Germany meets Holland, Japan plays Ireland, Australia plays Norway and South Africa goes against Switzerland.

Germany overwhelmed Egypt without the loss of a set, and Japan won easily from Hungary, but England was none too impressive in turning back Spain, and Italy dropped a match to a weak Jugoslav squad.

The second round draw, upper half, is: Greece-Rumania, Monaco-Czechoslovakia, Finland-England, Austria-Italy. The draw in the lower half is: Germany-Holland, Ireland-Japan, Norway-Australia, and South Africa-Switzerland.

The second round series are to be played within the next two weeks.

Austin and Crane Win in West Section.

Chicago Latin, 9; Morgan Park, 1.

Lane Tech, Chicago Public High School league baseball champion, scored its second victory in the north section by defeating Lake View, 7 to 3, at Logan Square park yesterday. Piatowski and Cavaretta pitched for the champions and yielded seven hits. Lane Tech collected eleven safeties off three Lake View pitchers, Resnak, Kroeger, and Tatara.

Austin and Crane Tech won in two west division games. Austin, with Reid allowing only four hits, routed Marshall, 9 to 1, while Crane rallied in the last three innings to triumph over Harrison, 6 to 3.

Calumet Wins, 7 to 0.

Ennis, star Calumet pitcher, yielded only two hits as Calumet shut out Morgan Park, 7 to 0, in a south section game. Parker defeated Fenger, 6 to 3, scoring two runs in the first inning and four more in the fourth. Fenger scored its only runs in the sixth inning.

Competition was resumed in the Suburban league with one game. Proviso, trailing, 1 to 0, until the fourth inning, rallied to defeat New Trier, 4 to 1, at Winnetka.

FRANK BELKNAP, PATENT LAWYER, DIES IN NEW YORK

Won 8 Million Dollars for Mrs. Armour.

Frank L. Belknap, well known patent lawyer with offices in Chicago and Washington, D. C., died of a cerebral hemorrhage yesterday in New York. His residence was the Drake hotel. Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning in New York. Mr. Belknap was 52 years old.

Mr. Belknap helped to obtain eight million dollars for Mrs. J. Ogden Armour in 1931 from an investment of her husband's that was believed to have been worthless. Mr. Belknap recognized the value of the patent held by Carbon P. Dubbs of Wilmette and induced Mr. Armour to back the venture. The patent was for an oil cracking process, invented by Jesse A. Dubbs, father of Carbon.

As attorney for the Universal Oil Products company, in which Mrs. Armour was interested, Mr. Belknap went through lengthy litigation, resulting in victory over the American Stainless Steel company.

Born in Manchester, Ia., Mr. Belknap was educated at the University of Michigan and played on the football team there. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jane Collins Belknap, two daughters, Letitia and Frances Belknap, and two brothers, William J. Belknap of Detroit and Charles B. Belknap of Toledo, both patent attorneys.

Mr. Belknap was a member of the Mid-day and Illinois Athletic clubs of Chicago, University clubs of Los Angeles and Washington, Congressional Country club of Washington, and Westchester Country club of New York.

CRIMINAL COURT.

The trial of Ralph O'Hara, business agent of the Motion Picture Operators' union, for the murder of Fred J. Oser, leader of a rebel faction of the union, was set for May 22 by Judge James F. Fardy in the Criminal court yesterday.

O'Hara, dapper in a blue ensemble, appeared with Thomas Maloy, chief business agent of the union; Attorney Michael J. Ahern, and 25 members of the union. Attorney Ahern asked for an early trial. Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty asked for the continuance yesterday as he is engaged in another trial. Judge Fardy said the case will take precedence over all others on May 22.

O'Hara is charged with the killing of Oser, who was found shot to death in O'Hara's offices at 506 South Wabash avenue on March 24. O'Hara claimed self-defense. He was exonerated by a coroner's jury but later was indicted by the grand jury.

Mrs. Clara Whiddon, 96, Doctor's Widow, Is Dead

Chicago friends were informed yesterday of the death of Mrs. Clara G. Whiddon, 96 years old, at Bound Brook, N. J. With her husband, Dr. Philon C. Whiddon, she came to Chicago about 1870 and lived here until 1921. Dr. Whiddon practiced medicine on the west side for thirty years. He died in 1900. Mrs. Whiddon is survived by a daughter and a son. Funeral services will be held at Bound Brook tomorrow.

TWO ARE KILLED AS MOTORCYCLE STRIKES A TRUCK

Two men were killed yesterday when the motorcycle on which they were riding struck a rut and crashed into a truck at Western avenue and Dakin street. The victims are Harry Hollingsworth, 25 years old, 3535 Lincoln avenue, owner of a motorcycle repair shop, and Henry Scheibner, 18 years old, 1903 Addison street. Ulysses Brooks, 30 years old, 2217 Maypole avenue, driver of the truck, was not held.

Three other deaths yesterday raised the Cook county motor toll to 317 for the year. The victims:

Roy Schinell, 66 years old, 3629 West 64th street. Died in the county hospital of injuries suffered when struck by an automobile at South Lawndale avenue and West 63d street Tuesday.

Edgar C. Rea, 51 years old, 733 West Van Buren street. Died in West Suburban hospital of injuries incurred yesterday morning when struck by an automobile at Ridgeland avenue and Harrison street, Oak Park. The driver, Mrs. Orion C. Glover, 214 Le Moyne parkway, Oak Park, was not held.

Casimir Chrobaczewski, 64, of 1535 Haddon avenue, died at St. Mary's hospital from injuries incurred Tuesday when struck by an automobile at Haddon and North Ashland avenues.

The inquest into the death of Harry Ellis, 17 year old high school student, fatally injured in a collision of two trucks Monday, was continued yesterday to May 25, pending the recovery of four others injured in the accident.

Jesse Jones, Geographical Publisher, Dies in Hospital

Jesse R. Jones, general manager of the Geographical Publishing company, 621 Plymouth court, died yesterday in Highland Park hospital following an operation. He was 40 years old, and lived at 193 Roger Williams avenue, Highland Park. Mr. Jones was born in Richmond, Ind. He lived in Chicago most of his life. Surviving are his widow, Florence, and four children, Thomas, Elizabeth, Margaret and Dottie. Services will be held at 2 p m. tomorrow from the residence.

BANDIT INSPECTS SHOP BOOKS, THEN ROBS MANAGER

A well dressed man about 28 years old entered the Gay Time frock shop at 4758 Sheridan road yesterday at noon and asked a clerk, Miss Rose Levine, to direct him to the manager. Informed the manager was out, he drew a pistol.

"You'll do," he said to the clerk; "give me the money."

Dissatisfied because there was only $13 in the cash register, the robber examined the books and determined there should be a great deal more money in the shop. He then announced he would wait, and, choosing two dresses, compelled Miss Levine to wrap them for him.

Shortly afterward the manager, Mrs. May Schlesinger, and two customers arrived. Mrs. Schlesinger, threatened with death, gave the bandit $114 she had hidden in a file cabinet. Taking this and the dresses and warning the women they'd be shot if they attempted to raise an alarm, he fled.

Several hours later a police squad pursued and fired on a man believed to have been this robber near Hazel street and Buena avenue. He escaped. A man with the suspect was arrested. He is John Howard, 29 years old, 4065 Sheridan road. Howard declared he did not know the name of the suspect.

HOLD RITES FOR DESCENDANT OF PRES. JACKSON

Funeral services of Mrs. Lenora Outland, a great granddaughter of President Andrew Jackson, were held yesterday at the chapel at 200 Erie street, with burial in Memorial Park, Evanston. Mrs. Outland died Monday in her home at 661 North Michigan avenue. She was 66 years old.

Her greatgrandfather, Josiah Higgins, fought with General Washington in the revolution and was given a grant of land on the Ohio river, now known as Higginsport, O. Mrs. Outland is survived by a son, Hadley Outland, Chicago voice instructor, and a daughter, Mrs. Helen Outland Spadoni, whose husband, Giacomo, is now directing opera in Detroit.

ELIZABETH WARE, CHICAGOAN FOR 78 YEARS, DEAD

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Ware, daughter of the late Robert M. Law, a pioneer Chicago coal merchant, died yesterday at her home at 210 East Pearson street after an illness of several years. She was 79 years old.

Mrs. Ware was born in Galena, but moved to Chicago when less than one year old, first living on Park Row, now Eleventh place. In 1897 she was married to Dr. Lyman Ware who died in 1916.

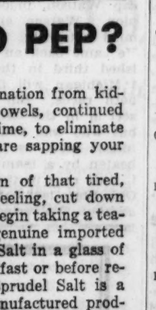
She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. William S. Warfield, Mrs. Charles C. Shedd, and Mrs. Samuel J. Walker. The funeral will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock at Graceland chapel.

BEG YOUR PARDON

It was incorrectly stated in THE TRIBUNE of Wednesday morning that August W. Miller, former sanitary district trustee, was fined $2,000 and sentenced to six months in the county jail at the time Timothy J. Crowe and Frank J. Link, also former trustees, were found guilty of criminal conspiracy. Mr. Miller, although indicted with the other trustees, was completely cleared at the trial. John T. Miller, a department superintendent employed by the sanitary district, was the man fined and sentenced.

MARIA THERESA OF AUSTRIA DIES IN POLAND AT 70

WARSAW, Poland, May 10.—(AP)—The Archduchess Maria Theresa of Austria, widow of Archduke Charles Stephan, died today at Zywiec castle. The archduke died several weeks ago.



ARCHDUCHESS MARIE THERESA.

The archduchess, who was 70 years old, was involved in litigation in the United States a few years ago in connection with the $400,000 diamond necklace given by Emperor Napoleon I. to the Empress Marie Louise of Austria on the birth of their son, L'Aiglon.

The necklace was sold by the agent of the archduchess, its owner, to David M. Michel, New York jeweler. Subsequently Maria Theresa complained that she had not received the proper amount from her agent. The controversy finally was settled by the return of the necklace and an agreement to reimburse the jeweler.

BOY, 2, KILLED BY ELEVATOR IN ORPHANAGE

A 2 year old boy was killed yesterday in St. Vincent's orphanage, 721 North La Salle street, when he was crushed between a suddenly ascending automatic elevator and the shaft wall.

Three boys and two nurses were already in the elevator, which was at the fourth floor, when the 2 year old appeared in charge of another nurse. As he stepped into the elevator, with the nurse just behind him, it started upward, catching him. The nurse just missed being caught.

Miss B. L. Healy, chief investigator for St. Vincent's, said the accident was undoubtedly caused by a fault in the elevator. She said the cage is not supposed to move when the doors are open as they were when the boy was killed.

ALWAYS TIRED? NO PEP?

Do you hate to get up in the morning . . . feel that everything is too much effort . . . and fall asleep long before bedtime? You need the Carlsbad Cure—famous all over the world for over five hundred years. You need cleaning out—not a drastic one-shot purge of the bowels alone, but a gentle elimination from kidneys as well as bowels, continued over a period of time, to eliminate the poisons that are sapping your vitality.

At the first sign of that tired, "achey," "all-in" feeling, cut down on rich foods and begin taking a teaspoonful of the genuine imported Carlsbad Sprudel Salt in a glass of water before breakfast or before retiring. Carlsbad Sprudel Salt is a natural, not a manufactured product, obtained from the world-famous springs of Carlsbad (Czechoslovakia). It has been prescribed for years by prominent physicians for the relief of ills that accompany imperfect elimination—general lassitude, hyperacidity, constipation, obesity, rheumatic afflictions, diseases of the liver, gallbladder and kidneys. Taken regularly it will soon correct intestinal and functional sluggishness and put your system in a clean, wholesome condition. All druggists sell the genuine, natural Carlsbad Sprudel Salt—concentrated for economy. Do not take artificial substitutes.

URGE NATIONAL BODY TO DIRECT HOME BUILDING

Chicago's two day National Conference on Renewal of Home Building ended yesterday at the Congress hotel with recommendation that a national housing conference board be formed to encourage residential building and home ownership along sound lines. The committee on resolutions, of which Alfred K. Stern, head of the Illinois housing commission, is chairman, urged the appointment of a committee of fifteen widely representative of the various viewpoints of those interested in housing.

Fads in home building and radical new building material were assailed by H. Vandervoort Walsh, professor of architecture at Columbia university, in the session on new materials and methods.

"Too radical and novel changes are in most cases full of trouble yet to be found and there aren't many home owners who can afford them," he said. "We don't scrap our houses every two or three years for a new model. Most of them are expected to last for thirty years or more.

"We have many models, hundreds of years old, at which we look with more pride than we do at some of the latest designs. Home builders should be cautious about untried and untested new materials and methods of construction."

Among the speakers at the afternoon session were A. R. Gardner of the Evanston Home Loan bank, Herbert U. Nelson of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, and J. Soule Warterfield, chairman of the conference.

MARY W. BORDEN DIES AT HOME IN N. Y.; BURIAL HERE

Mrs. Mary W. Borden, widow of William Borden of Chicago, died Tuesday at her home, 439 East 51st street, New York City, according to dispatches. She was 71 years old and had survived her husband by more than twenty years. She is survived by a son, John Borden, formerly of Chicago, who now lives at Grenada, Miss., and two daughters, Mary, the wife of Brig. Gen. Edward L. Spears, who is well known as a novelist under her maiden name, and Joyce, the wife of Zlatko Balokovic, a violinist.

Mrs. Borden was vice president of the Friendly League of Christian Service and a member of the board of tree American Bible society. She was born in Detroit. The late William Borden Jr., Presbyterian minister at Cairo, Egypt, and author of the autobiography "Borden of Yale, '09," was her son. Funeral services will be held at the residence in New York on Saturday. Burial will be in Chicago.

Funeral for Frank Mateer Will Be Held Tomorrow

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

STEEL INDUSTRY TAKES CHEER AS OUTPUT GROWS

Rate Now 31%; Demand Rising.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

A growing spirit of optimism is pervading the iron and steel industry, old barometer of business conditions. In the South Chicago-Calumet-Gary mill region, production is now running at 30 or 31 per cent of capacity, compared with about 15 per cent six weeks ago, or about double.

Two hopeful portents were discerned by the industry in reports made yesterday:

1. The backlog of the United States Steel corporation, according to its monthly summary, showed an increase of 23,572 tons in unfilled orders on the books May 1. It was the first gain shown since last October.

2. The Iron Age, trade authority, said the upward sweep of production, prices and purchases of iron and steel "has not yet been checked." Its index number showed that in the last week national steel output has crept from 29 per cent of capacity to 31 per cent, a gain of two points.

Motor Plants Increase Orders.

The greatest share of the increase has come from the automotive industry, in which in recent weeks there has been a strong demand for the lower and medium priced cars. As explained by mill men, inflation of prices has been a factor. In the period of the bank moratorium the automobile industry in general refrained from putting in new orders, on the probable theory that spring and summer would see a recession in demand.

When the market for new cars took the opposite direction and expanded it found many of the automobile plants with depleted stocks of material and forthwith orders were put in for steel.

The advent of legalized beer, too, also played a part. In addition to the psychological change it effected in folks in general through the removal of federal prohibition upon beer, it produced orders for iron. One steel man reports that much of the increase of activity in the mills is due to automobile bodies and cases for beer bottles.

Reports Broader Buying.

The Iron Age reports that buying of steel and iron all over the country is coming from "an ever widening circle of consumers," such as the makers of washing machines, metal sinks, stoves, refrigerators, and kitchen utensils.

Much of this, according to the trade, is apparently the direct outcome of the Roosevelt inflation policies. As long as prices sagged, they explain, buyers kept from buying, save from hand to mouth, in a belief that prices might drop still lower. When prices began to advance this trade handicap was removed and many consumers began to come into the market to place orders before prices went higher.

The increase in mill activity is perhaps not discernible to the ordinary traveler who passes through the mill regions of the Calumet area. No longer is an expansion seen in smoking chimneys—by-product processes have changed all that.

How Work Is Divided.

In employment, too, the effects of the increase in activity are not noticeable on the surface in the mill towns which were sore hit by the depression, except, perhaps, in a more cheerful point of view. This is perhaps explained by the fact that the iron and steel industry has taken the lead for years in staggering employment, to spread the work over as many employés as possible. Workers have been working a day or two a week, to make the work go as far as possible.

Just now the trade is watching the situation of the railroads, one of the best customers for iron and steel in normal times. Back in 1929, of the total steel and iron output in the United States, the automobile industry took 18 per cent; the railroads 17 per cent, and building and construction 16¼ per cent. It was the first time the automobile trade topped the ladder and pushed the rails out of first place. Of these great consumers which in normal times take 51 per cent of the total output, the automobile industry is the great factor in the present upward swing.

Railroad Orders Appearing.

Orders from railroads, heretofore stagnant, are said to show signs of picking up somewhat, while as to building construction most of the orders are small, dealing mainly with bridges and other improvements, financed by the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The bridge across San Francisco bay will require some 140,000 tons of steel. In ordinary times, under pressure this would be turned out in less than two weeks in the Gary-South Chicago mills. The outlook yesterday was that it will be spread over two years, keeping pace with the bridge construction. Some of the contracts are to come to the Calumet region.

FINANCIAL ADMEN PICK C. L. PRICE AS PRESIDENT

Steel Backlog Gains 23,572 Tons in April

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 10.—Unfilled tonnage of the United States Steel corporation increased 23,572 tons last month to 1,864,574 on April 30, it was reported today.

This was the first gain in five months and while it was generally expected a raise of 50,000 was due, nevertheless it was considered gratifying in that it indicated the steel industry had turned about.

The increase last month was the first reported since October, 1932, when a comparatively small gain was shown. Small increases in that month and in August and September, 1932, constituted the only break in a steady decline in backlog extending over more than a year.

Continues Gain in May.

The increase was rather smaller than some quarters in the street had anticipated, in view of the marked pickup in operations. However, it was pointed out in some steel quarters that business had continued to improve in May, and that the industry was glad to get releases on old orders, which it had feared might be canceled. What the steel business needs for a real revival, trade authorities said, is a pickup in railroad buying and in heavy construction.

The month-end figures for April compared with 2,326,926 tons in the corresponding month of 1932 and 3,897,759 tons in the corresponding period of 1931. The all-time high for United States Steel unfilled tonnage was in excess of 12,000,000 tons, reported in April, 1917, which was the result of world war orders.

Table of Backlog.

DOLLAR RALLIES AFTER OPENING A LITTLE LOWER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 10.—After early weakness the dollar today firmed in the London market near the close and sterling exchange, after opening firm, dropped away to 3.93 from a top of 3.96½. Francs weakened as well in the later dealings and after the close of the market. The local foreign exchange market was quiet and thin.

Foreign speculation in the dollar drove the quotation in London at one time to a top of 3.96. There also was a one point recovery in French francs, which yesterday had moved erratically on reports of France abandoning the gold standard.

Two New Directors Named by Chicago Yellow Cab Co.

The election of James A. Doherty of New York and Ralph E. Stouffer of Chicago as directors of the Chicago Yellow Cab Company, Inc., to fill two vacancies was announced yesterday following the stockholders' meeting held on Tuesday.

A RESTAURANT COUNTS BEANS —AND PROFITS

"We watch the plates when they come back to the kitchen from the tables," he said. "If there is a lot of certain kinds of food on the plate, we know that there is something wrong with the food or we are serving too much. We taste the food. If the food is all right, we cut down the size of the servings.

Another item we watch is butter. If a lot of half used pats come back, we know that the waiters are forcing butter on the patrons in the hope of increasing the size of their tips. Butter is expensive, and we go after the waiters if there is waste.

"It's the small amounts that mean profit or loss for us. So when we serve a plate of beans, the customer gets 347 beans on his plate. He doesn't get 346 and he doesn't get 348. Of course this is figurative, but it does indicate how closely we operate."

* *

Events moved fast yesterday for the retail shopper. One individual reported that at 1 o'clock he went to a furniture store to buy a chest of drawers that he had seen advertised two days before for $12.50. He found it had just been marked up to $16.50.

"Prices are going up," explained the salesman. "Factory won't supply any more at the old price. Everything's going up. Just got word from the factory that future shipments will average 30 per cent higher."

The customer paid the required $17—$16.50 for the chest and a half a dollar for the sales tax. At 5 o'clock, learning that the Supreme court had thrown out the sales tax he went around and got his half dollar back.

A. I. Billiekin, ex-president of the Peruna corporation, patent medicine makers, yesterday filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in federal court. He listed liabilities amounting to 209 times his assets. Liabilities were $405,180, against assets of $1,933. Mr. Billiekin described himself as a salesman. He lives at 1105 Hyde Park boulevard.

La Salle street brokerage houses report an unusual number of buying orders for wheat and stocks from women speculators. Some of them are old timers while others are novices, but so far all appear to have been fairly successful. Some of the larger brokerage houses refuse speculative orders from women.

With the farm bill passed by both houses, and all farm products headed toward a higher level of prices, members of the live stock trade believe it would be a wise policy for the secretary of agriculture to just sit back and permit nature to take its course. It is too late to cut production, and any action he might take pertaining to prices would be injurious, they are convinced.

FORECLOSURES HELD BIG REALTY BOND TROUBLE

N. U. Law School Makes Final Report.

BY AL CHASE.

That the real evil back of real estate mortgage bond reorganization difficulties lies in "the mad scramble to foreclose, to appoint receivers, and to reorganize" is the belief expressed in a report just completed by the Northwestern Law school. And behind the large volume of foreclosures in bond issues lies unsound and illegal financing, it declares.

The report urges in its recommendations as remedies for the present situation that a court of equity pass upon all the reorganization plans and that all bondholders participate on equal terms. It also recommends that legislation be enacted regulating the qualifications of members of bondholders' committees, subjecting their activities to state scrutiny and the making public of bondholders' lists.

Completes Series of Studies.

This is the fifth and last of a series of studies in realty mortgage foreclosures sponsored by the Chicago Real Estate board and directed by Prof. Homer F. Carey of the law school faculty, and John W. Brabner-Smith, a graduate law student, member of the Chicago bar and more recently appointed special assistant attorney general to investigate the mortgage bond situation.

The report impartially blames trustee and committee, with a side wallop at the courts, for the present mortgage situation, in the following frank criticism: "The road which the bond issue foreclosure has taken has been roughly described and it has been a highway strewn with disaster to bondholder and equity owner alike.

Blame Trustee's Failure.

"The failure of the trustee to do what it ought to do, coupled with the promotional activities of many protective committees, ungoverned in their reorganization schemes by the courts, is responsible for this disaster."

"Bondholders' protective committees have frequently disregarded the fiduciary obligations of their trust," the report states. "The dominating elements in their formation and operation are frequently such as to cause the committee to be unfit to assume the obligations of trust. The expense incident to the operation of such committees has been excessive in many instances.

The report raps the custom of withholding cash which should be used for taxes. "Frequently the receiver or trustee has on hand large sums collected as rent from the mortgaged property. Almost invariably taxes are in default and penalties thereon are accruing at the rate of 1 per cent per month. Yet no attempt is made to have that money applied to tax payments."

Bonds Exceed Property Value.

"In some instances the amount of the bond issue now in foreclosure was in excess of the value of the mortgaged property, and in many it was in excess of the amount which sound financing would require. This has been a basic evil.

"Finally, in the mad scramble to foreclose, to appoint receivers, and to reorganize, little if any attention has been paid to the objective. What are we striving to accomplish?

"All that the bondholder desires is: First, a sale of the property for the highest cash amount obtainable; second, honest and capable management which will assure the application of rents and profits to taxes and to interest on the mortgage debt until the sale can be effected."

NORTH WESTERN LOADINGS HOLD ABOVE YEAR AGO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 10.—Loadings of the Chicago and North Western railway this week still are above those of a year ago, President Fred W. Sargent said today.

"With a 20 per cent gain in loadings over 1932," he said, "we would be able to cover fixed charges, and we hope to get this.

"In the very nature of things the country has been due for a revival in business. We have been through four years of under consumption, of wear and tear, depreciation, obsolescence. The time has come when some have had to start buying. Each factory that starts up causes another one in turn to open. The process is just the reverse of the downward movement at the other end of the cycle.

Call Inflation Key to Milder Bank Policy

BY HOWARD WOOD.

That the treasury's adoption of a more lenient policy toward the opening of closed banks in this district may be part of the administration's inflation program was the opinion expressed by a number of financial authorities yesterday.

SEN. A. P. VANDENBERG.

Just how this loosening up process will be brought about is still a secret, but from authoritative sources it was learned some time ago that a scheme was on foot for the Federal Reserve bank to be more generous in deciding upon the type of bank assets that it takes in as security for the new "asset" money that it deals out.

This would help the border line banks, but probably would not result in the reopening of banks whose assets are not even in fair shape.

Vandenburg Is Bank Director.

Senator Vandenberg, one of the group of senators demanding easier bank openings in the Seventh reserve district, it was pointed out, is a director of the Grand Rapids Savings bank, Grand Rapids, Mich., a state bank belonging to the federal reserve system. A conservator has already been appointed for this bank.

One prominent Chicago banking official yesterday made this observation concerning the criticism from Washington about the conservative reopening policy followed in the Chicago reserve district:

"If other reserve districts have reopened a larger proportion of closed banks than this district has, then the answer is that those other districts have taken longer chances than we have.

"A terrific amount of 'heat' has been placed under bank examiners and reserve authorities to reopen weak banks. Every closed bank has political friends and those friends know how to apply pressure. In this district the banking officials have been strong enough to withstand this pressure. In some others they have not been so strong."

Leyburn Explains Situation.

A. P. Leyburn, chief national bank examiner for this district, returned yesterday from a trip to French Lick, Ind., where he has been recovering from a recent illness, but refused to comment on the report that Secretary Woodin had promised to transfer him to another district.

"I can say only that the banks that I have supervised are either sound or they have remained closed," he said. "The banks whose opening I have approved will stay open. I have created no weak spots that need currency inflation or other arbitrary props."

Currency inflation which would cause advances in the prices of the securities held by closed banks would, of course, cast a different light on the matter. The rise in prices during the last few weeks has already restored to good standing loans and investments that were previously "under water."

On the other hand, it would take a lot of inflation to pump life into some of the defaulted real estate loans and investments that sank many a bank.

RECEIVER ASKED FOR FT. DEARBORN LIFE INSURANCE

A petition for receivers for the Fort Dearborn Life Insurance company has been filed in the Circuit court by Attorney General Otto Kerner. The action was taken at the request of Ernest Palmer, superintendent of insurance.

Mr. Palmer also requested the attorney general to take steps to liquidate the Olney-Richland County Relief Association, Centralia, Ill.

The licenses of the Franklin Automobile Mutual Insurance company and the Supreme Chamber of the Majestic Sentinels of Chicago have been revoked by Supt. Palmer. Both concerns are ordered to cease writing insurance.

GLOBE-RUTGERS POLICY HOLDERS OFFERED STOCK

Several thousand policy holders and creditors of Globe and Rutgers Fire Insurance company in the Chicago district yesterday received notice of a plan of reorganization proposed by that company. Under the plan policy holders and creditors would exchange their claims for 6 per cent preferred stock, cumulative after two years, and redeemable at 104. Preferred stockholders would elect two-thirds of the directorate.

PRODUCTION OF ELECTRICITY UP; BEST IN YEARS

Chicago's, Nation's Output Gains.

Electricity output for the week ended May 6 in both the Chicago district and the United States registered a gain over output for the comparable week of 1932.

For the Chicago district the gain, which amounts to 2.0 per cent, to 88,549,000 kilowatt-hours from 86,773,000 for the same week last year, is the first since March, 1931. Last week's output also exceeded that of the preceding week, or 85,031,000 kilowatt-hours.

Nation Best in Three Years.

The output of electric power in the nation showed a gain of 0.5 per cent, to 1,435,707,000 kilowatt-hours, from 1,429,032,000 for the same week of 1932. This is the best showing since June, 1930. Against the seasonal trend, the production for the week ended May 6 was moderately higher than that of the preceding week.

It was stated yesterday that the local improvement was "partly the result of dark and rainy weather this year." The Chicago district includes territory within a radius of fifty miles about Chicago; companies whose figures are used are Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, Commonwealth Edison company, Western United Gas and Electric company, and part of the Public Service Company of Northern Indiana.

Chicago Comparisons.

Week ended—	—K.W.H. Output— 1933.	1932.	Pct. change
May 6	88,549,000	86,773,000	+2.0

Electricity output in the major territorial divisions, with the exception of the Pacific coast, showed improvement in the comparison between figures for last week and those of the same week in 1932. The output for the Atlantic seaboard gained 2.9 per cent over last year, compared with 0.5 per cent in the preceding week. New England's production was also 3.8 per cent higher, compared with 2.5 per cent in the preceding period.

ALPHA—Farmers' State Bank of Alpha.

RESERVE CHIEF

EUGENE R. BLACK.

GEORGIA BANKER SUCCEEDS MEYER AS RESERVE HEAD

New Chief Will Guide Inflation Plan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—Eugene Meyer Jr., long criticized in congress as one of the Mellon group of conservatives which dominated the past administration, stepped out of the governorship of the federal reserve board today to be succeeded by another conservative.

Eugene R. Black, governor of the Atlanta, Ga., federal reserve bank, will succeed Meyer temporarily, it was announced today. Gov. Black, who has been head of the regional reserve bank for five years, is known throughout the south, and is regarded as a conservative banker.

Meyer departed this afternoon to become, as he put it, a Westchester county, N. Y., "apple grower." He said he had no plans other than to return to his farm.

Elevation of Gov. Black is regarded as another move by the President to quiet rumors that his money policies are radical. At the head of the system, which is to furnish the shock troops for inflation through open market credit expansion, Gov. Black will engineer the controlled inflation which the President promised in his radio address Sunday.

STOCKS MOUNT AS INDUSTRIES REPORT PICKUP

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 10.—Gains of 1 to 5 points were made by leading shares on the New York stock exchange today in a fresh outburst of bullish enthusiasm, prompted by news of further improvement in business conditions.

Nearly all the usual midweek trade indicators pointed to better returns. A rise of 23,000 tons in the unfilled tonnage of the United States Steel corporation in April, compared with March, making the first upturn in the figures since last autumn, and a jump in the industry's general operating figures to 31 per cent of capacity; a healthy increase in electric power output and generally higher car loadings were some of the items that stood out in the day's grist of good news.

Market Technically Strong.

Moreover, the market was aided by betterment in technical position, due to desultory selling of the last few days, and this situation helped to supply the initial push in prices. Trading got off to an impressive start, speeded up gradually.

Large blocks of stock appeared at intervals throughout the day and a checkup from time to time showed the ticker lagging as much as five minutes behind floor operations. Activity continued fairly heavy right up to the close, and the final count showed a turnover of approximately 3,800,000 shares, compared with yesterday's total of 2,250,000.

Allied Chemical Soars.

Allied chemical was one of the star performers, scoring a net gain of 5¾ points. Other impressive features were Air Reduction, with a gain of 5 points; Eastman Kodak, up 4⅝; American Can, up 4; Crown Cork and Seal, up 5½, and American Tobacco, up 3 points.

United States Steel common was buoyant and active all day. It came within a fraction of its year's high, and closed at 49⅛ for a net gain of 2¾ points. The preferred bettered its rating by nearly 2 points.

The rails carried on impressively, in spite of indications that the week's car loadings may not top those of the corresponding week of 1932. Buying was pronounced in such issues as Union Pacific, Atchison, New York Central, and the other favorites, and upturns of 1 to 3 points were the rule for the group as a whole.

Utilities moved ahead in a body, due to the brighter power figures. American Telephone, Public Service, Peoples Gas, Consolidated Gas, and others profited more or less handsomely.

BRITONS PROTEST PAYMENT IN U. S. PAPER DOLLARS

Form 'Protective Committee' of Security Holders

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 10.—Action on behalf of British holders of American investments, whether they are government, rail or industrial, will be inaugurated tomorrow morning with a European advertising campaign pursued in Great Britain through six newspapers with national circulations.

Continental dailies also were called in by the organizers for protesting against payment in paper dollars of dividends on securities containing the gold clause.

"To holders of American investments," the advertisement is headed and announces, "a London advisory and protective committee for American investments and interests."

Propagandist a Prime Mover.

One of the prime movers of the campaign is Lieut. Col. Norman G. Thwaites, a member of the British propaganda mission sent to the United States in wartime under Lord Northcliffe. Honorary temporary chairman of the committee is Sir Harry Gloster Armstrong, for many years British consul general in New York.

"It is obvious that individual action for the protection of investors and others interested financially in the United States must be ineffectual compared with combined representation," the advertisement reads. It cites an editorial from a London financial daily urging the formation of an international committee to safeguard the holders of dollar bonds.

Cites "Deplorable Situation."

"But that is only one of the important matters to be dealt with immediately," the statement continues. "Railways, great industrial, financial and mercantile enterprises are in bankruptcy and receivership and in the process of reconstruction; real estate and mortgages are in a most deplorable situation; estates, trusts and legatees are affected. Past experience demonstrates that advantage will be taken of improved conditions to undertake further reconstructions.

"The committee as indicated above has been in the course of formation for some weeks as a temporary committee, but to make it representative of those having substantial United States interests and best informed to advise requires care and time in selection. The activities of the proposed committee should embrace United States investments and interests of every kind."

GRAINS ADVANCE AS FARM RELIEF SUSPENSE LIFTS

WHEAT IN U. S. FUNDS

Wheat prices in leading markets reduced to United States funds at rates of exchange when they closed:

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A stronger technical position was disclosed in grains yesterday and the heavy profit taking of the previous days apparently put the markets in a position to respond rapidly to any increase in buying. Over night developments at Washington were construed as favorable for a higher level of prices and general buying at the start disclosed a lack of pressure.

Wheat opened as much as 1¾ cents higher, and added another fraction later. Corn started 2½ cents higher. The upturn in wheat was checked by selling against offers and by operators who were evening up for the government crop report due after the session closed.

Wheat prices fluctuated rather rapidly within a fair range but at no time were they as low as the finish of the previous day. Houses with eastern connections bought early but others turned sellers on the advance and the greater part of the upturn was lost.

Another Upturn Near Close.

However, aggressive buying developed again toward the close, led by local professionals, and final prices were well toward the top, with net gains of 1¾ to 1⅞ cents. May finished at 71⅛ cents; July, 72¼ to 72⅜ cents; September, 73 to 73⅛ cents, and December, 75⅛ to 75¼ cents.

Assurance that the farm relief bill would become law probably by the end of the current week, as indicated by the action of the senate in adopting the conference report, had considerable influence on sentiment in wheat. Traders favored the buying side strongly on recessions.

Strength in sterling was also a factor, as also was an unexpected advance in Liverpool.

While rapid progress was reported being made in seeding spring wheat in the three Canadian provinces, the work there is still far below normal.

Corn Closes Higher.

Houses with eastern connections were aggressive on the buying side of corn futures and the market disclosed a lack of pressure. Country offerings of cash grain was also light. Commission houses had a steady run of small buying orders throughout the day, with the forecast for fairly general rains over the entire corn belt a factor.

Corn futures backed and filled with in a range of 1 to 1⅛ cents, with the close 1⅞ to 2 cents higher. May was 42¾ cents at the last, with July at 44⅜ to 44⅞ cents and September, 46½ cents.

Trade in other grains showed some improvement, with fairly general buying oats. The latter gained ½ to ¾ cent, with May finishing at 25⅛ cents. July, 25⅝ cents, and September, 25¾ cents. Rye was ½ to 1⅛ cents higher. May was 51½ cents, and July and September, 52⅞ cents at the close. Deliveries on May contracts aggregated 585,000 bushels. Barley closed ½ to ¾ cent higher, with July at 36¾ cents and September, 39 cents.

LARD PRICES ADVANCE IN BROADER TRADING

A wave of buying took hold of the lard market and advanced prices to new high levels, which were well held at the last, there being net gains on futures of 17½ to 25 cents, the close being within 2½ to 5 cents of the top.

Regular cash lard was $6.15, with loose at $5.52½ and leaf $5.50. Liverpool lard was lower and export clearances 358,630 pounds, and of bacon 12,500 pounds. Cash trade in bellies was only fair, with $6.75 as the basis price. There was practically no trade in bellies for future delivery, with May off 7½ cents and July unchanged. Prices follow:

LAMBS SELL AT NEW TOP; CATTLE AND HOGS FIRM

Farmers Rush Live Stock to Market by Truck.

Lambs exhibited a new array of high prices for the year on a buoyant trade yesterday, while hogs and cattle retained the advances scored previously this week, despite the pressure of larger receipts.

Trucks have kept up a steady flow of live stock into the market since early Tuesday morning, and the movement showed no signs of abatement yesterday. They brought in 40 per cent of the cattle receipts on Tuesday, while 67 per cent of the hogs that were on the market that day were hauled in by truck.

Some traders had been anticipating a reaction in prices with the first substantial increase in receipts, but yesterday's satisfactory behavior of the trade under the test, is evidence of the strength behind the advance, commission salesmen contend.

No Live Stock Shortage Expected.

Packing house conditions apparently warrant the higher prices being paid for meat animals, judging from the volume of trading in all divisions of the yards. According to reports from the country, there is very little possibility of an actual shortage of live stock over the summer, notwithstanding the fact that a big portion of the season's hog crop was slaughtered last month.

During April 3,847,293 swine were killed under federal inspection over the entire country, the largest April total on record, with the exceptions of April in 1923 and 1924. Cattle receipts yesterday, at 11,000, were the largest for a Wednesday since the middle of last November.

Trading progressed slowly for a time after the opening, but good action developed in midsession and the close was lively in most classes at generally steady prices compared with the average selling of Tuesday.

Cattle Lack Finish.

The bulk of cattle consisted of medium to good quality steers lacking finish. The best on the market sold at $6.50, while the bulk of steers brought $4.65 to $5.75, and occasional lots of thin ill-bred lightweights sold down to $3.50. Prime 1,466 pound heavies reached $6 and 34 averaging 1,876 pounds sold at $5.

The hog market also opened slow and somewhat topheavy, but took a turn for the better later and closed strong on a new buying wave late in the day. Top sales at $4.30 were not quite up to the peak of Tuesday's market, but the average price of all droves was steady at $4.20.

Lamb prices yesterday equaled the highest point since last July. They were fully $1.25 above the low point three weeks ago and 25 to 30 cents higher than a year ago. Fed western and Colorado fed wooled stock sold to packers at $6.75, the new top. Fall shorn lambs reached $6.65.

OUR COMPANY WILL TAKE ON A LIMITED FEW MEN WHO NEED EMPLOYMENT AND WHO WISH TO TRY TO SEE IF THEY CAN DO THIS WORK. THOSE WHO CAN QUALIFY CAN MAKE $25.00 TO $70.00 PER WEEK IMMEDIATELY. WE WILL TRAIN SUCH MEN FREE. WE WILL FURNISH FULL EQUIPMENT WITH NO DEPOSIT REQUIRED.

Expanding business makes possible this offer—1933 is ahead of 1932 which was by far our biggest year. A similar offer recently gave responsible, adaptable men permanent employment in our organization throughout the entire country. Thus, a former plumber earned over $700 his first 30 days; a former drug clerk made $176.00 his first 24 days; a former merchant made $65 his first 10 days in this work and over $65.00 the following week.

Of innumerable other cases, in our branch offices from coast to coast, of men who proved their qualifications for similar positions and started making money, typical examples are: A former chauffeur made $1,350.00 last month all on business he transacted personally—in this same community a former office worker made $925.00 last month; G. R. a former realty developer, made $425.00 last month after only 2 weeks' experience.

We have no room for drifters or wishers. This is no get-rich-quick scheme. You cannot make money here unless you earn it. Some men will apply to us but fail to fulfill the requirements, but we have found also that many men who never previously even thought they could do work of this kind have found it to be just the opportunity they sought for years, and are now making more money than they ever previously dreamed of making. We have numerous men nationally making up to $7,500.00 a month. Others $600.00, $500.00, and $400.00.

Some of our best men never sold anything before. Our method is to advertise the product, Electrolux [not refrigeration], is so highly salable, so thoroughly amazing in the way it sidesteps the "We have no money" objection, that new sales records are being made every month to the envy and admiration of informed business men here and elsewhere. For instance, our latest local report shows that W. M. made $156 for the week; N. H. P., $67 the same week; E. T. J., $70; D. K., $130, and J. J. C., former book salesman, $85 the same week. L. L., former theatrical man, made $100 the last three days; A. P. F., formerly a construction engineer, $45 yesterday; J. A. B., plastering contractor, $24 yesterday; T. L., former tool and die maker, $73 yesterday; C. G., former salesman, $47 yesterday. J. A. H., former locomotive engineer, made $48 in a single hour and $72.50 was the earning of L. H., a former sewing machine salesman for that same day. R. O., just in this business a previously a typewriter salesman, made $48.50 in first week; A. K., railroad man, with us four months, made $74 last week. D. M., former grocery clerk, doubled his former income his first week with us! These are simply stimulated across-section—of our most recent earnings record locally. You will meet many men who are succeeding generously—others who have started in the recent past and are just getting into the swing of Electrolux success.

The upturn in business the last three or four weeks has tremendously stimulated our already marked success. We have something so important and tangible, it presents its advantages as desirable away above the ordinary in this new era. From now on still greater earnings records will be created. Are YOU prepared to share in this definite success?

If you are of good reputation, active, alert, willing to learn and to work hard every day to make genuine success in return for the privilege, this unique opportunity in a permanent position with good people who will deeply interest themselves in helping you to get started and to get along, make application to the office nearest your residence, calling from 9:00 a. m. to 1:00 noon, Thursday, May 11.

ARE YOU THE MAN?

We offer an unusual opportunity to a man who is seeking a lifetime position where he will be able to earn a large income in the independence of a high type of investment service; experience is unnecessary as we prefer to train the man in our own methods; the main requirement is good personality and an ambition to succeed; if you are the man, phone Franklin 9429 for appointment. Ask for RIVES.
